Dear Sirs:

Your land management plan has gone too, too far this time in targeting 2.5 million acres of public land for devastation via logging. And to put icing on this cake of destruction, you do not discriminate about where you will log ... old growth ... endangered animal habitat ... obviously, you do not care but only answer to the worst environmental protection administration this country has ever had! Global warming, clean water, clean air, fire risk are, obviously, not your concern. I think that your agency is misnamed. You are the Bureau of Mismanagement of our forests and rivers. I can only hope that you and Bush and his logging industry friends lose this one!

Sincerely,

Mary Ellen Holland
