Dear BLM,

I'm writing because I don't believe WOPR Alternative 2 is the right way to manage Oregon's public BLM-managed lands. I moved to Oregon a decade ago because I wanted to enjoy the public forest lands it offered. I came to learn about the old-growth forests and sustainable forest management. Alternative 2 neither preserves old growth forest ecosystems nor practices sustainable management. I urge you, - for the sake of places Oregonians love, drink water from, hunt on, view from afar, and recreate in — to focus your plan revision on thinning managed plantations and not on clear-cutting the few remaining old-growth forests left on BLM land. Please re-evaluate your unsustainable (for clean water, threatened species, and other non-timber resources) harvest levels and be realistic about how you can protect + restore all the public resources important to Oregonians.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Sincerely,

Chandra LeGue
