Dear State Director of Geospatial Services F. David Radford,

Dear Bureau of Land Management ("BLM"),

I'm not sure of you all read these, but I'm going to keep it short and sweet because I'm sure you've got lots to read. My reason for wanting to save this is a little less technical and more emotional, I guess.

In today's US, there are SO little places that people can find sanctuary away from the stresses of the world. The Boundary Waters is one of those places. There no light pollution, water pollution, and it's truly (nearly) untouched by humanity. Don't get me wrong, it would be foolish to imply that everything should be left untouched by humans because everyone benefits so much from things like mining for example, but humanity needs places like this to have available to us, and if we let all of these lands be corrupted, then we lose a little more beauty in our country. We cannot sell out every beautiful this we have to offer because soon the United States will lose its character.

So please consider more than just the facts when making this decision. I understand it's tough, so godspeed to you all at the BLM.

Thank you so much for the opportunity to comment. I appreciate all that you all are doing. Have a fantastic day!

Sincerely,
rachel Woodard
