Dear State Director of Geospatial Services F. David Radford,

Dear Bureau of Land Management ("BLM"),

I very much support the proposed mineral withdrawal to save the watershed of the Boundary Waters Canoe Area Wilderness ("Boundary Waters"). The potential dangers of sulfide-ore copper mining are unjustifiable in the watershed of such a sensitive and important area.

This is America's most water-rich Wilderness Area. With 1.1 million acres containing over 1,000 pristine lakes and 1,200 miles of river and stream, the watershed provides an unparalleled American experience of recreation like fishing, hunting, and more. The Boundary Waters must not be put at risk of perpetual pollution from the most toxic industry in America.

During the environmental review process related to withdrawal, please consider that:

· Cleanest water quality in North America - The lakes, rivers, and streams of the Boundary Waters watershed are among the cleanest waters in North America and are especially sensitive to acids and heavy-metals found in copper mine pollution;

·America's most visited & accessible wilderness destination - The Boundary Waters is the most popular Wilderness Area in the U.S., and the largest east of the Rockies and north of the Everglades. Visitors travel through it by boat or canoe, and can choose routes to avoid having to carry their gear, making the Boundary Waters more accessible to families, children, and people with physical limitations; and · Economics - The Boundary Waters supports a strong, sustainable, growing outdoor recreation industry in Minnesota. It is a principal driver of the $850 million, 17,000-job recreation economy in Northeastern Minnesota, it contributes to hundreds of manufacturing jobs, and it helps keep and attract talent to Minnesota.

I urge the BLM to withdraw the 225,378 acres of national forest lands to protect the Boundary Waters from the threat of endless sulfide-ore copper mining pollution. Thank you for the opportunity to comment.

Sincerely,
Olivia Villa
