Little House Near the Wildlands

When homes and other buildings are located near wildlands, fire can easily spread to where people live. But people can help protect their homes from wildfires. Here's a house that's built near a forest. Can you find and color at least five things that make this house a fire hazard?