As an avid offroader I too do not want to see oil wells and gas wells along the Oregon trail but I also realize we need the energy. So why can't we drill with in a couple of miles of the trails and build the well heads into the surrounding country side. Build a conctere bunker around and over the well and bury it with local fill and vegetation. Out of sight out of mind if you know what I mean
Well that is my 2 cents worth
