BLM North Umpqua River Closure

Roseburg, Ore. – The Roseburg District, Bureau of Land Management (BLM) will temporarily close a portion of the North Umpqua River to rafters and fishermen in August, during construction and setting of the Tioga Bridge over the North Umpqua River.

Due to delays in procuring the crane for bridge placement, the closure to the North Umpqua River to rafting and fishing between Susan Creek put-in to Baker Wayside will be delayed.

Members of the public interested in utilizing the sections of the North Umpqua River between Susan Creek put-in to Baker Wayside should check in with the BLM on the current status of the river closure.

The Tioga Bridge construction site is located 28 miles east of Roseburg, Oregon, along Highway 138.

About the BLM: The BLM manages more than 245 million acres of public land – the most of any Federal agency. This land, known as the National System of Public Lands, is primarily located in 12 Western states, including Alaska. The BLM also administers 700 million acres of sub-surface mineral estate throughout the nation. In Fiscal Year (FY) 2011, recreational and other activities on BLM-managed land contributed more than $130 billion to the U.S. economy and supported more than 600,000 American jobs. The Bureau is also one of a handful of agencies that collects more revenue than it spends. In FY 2012, nearly $5.7 billion will be generated on lands managed by the BLM, which operates on a $1.1 billion budget. The BLM's multiple-use mission is to sustain the health and productivity of the public lands for the use and enjoyment of present and future generations. The Bureau accomplishes this by managing such activities as outdoor recreation, livestock grazing, mineral development, and energy production, and by conserving natural, historical, cultural, and other resources on public lands.
