Abbie Josse informs me that the last analysis BLM did on global warming was in the 1990s. With all the new information about this huge global threat to human survival, I think the WOPR must have a substantive new analysis of the role of these forests in mitigating global warming impacts as well as an analysis of greenhouse gas emissions caused by logging and deforestation proposed in the plan. (Timeline)

In addition, this is a huge plan and it is not possible for the public to analyze & comment on the plan in the short time of 90 days. The plan proposes major changes from the status quo and the public deserves more time to understand it and comment on it.
