I am writing to protest in the strongest terms possible the BLM's Western Oregon Plan Revisions project. The logging levels called for in this plan are completely unsustainable and outrageous. Once again the BLM has caved in to business interests, to the neglect of the public good. For shame. In my opinion, it is time to halt all logging of old growth. Pursuit of the short term buck will only slightly postpone the need for Oregon to move beyond a logging economy.

Please go back to the far more balanced and realistic Northwest Forest Plan. The WOPR is just another of the Bush administration's incredibly bad ideas, which should be banished to history's dustbin.

Sincerely, Mary Mordzek
