

To the Bureau of Land Management

I recently received access to a public water supply in Perry County. I am strongly opposed to any horizontal hydraulic fracturing which pumps chemical laced water in the ground to fracture the shale. My father was in the gas and oil business and I recall that fracturing was done with sand and water. This may not be as efficient, but we must protect the water supply as one of our most precious resources. For Ohio not to follow federal guidelines seems to indicate that our population is not valued as much as others in this country.
