Balanced Preservation

Comment:

I believe in balanced preservation of all public lands. In many cases this involves closing roads and limiting the use of OHV vehicles. From my perspective, sometimes it is better to get out and walk. There is little worse for an outdoorsman than to spend a day hiking in to a remote area just to listen to quads running around. Some roads need to be closed, but not all. As for target shooting, I fully support allowing target shooting in areas that are away from organized campgrounds, parking lots and occupied buildings. However, it is not necessary to completely ban target shooting throughout the Sonoran Desert Monument because so much of it is remote and conducive to safe target shooting. Thank you, Marc Cooley Phoenix Outdoorsman and conservationist
