FOREWORD

Nearly all of the personnel data sheets in this notebook were copied from Volumes 18, 19, 23, 30, 31, 32, 39, 40, 46, 59, 60, 63, 76, 77, 90, 108, 109, and 110 (U. S. Transitmen, Surveyors, Cadastral Engineers) of the files of the Supervisor of Surveys. These volumes cover the period from June 25, 1910 to August 31, 1917. The personnel data sheets of some assistant supervisors were taken from volumes of correspondence with those assistant supervisors. The data sheets are not necessarily from the first employment of a particular surveyor, and there are several sheets for some.

There are no sheets for a number of surveyors for whom the file contains an oath, employment notice, or correspondence. Those missing may be for former Examiners of Surveys for whom there would be earlier files, and who served only a short time under the direct system, for temporary transitmen, or for appointees who declined to accept jobs. The surveyors who appear from the correspondence to have executed surveys, but for whom no data sheets were found thus far in the files, are listed below. This list is probably not complete.

Ahrens, Arnold F. (1915)
Berman, Jacob (1916)
Bird, Eliot (1917)
Broussseau, Andre Ringgold (1915)
Burnham, Newell J.
Cartier, George E.
Caudle, Carl R.
Chubb, W. Morris
Clark, Joseph C. (1915)

Dupuy, Victor N.
Dwight, Lawrence R. (1915)
Embree, Amos E. (1915)
Fardner, George W.
Gelwix, Daniel E.
Guerin, Charles V. (1915)
Harshbarger, Eugene L. (1915)
Hayden, Thomas A. (1915)
Hempill, William Lind (1915)
Hooper, James C. (1915)
Jacobs, Wilber F.
Joslyn, Don D.
Kinney, Alfred R. (1916)
Lewis, Morgan M. (1915)
McKinney, Jr., John M. (1914)
Omeo, Robert F.
Pearson, George W.

Riddell, George X. (1916)
Secor, W. O.
Siebecker, Carl L. (1917)
Sorrels, Gerald A. (1917)
Thompson, Edward N. (1915)
Trippet, William K.
VanWinkle, Frank J.
Wilke, F. Marion
Wills, Wilbur S.

Those for whom no year is noted first appeared before 1915 in the records. It is probable that personnel data sheets for some of the above-named men will be found in later volumes of the Supervisor's correspondence.

MEMORANDUM

Mr. Alonzo H. Adams entered this Service under authority of the U. S. Civil Service Commission, April 18, 1912, as a U. S. Surveyor. In 1918 he was promoted to the position of Cadastral Engineer, with enlarged duties, including the execution of the more complicated resurveys in Colorado and other states, particularly Nebraska and Washington. Because of his exceptional abilities he was detailed on several occasions to Washington, D. C., where he was engaged in the examination of survey returns prior to their acceptance. He also had general supervision of the manufacture of iron corner posts for this Service at the Rock Island Arsenal, Rock Island, Illinois.

Mr. Adams' technical ability, especially in modern resurvey practice, his high character and his devotion to duty, are qualities that are recognized by all, not only throughout this Service but by private engineers and the public in general.

By reason of the inclusion of field cadastral engineers in the class made retireable by law at 62 years of age, passed at the last session of Congress, Mr. Adams was retired on June 30, 1927.

OFFICE OF DISTRICT C. DISTR. ENGINEER

November 12, 1925

Chief, Division of Appointments,
Department of the Interior,
Washington, D.C.

Dear Sir:

Receipt is acknowledged of your letter of October 23, 1925, in which you called my attention to a discrepancy of two days in the date of my birth and requested me to furnish your office with evidence, such as birth certificate, bible or other family record, showing the correct date.

I regret to advise you that all records as to the date of my birth were destroyed in the fire of 1906 and therefore I am unable to furnish either a birth certificate or photostat copy of the bible record.

There has never been any question as to the correctness of the date (September 26, 1875) and I am positive that all previous personal history sheets will show this date, with the exception of the one mentioned in your letter, the 26, which is undoubtedly a typographical error.

I trust that this statement will be sufficient to clear your records.

Very respectfully,

(Signed) (Miss) Iva F. Bailey,

Through

Dear Sir:

I am out of employ at the present time and decided to write to you to see if you had any thing to offer me on the Soil Surveying Force this summer. I received a letter from you last July asking me if I cared to accept a position on TransUnion, but at that time I was employed by the State River Irrigation Co. of Boise, Idaho.

I am enclosing a detailed account of my past engineering experience in which you will see I have been engaged at this kind of work considerably, being a deputy under the Geo. Surveyor General of Wyoming.

From what my brother says I think I could manage a camp and would prefer a position as Engineer in charge of a camp.

Very truly yours,

Mr. Frank M. Johnson,
Supervisor of Surveys,
Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir:

Following are some facts about my past work that I desire to present for your consideration if at any time the question of my promotion, or classification may be before you.

I have been engaged in engineering work for about seventeen years, having been appointed U. S. Deputy Surveyor in 1906, and have been doing surveying and engineering work (Land and Irrigation) ever since.

1920: I was in charge of the dependent resurvey of eight full townships, Group 174 Montana, I having two Associates. The obliteration was very extensive, most all of the corners being set by proportionate measurement. The eight townships were completed in less than five months. Notwithstanding the fact that more than 90% of the land was filed upon, and probably 75% patented, all of the settlers were satisfied and no metes-and-bounds surveys were necessary.

All corner adjustments were checked by Mr. Mathias, who complimented me upon the methods I had used, and the results obtained.

1921: You are familiar with the details of my 1921 assignment to Group 181 Montana on the Crow Indian Res. I had three Associates and a crew of twenty assistants, twenty-four in all, on this work. This work consisted of 1225 miles of retracements, resurveys, and original surveys, and was completed, and the completed returns filed with the Surveyor General in less than five months from the day I left Helena for the field. The field notes were completed within 48 hours after the last mile of line was run.

Although there were some complications, the survey was approved by the Surveyor General, and accepted by the G. I. O. without criticism, or requiring any corrections other than a few typographical errors.

I was complimented by the Surveyor General (initialized T.F.M.) on the "careful and thorough manner in which I had prepared the returns."

I have advocated and encouraged the practice of setting corners well, and believe that all corners in the so called "prairie country" should be set 30 ins. in the ground.

I have always enjoyed the full loyal support of my Associates and crews. They nearly all having expressed the desire to go out with me again. I believe that a strict camp discipline makes for efficiency, and respect of crew.

Economy: I believe comparison of costs taken from official reports from Montana will show mine to be the cheapest truck operation for 1919 and 1920 (1921 not available to me) and the cost of camp subsistence to be well below the average. I believe in setting a good table, but, in economizing by securing the best possible prices, and eliminating waste.

Care of Instruments: The transit assigned to me at present has not been out of adjustment over 5' since 1916. I have been assigned to adjust all surveying instruments in Helena for several years.

My relations with Mr. Harrison have been most cordial, his confidence is indicated by the fact that he has assigned me to the most important work the last few years.

Nearly all of my work in Wyoming, both while as a Deputy and as a U. S. Surveyor was on resurveys. Since being in Montana I have done most of the resurveying that has been done there. Therefore, I believe I could qualify as an expert in that line.

I have a diploma from The Blackstone Institute, Chicago, having graduated from their course in Business Law.

I am an Associate Member of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

Very respectfully,

William A. Bandy

Through Mr. J. Scott Harrison.
Dear Sir:

My younger brother, Willis Bandy, took the examination for U. S. Transitman May 10, and is desirous of getting into the Surveying Service. He is 31 years of age, well, and has a wife and two children. He has had four years experience on Public Land Surveys, as chairman, two years with my late brother Richard E. and the Brunts, and two years with me under the direct system, since then he has done some survey work as a Deputy County Surveyor.

He is familiar with the use of solar instruments, and capable of running a party.

If he should pass the examination and receive an appointment, I feel sure you would be satisfied with his services. If there is an opening for a temporary appointment
I think he would be available.

I am writing you this way concerning my own brother, because all of his Public Land Experience has been with his brothers, otherwise I would refer you to some disinterested parties.

Very respectfully,

Dear Sir:

You will no doubt be interested to learn that Mr. William H. Bandy of the General Land Office, at Helena, Montana, has enrolled for our Course of Law Instruction, given through the home study method.

Mr. Bandy completed, some few years ago, a short training program offered by us, covering the fundamentals of those branches of the law pertaining to business itself. He is now proceeding with a more advanced Course of Training, and when his present outline of study is finished he will have covered the entire field of law.

This training, as you know, is given in such form that the student may do his study at home and during his spare time, without any interference whatever with his regular duties. I feel sure that Mr. Bandy is to be commended upon his foresight and willingness to spend his spare time in self improvement in order that he may render more effective and more efficient service in his position.

The Course has been recommended and endorsed by many well known lawyers and judges, and it is generally recognized as the most thorough training in law given by the correspondence method. If you should desire any further information regarding the training program, or if you have any suggestions which you think will be helpful to us in conducting the Course for Mr. Bandy, we will be very glad to hear from you.

Very truly yours,

AVERAGE PERCENTAGE:
85.60

N. B.- Every competitor in an examination comprising both grade and technical subjects must pass with an average percentage of at least 70 on the technical subjects in order to become eligible for appointment. Should a competitor fail to pass on the technical subjects the grade subjects will not be considered.

The number of persons whose names are ahead of yours on the register of the same State (District) established from this examination is _______. Unless you should be appointed sooner, your eligibility will expire.

Following is the method of finding the average percentage of an examination: Multiply the rating of each subject by the relative weight of the subject, add the products, and divide the sum of the products by the sum of the relative weights. The quotient will be the average percentage.

The names of competitors who obtain an average percentage of 70 or, if preferred soldiers or sailors, an average percentage of 65 will be entered on the register of eligibles, with the average percentage obtained; but those whose average percentage is below 70 (or 65, if preferred soldiers or sailors) are ineligible to appointment. The period of eligibility for those who obtain an eligible average percentage is one year. Only those competitors have right to a claim of preference who have been honorably discharged from the military or naval service by reason of disability resulting from wounds or sickness incurred in the line of duty. (See back of this sheet.)

All examination papers are rated with great care, according to the published rules for rating, under a system which insures accuracy and absolute fairness, and all ratings are reviewed by examiners who take no part in the first rating. For this reason the average percentages of competitors whose papers are reviewed on appeal are seldom raised or lowered, but if any changes are made in the ratings, the changes are that they will be against the competitors, because in the original ratings examiners are more likely to overlook errors than to overcharge them. Appeals will not be considered unless received at the Commission within sixty days from the date of this notice.

In addressing the Commission always state the kind, date, and place of the examination to which you refer, the average percentage obtained, and your legal residence.

Very respectfully,

JOHN A. MCLHENNY,
President.

Memorandum

To: Chairman, BLM Incentive Awards Committee

From: Chief, Division of Engineering

Subject: Nomination for Distinguished Service Award

Believing, as you do, that it is well to present due recognition to an employee while he is still on the rolls rather than to wait for such time as he retires, I recommend that careful consideration be given to the granting of a Distinguished Service Award to Mr. Clark L. Gumm, who now serves as Chief, Branch of Cadastral Engineering in the Washington Office of this Bureau. In support of this recognition, I submit the following statements of his achievements and other related projects.

The Bureau of Land Management has reason to be proud of Mr. Gumm's achievements in the surveying field. His technical skill, efficiency, and devotion to duty have rendered an unmistakable contribution to the Bureau's program for management, protection, and conservation of the public domain and its natural resources.

Mr. Gumm entered the service of the former General Land Office in the winter of 1933 as a field assistant on a cadastral survey party in the State of New Mexico. With the exception of a few interruptions in service in the early part of his career, his entire Government service of over 30 years has been devoted to this Bureau's activities in connection with public land surveys.

In 1936, after passing a written civil service examination, he was appointed a Public Land Surveyor. Because of his unusual interest and devotion to duty and through his aggressiveness in the study of prescribed and improved methods and procedures pertaining to all types of cadastral surveys, Mr. Gumm soon was recognized by his superiors as having exceptional technical and administrative ability. Within a few years his field assignments were progressively of a more complicated and difficult nature until he was handling some of the most difficult survey projects of the General Land Office. These assignments were invariably completed with accuracy and economy.
Among the interesting and unusual surveys made by Mr. Gumm was the underground survey in 1949 of a bat cave containing bat guano. The cave was located above the Colorado River in the Grand Canyon. A boat trip up the Colorado River from Lake Mead was required to reach the cave. On the return trip the outboard motor drowned out and the boat was caught in the midcurrent sand swells of some 15 feet. Only the lucky starting of the motor permitted the boat to reach the bank and avert almost certain capsizing and loss of life.

In November 1949 the Bureau of Indian Affairs requested that preliminary steps be taken to bring about a survey of the unallotted Choctaw-Chickasaw Indian tribal lands along the Red River in Oklahoma. These lands consisted of some 60 isolated tracts of irregular description extending through 25 townships and along both the Texas and Oklahoma sides of the Red River westerly from the Arkansas State line for a distance of approximately 175 miles.

In 1950 Mr. Gumm was assigned the responsibility of investigating conditions on the ground and working out a plan of action and procedure for the performance of this survey. His investigation involved conferences with the Superintendent of the Five Civilized Tribes and other Indian Bureau officials. As a result of his detailed investigations, Mr. Gumm submitted a very comprehensive and informative report setting out a plan of action. On the basis of this report the survey was authorized by the Bureau of Indian Affairs. The extraordinary character of this survey was such that no established precedent was contained in the files of the General Land Office by which he could be guided. It was, therefore, necessary to originate a survey design and a course of action whereby the survey could be performed in a manner that would be acceptable to the parties at interest and satisfy all legal requirements. Mr. Gumm then made this survey later in 1950 and 1951. Under the circumstances of adverse weather conditions and difficult terrain, he worked long hours—elevings and weekends. The excellent manner in which Mr. Gumm handled this entire project met with the enthusiastic approval of the Indian Bureau and brought commendable credit to our Bureau.

Throughout this time Mr. Gumm was constantly called on to undertake some of the most complicated and intricate survey problems facing the Bureau. In summarizing Mr. Gumm's field survey record, it can be said that he established an enviable record of accomplishment, both in quality of work and in volume. His willingness to assume the responsibility for undertaking unusual and difficult assignments and to voluntarily perform long hours of work to complete these assignments was of great value to the General Land Office and the Bureau of Land Management when there was a shortage of engineering personnel and limited funds for field operations.
In the summer of 1952 Mr. Guzm was selected by the Bureau of Land Management to be a member of the U. S. Operations Mission to the country of Iraq under the Point 4 program. He was to serve as a specialist on their land reform and cadastral survey program. This appointment was for one year. Mr. Guzm made such an impression on both his superiors and the nationals he was working with that he was asked to remain another year. The President of the Hiri Sirf (Public Land) Development Department of Iraq, one of the highest officials of the Iraq government, officially expressed his thanks to Mr. Guzm and stated on behalf of himself and of the entire Department that "Tasteful and substantial results are evident by your two years of work in this country. Through your efforts the Greater Nasayib Project will have, for the first time in Iraq, the advantages of a complete cadastral survey which will be utilized by the Irrigation and Land Classification Departments and other technical persons. I am pleased with the manner in which the Cadastral Division of this Department is functioning and attribute this in great part to the new techniques and methods you have introduced. Most heart-warming to us is the way in which you have operated closely and intimately with the young Iraqi officials, both in the field and office. By your actions we have been encouraged and have benefited by your association."

Mr. Herman A. Beck, American Embassy, Baghdad, Iraq, and Chief of the Hiri Sirf Land Development Department, had this to say:
"Mr. Guzm's report on Land Tenure and Reform and Cadastral Survey in Iraq has caused much favorable comment among interested parties and I am convinced by talking to Iraq government officials that many of your recommendations will be implemented." Mr. Beck also stated that the U. S. Government was extremely pleased with Mr. Guzm's conduct in dealing with Iraq officials and personnel.

Mr. Guzm returned to this country in October 1954 and was assigned by this Bureau to Area 3, Denver, Colorado, as a Cartographer (Cadastral).

Progressing steadily to greater responsibilities in this specialized field, his exceptional technical and administrative ability was recognized by his superiors and in April 1957 he was asked to join the Director's Engineering Staff in the Washington Office. Since 1957, Mr. Guzm's duties have not only involved technical procedures and practices but have kept him occupied with many Bureau and Departmental projects.

As one of the Bureau's most competent cadastral engineers, Mr. Guzm in called on numerous occasions for counsel and assistance by many offices within the Department and other offices and agencies outside the Department. While he has shown intense interest and ability in improving surveying techniques and procedures, these efforts have been in addition to and not at the expense of his current responsibilities.

In support of the assistance given other offices by Mr. Gumm, we note the following: He has taken the leading part in assisting the Office of the Solicitor, Department of the Interior, on several landmark suits which reached the Supreme Court. In 1953 Mr. R. Lieberman, in the Office of the Solicitor, wrote of the appreciation for the assistance given them by Mr. Gumm—"His analysis of the California Aikins case in reference to a Wyoming survey situation was painstaking and for any success gained by the Government on this case, much credit should go to his efforts." In regard to the same case, Mr. Ramsey Clark, Assistant Attorney General, Land Division, Department of Justice, wrote of Mr. Gumm's assistance to his Department in the preparation of their case which involved a highly technical and complicated controversy. He said, "Mr. Gumm gave unstintingly of his time and spared no effort to assist us." The United States Attorney who was in charge of this case advised that Mr. Gumm was also very helpful to him in the trial of the case, particularly with respect to distinguishing the factual evidence in the Aikins case from that involved in Wyoming. This suit, which involved title to between 60 to 70,000 acres of public land in Wyoming, was pending for several years. The Deputy Solicitor of this Department contributed the following praise for Mr. Gumm's work: "His assistance contributed significantly to the Government's success in a suit of considerable importance to the interests of this Nation."

In 1965, at the request of the Office of Territories, Mr. Gumm visited and made a report on the Identification of Submerged Lands in the Virgin Islands. Mrs. Ruth C. Van Cleve, Director, Office of Territories, wrote the following to the Director of the Bureau upon receipt of his report: "I wish to thank you formally for the much needed and appreciated assistance given us by Mr. Clark L. Gumm, your Chief Cadastral Engineer, with the problems we have encountered in our territories in our administration of Public Law 88-183, the Territorial Submerged Lands Act. Please convey our appreciation to Mr. Gumm. His report of March 19, 1965, is becoming the point of departure for our procedures and regulations in this matter, and we are also finding invaluable both the material he appended to such report, and that which he has subsequently furnished us."

In April 1965 Mr. Gumm was selected by this Bureau to provide the Government of Nicaragua assistance in their program of agrarian reform. Specific assistance was given in the field of implementing the cadastre required by Article 123 of the Agrarian Reform Law of publicly owned land, national and municipal. The cadastral will aid in providing property titles to recipients of plots of government land. This work was carried out through the Department of State's Agency of International Development.

Mr. Gumm also visited Morocco in 1953 in connection with a Bureau agreement to assist that country with a proposed establishment of a National Cadastre and assisted in the preparation of the resulting "Report on Land Records, Titling, and Cadastral Problems of Morocco." In the same year he was also a member of a team assembled by the Agency for International Development which was sent to Venezuela to secure material for a physical resources inventory of that country. At that time he made a report of the land tenure system and cadastral survey. In 1965 Mr. Gumm was asked to represent AID-Venezuela at a convention of engineers and surveyors in Caracas, Venezuela.

Throughout his years of service with the Bureau, Mr. Gumm has been a student of the treaties made by the various Indian tribes as inevitable progress in the early days of the nation made it necessary to contain the Indian tribes on reservations. His interest, keen insight, and knowledge of the land have made him the foremost authority of this Bureau on the interpretation of the indefinite descriptions of early-date treaties in terms of late-date maps and place names. Mr. Gumm has been giving assistance to the Assistant Attorney General's office, Land and Natural Resources Division of the Department of Justice, in the Government's cases before the Indian Claims Commission. His interpretation of the treaties which involve vast areas in the Middle West and Far West, probably totalling hundreds of millions of acres, much of which is now highly developed agricultural land, including industrial and urban areas, has been invaluable to the Department of Justice.

In the last few years Mr. Gumm has been responsible for the preparation of Federal maps for the leasing of oil and gas areas on the Outer Continental Shelf. The preparation of maps for some of these areas is of a highly technical nature where countless hours of research, study, and consultation with State, Justice, and Coast and Geodetic Survey officials are necessary before final determination can be made as to the delineation of some block leasing areas. In this connection he also met with State officials to explain the maps and principles involved in their preparation. Since several States have had little or no experience in leasing of submerged lands, a part of his job has been to convince such officials that the Federal Government's actions are not in derogation of any State right conferred by law.

For nearly 10 years Mr. Gumm has been in the forefront of the technical aspects of so-called tidelands litigation with various States as they pertain to the boundary between Federal and State submerged lands. In the technical field he has continued to serve as a Bureau and Department representative in numerous meetings that have been held in past years between Federal and State officials of Louisiana in an attempt to find common ground or narrow the differences of the two sovereigns as to the location of the coastline of Louisiana. Several hundred million dollars are at issue in this matter. In addition, he was appointed by the Solicitor General of the Department of Justice as one of the Federal representatives to meet as a joint committee with three similar representatives from Louisiana. The joint committee met several times in 1962 and considered and reported on the effect that the principles of the Geneva Convention on the Territorial Sea and the Contiguous Zone would have if applied to the Louisiana coastline.

Probably one of the most important of Mr. Gumm's responsibilities involves as immediate Federal revenues are concerned is his part in the delineation of the acreage of the blocks split by the various zone lines off Louisiana. A Louisiana representative and Mr. Gumm must agree on the acreages before offers can be made in the disputed zones. Mr. Gumm also serves as a "watchdog" to insure that submerged land sales by various States and foreign countries do not trespass on Federal submerged lands.

In Mr. Gumm's present capacity as Chief, Branch of Cadastral Engineering, he oversees the direction of programs utilizing some 100 professional employees. He has become a national authority and is fast becoming an international authority in this specialized field. His knowledge of cadastral law makes him an indispensable man to the Division, the Bureau, and the Department.

As an indication of Mr. Gumm's professional standing, he was nominated by the Department of the Interior to the Department of State to attend the 1963 Conference of Commonwealth Survey Officers. This conference was held at Cambridge, England, on July 22-31, with Mr. Gumm as one of the Department's representatives.

Throughout his years of service, Mr. Gumm has been known for his accuracy, dependability, and his seldom-erring judgment. His unfailing sense of duty, sound and deep personal judgment, and intense interest in his work have gained for him the respect of everyone who works with him.

For his distinct contributions for many years to this Bureau's cadastral survey program for the public lands and his judgments on many related matters, it is requested that Mr. Gumm be granted the Department's highest honor, its Distinguished Service Honor Award.

Dear Mr. Horton:

Mr. Badgley reported under date of July 28 that Mr. Harris worked half a day on July 12, 13, 14, and 15. He thereafter suffered a hemorrhage and was given four blood transfusions, the last on the 28th, Badgley's son-in-law being one of the donors. The doctor told Badgley that Harris was going the way of others similarly afflicted, slowly starving, and that the blood transfusions would serve only to prolong his life. A sad case in which there is apparently little that can be done.

We found my wife's brother in excellent spirits, no signs of hypochondria and looking better than I have ever seen him look. He told his wife this was one case of leukaemia that was going to be cured. Of course we are hopeful. However, the white corpuscles continue to multiply and as the count reaches 50,000 he has to go to the hospital and take deep therapy treatments to knock the count down. How long and how successfully this can be continued no one knows, but it is indeed difficult to believe a man who looks so well, feels so well, is so active and in such high spirits can possibly be fatally afflicted. The only indication he has that he is not physically sound is that he tires easily and gets very tired. His doctor has cautioned him to avoid all possible skin abrasions, telling him infection will certainly follow that will be very difficult to cure.

We had a fine visit, a nice vacation, and Mrs. Ganong is quite pleased as a consequence.

I am glad to hear Mr. Morrison is going to Washington with you and wish to congratulate you on your success in caring for the personnel of your Denver staff.

Kindest regards to Mrs. Horton and yourself and best wishes for a pleasant stay in Washington.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

Portland, Oregon.

Dear Horton:

I was very sorry indeed to get the note from you advising that you intended to retire at the end of this month. Since then we have received official notice of your retirement. I certainly feel badly over the fact that you decided you couldn't stick it out any longer because with your going I have just about lost all of my connecting links with the past.

I had intended to write to you about the supplemental plats that are being made for small tract cases. I do not know what the procedure is and had in mind asking you to have some one from your office let me know when these plats are available so that I can go ahead with the classification orders.

It will interest you to know that the only reason I am trying to get out some of these orders is merely to show that there is still somebody left in the organization who wants to get some work done. My friends in Washington issued a total of 90 of these orders during the past 7 years. Twenty-three of those were gotten out by Mr. Drexilius in one group about three months ago. This means that the whole organization produced a total of 67 over a 7-year period. I decided that I would see if I couldn't get out an equal number in six months. I could do it too, if you'd hurry up with the plats.

You might tell Mr. Havell about this, although he will probably think it is an insult to the old organization, but I have been insulting them for the past 35 years so I guess it won't make any difference.

Sincerely yours,

J H Favorite

I was very sorry indeed to get the note from you advising that you intended to retire at the end of this month. Since then we have received official notice of your retirement. I certainly feel badly over the fact that you decided you couldn't stick it out any longer because with your going I have just about lost all of my connecting links with the past.

I had intended to write to you about the supplemental plats that are being made for small tract cases. I do not know what the procedure is and had in mind asking you to have some one from your office let me know when these plats are available so that I can go ahead with the classification orders.

It will interest you to know that the only reason I am trying to get out some of these orders is merely to show that there is still somebody left in the organization who wants to get some work done. My friends in Washington issued a total of 90 of these orders during the past 7 years. Twenty-three of these were gotten out by Mr. Drexillus in one group about three months ago. This means that the whole organization produced a total of 67 over a 7-year period. I decided that I would see if I couldn't get out an equal number in six months. I could do it too, if you'd hurry up with the plats.

You might tell Mr. Havell about this, although he will probably think it is an insult to the old organization, but I have been insulting them for the past 35 years so I guess it won't make any difference.

Sincerely yours,

J H Favorite
Regional Field Examiner.

Vol. 182
The death in Denver Monday night of Frank M. Johnson, oldest employee in point of service in the Department of the Interior and for more than 33 years Supervisor of Surveys of the General Land Office, marks the passing of one of the outstanding figures in the identification and settlement of the public lands of the West, Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes said today. Paying tribute to the career of one of the Government's foremost cadastral engineers, Secretary Ickes said:

"The death of Mr. Johnson is a distinct loss to the Government which he served so long and so well. Not only was he recognized as an outstanding authority on public land matters, but the skill and painstaking care with which he installed in 1911 and supervised until the time of his death the Government's Cadastral Engineering Service, will stand as a lasting monument to his memory."

Born in Clarke, Va., November 4, 1872, Frank Minitree Johnson was 71 years old at the time of his death. Receiving his education in Washington (D. C.) High School, and the Scientific School of the Columbian (now George Washington) University, records show that he terminated a service as surveyor's clerk in the Geological Survey on November 30, 1898 and was made clerk in the General Land Office on March 6, 1899, a tour of duty which resulted in a record of 46 years of Government service. Three years prior to that, however, the records indicate, Mr. Johnson took temporary government employment as an axeman on a survey party in Calvins, Okla. Dating from that employment in October 1895, his record of Government service would total 49 years.

But it was as supervisor of surveys, with headquarters in Denver, that Mr. Johnson made his greatest contribution to the efficient administration of the public domain. Prior to 1910, the survey and identification of the vast sweep of public lands west of the Original Thirteen States was carried out under the jurisdiction of state surveyors-general through contract with private civil engineers. In that year, however, Congress abolished that system and placed the responsibility for the survey of the public lands in the General Land Office. Accordingly, Frank M. Johnson was sent to Denver in 1911 as supervisor of surveys, where he developed the present Cadastral Engineering Service which encompasses not only the Denver headquarters but 13 public survey offices in the Western States and Alaska.
So valuable were his services that he was continued in office when he reached the statutory retirement age last year. In addition to practical experience in the pioneer development and use of improved scientific surveying instruments, Mr. Johnson was the author of several articles on cadastral engineering subjects, including the General Land Office publication "The Public Land System of the United States."

Mr. Johnson was the brother of Mr. Hayden Johnson, prominent Washington attorney who for 20 years was a member of the Board of Law Examiners of the District of Columbia and from 1931 to 1936 was Chancellor of National University and Dean of the National University Law School.

Funeral services for Mr. Johnson will be held in Denver on Wednesday, March 29, with burial in Oak Hill Cemetery, Washington, D. C., on Saturday, April 1.
FRANK MINITREE JOHNSON, M. Am. Soc. C. E.

DIED MARCH 27, 1944

Frank Minitree Johnson was born at his paternal grandfather's home near Berryville, Va., on November 4, 1872. His parents were Robert Marshall and Katherine (Minitree) Johnson, both descendants of well-known Virginia families. His family home was in Washington, D. C., where his father was president of the Metropolitan Iron Works.

F. V. Hayden, then head of the U. S. Geological and Geographical Survey of the Territories, in the eighteen seventies, was a frequent visitor at the Johnson home. Young Frank as a small boy was fascinated by Dr. Hayden's experiences in the West, and he would ask numerous questions about the survey work. From these contacts Mr. Johnson acquired his interest in the outdoors and in survey work.

Mr. Johnson was educated in private schools in Washington, D. C., and was graduated from Central High School. He then attended the Corcoran Scientific School of the Columbian University (later George Washington University) for a year. For the next five years he was employed on various engineering jobs, including two years as a draftsman at the Cramp shipyards in Philadelphia, Pa.

In 1895 the U. S. Geological Survey began its subdivision of the lands of the Five Civilized Tribes in the Indian Territory, and, welcoming an opportunity to do survey work in the West, Mr. Johnson, in September, 1895, joined that organization as an axman on one of the field parties. A few months later he was advanced to surveyor in charge of a field party and continued in charge of various field parties until the completion of the field work in June, 1898. For the next five months he was engaged on office computations, and resigned on November 30, 1898.

As a result of his experience in making public land surveys, he was appointed an examiner of surveys in the General Land Office in March, 1899, and during 1899 and 1900 he spent the greater part of the time in New Mexico in connection with the survey of the Las Vegas Grant. Because of his friendliness and genuine interest in people, Mr. Johnson acquired a wide acquaintance with many old timers who were instrumental in shaping New Mexico's history. Mr. Johnson continued as an examiner of surveys engaged on examinations, engineering investigations, and special reports, chiefly in the Rocky Mountain area, until April, 1905. He then spent a six-month leave of absence abroad. While in Cairo, Egypt, he met Major Edwards, a British engineer in charge of making surveys for the enlargement of the Aswan Dam, and joined the Edwards party for a few months.

Memoir prepared by Robert Follansbee, M. Am. Soc. C. E.

In 1905 the Shoshone Indian lands in Wyoming were to be subdivided preparatory to being opened for settlement, and, under the system then in effect, the work was to be done by private surveyors under contract. This was a project of considerable magnitude, and, in April, 1905, Mr. Johnson resigned from the General Land Office and opened an engineering office in Cheyenne, Wyo., chiefly for the purpose of making those surveys. Upon the completion of that work, which was done in record time, due to the early date at which the lands were to be allotted, he resurveyed lands in western Wyoming within the Union Pacific Land Grant, and also made subdivisional resurveys and determination of the boundaries of private lands, title to which had passed from the government. During these years in Wyoming, which continued until 1910, Mr. Johnson was able to settle many long-standing disputes between stockmen and settlers over the limiting boundaries of their holdings. This was accomplished not only because of his familiarity with the engineering problems involved, but also because of his complete understanding of human nature and its many frailties. He had the rare gift of being able to instill, in those affected, confidence in the fairness of his decisions.

In 1910 Congress, to meet more adequately, the increasing need for public land surveys to provide for the rapid settlement then taking place and because of the increasing difficulty in obtaining contracts within authorized rates of compensation, abolished the old contract system, and directed the General Land Office to make future land surveys with its own personnel. From his experience both as an examiner of surveys for the General Land Office and later as a contract surveyor, Mr. Johnson was eminently fitted to head the new organization. Accordingly, in July, 1910, he was appointed U. S. Supervisor of Surveys to organize the Cadastral Engineering Service, the personnel of which consisted of former examiners of surveys and contract surveyors who had been previously associated with him. Headquarters was established in Denver, Colo., and within a short time thirteen regional offices were established in the public land states and Alaska.

Beginning with a dozen chiefs of field parties, the number was increased to one hundred and sixty chiefs of field parties by 1915. At first the Cadastral Engineering Service confined its activities to making the field surveys, and the office work connected with preparing the land plats was under the Surveyor General in each public land state. This division was not wholly satisfactory, and in 1925 Mr. Johnson was largely instrumental in having legislation enacted which abolished the position of Surveyor General and transferred the organizations to the Cadastral Engineering Service, thus bringing into one organization both the field and the office work. Under Mr. Johnson’s wise leadership the land surveys were raised to a high standard of accuracy without materially increasing the cost of the work. During those years many seemingly unsurmountable obstacles were encountered, but through his efforts these crises were overcome. As a result of his genuine interest in people, his office door was always open to the lowest field assistant, who came out feeling that his chief was very much interested in his welfare. Mr. Johnson had the priceless attribute of inspiring loyalty in his associates who have been unanimous in giving him a major part of the credit for the successful organization and operation of the Cadastral Engineering Service.

Paying tribute to Mr. Johnson, the Secretary of the Interior, Harold I.
Ikebana, stated:

“The death of Mr. Johnson is a distinct loss to the Government which he served so long and so well. Not only was he recognized as an outstanding authority on public land matters, but the skill and painstaking care with which he installed in 1911 (1910) and supervised until the time of his death the Government’s Cadastral Engineering Service, will stand as a lasting monument to his memory.”

On October 17, 1917, Mr. Johnson was married to Lucy E. Barham, of Texas, who survives him. This was a happy marriage, and, in the spirit of southern hospitality, the Johnsons kept a delightful open house for the officers of the Cadastral Engineering Service and for their many friends among the engineers.

One of Mr. Johnson’s diversions was the study of history, particularly that of the West, and because of that study, as well as because of his many years of experience, he was an authority on the settlement of the West. During his earlier years, particularly, he knew some of its most colorful as well as notorious characters, and toward the latter he showed the tolerance, forbearance, and kindness of heart which he always felt toward his fellow men.

Mr. Johnson was deeply interested in boys approaching manhood and was ever ready to counsel and advise them against the pitfalls of life. He derived great satisfaction from giving six boys a college education.

Mr. Johnson was elected a Member of the American Society of Civil Engineers on August 29, 1927.

P.N. 38611
MEMORANDUM for Mr. Horton,
Supervisor of Surveys:

At our Denver conference Mr. Follansbee, of the Geological Surveys, asked for statements from those of us who knew Mr. Johnson. I, of course knew him very well and for many years. I met him in 1903 and I reported to him in the field as an Examiner of Surveys on the Uintah Indian Reservation in 1904, and he was my instructor in field work. I was with him for many months during the field season in an official capacity and we were together a great deal socially. He was one of the most courteous and polite men I have ever known and exceptionally loyal to his superiors and his work and duty. He was always ready to go out of his way to help others and on many occasions words of encouragement from him gave us a lift when things looked somewhat discouraging. To me Mr. Johnson was a great inspiration and I believe to him, more than any other person, belongs the credit for the present surveying organization of the General Land Office.

Memoirs.

M. Frank Binetree Johnson,
H. Am. Soc. C. E., 1927.

Passing, March 27, 1944.

My acquaintance with Mr. Johnson began in the fall of 1900 on his return to Washington at the close of a season’s field work in the States of Colorado and New Mexico. In April 1901 Mr. Johnson took charge of the completion of the subdivisonal surveys including the Wichita Mountain area in the then Indian Territory, now the Wichita National Forest and Game Preserve in southwestern Oklahoma. As his associate on that survey and in the laying out of three townites in the then Kiowa and Comanche Indian Reservation, preparatory to the opening of the lands to homestead settlement, I became intimately familiar with his many fine qualities, and which was my pleasure to enjoy as a friendship, both personal and official, extending to his passing in March, 1944.

The background of his career as a surveyor, cadastral engineer, and administrative officer, in the capacity of Supervisor of Surveys of the General Land Office, Interior Department, was a thorough general and scientific training during his student years, mostly in Washington, leading to graduation from the Corcoran Scientific School of Columbian University (now George Washington University). Employment began on the parties of the U. S. Geological Survey 1896 to 1898, on the surveys, both topographic and cadastral, of the lands of the five civilized tribes in the then Indian Territory, during which time he advanced to a position as one of the party chiefs. This practical experience played a large part in Mr. Johnson’s later career. At the time much discussion was being given to the question of the combining the operations, as a general practice, of the topographic mapping along with the laying out of the subdivisonal lines and boundaries. The Indian Territory surveys were thoroughly well executed on that plan, and within the surveying requirements of that date. The combining of the surveys was successfully carried on later, on other Indian lands where large areas could be planned and executed. Many years after this Mr. Johnson’s influence was probably the deciding factor in the matter of the practical difficulties that prevented the general adoption of the plan.

From 1900 to 1909 Mr. Johnson was engaged almost continuously on field work in the Rocky Mountain area, very much diversified as to the regions of operations and types of cadastral surveys, all leading to an intimate knowledge of the surveying practice of the General Land Office, an understanding of the legal phases of the work, the need for a general improvement, and the practical limitations that had to be confronted. The winter months were usually devoted to administrative assignments in the Washington office. During this time a closer supervision was being given to the field operations generally, including better monumentation, and a vastly more direct contact of the administrative branches of the General Land Office with the field operations.
Most logically the training and experience qualified him for the appointment to his position as Supervisor of Surveys for the General Land Office, on July 1, 1910, at which time the plan of the public land surveying was being completely reorganized. This position he held to his passing, continually gaining and holding the confidence of the officers of the Interior Department, the public generally over the western states, and the associates and employees engaged in this work. Mr. Johnson's training and experience as a cadastral engineer, his sound business judgment, and his unusual capacity for dealing with the personnel of a large staff, brought the success for which he has justly been given the credit.

Mr. Johnson was confronted with a number of difficult problems in the reorganization of 1910. First, to meet a greatly expanded need for the surveys to take care of the rapid settlement of the public lands then taking place. The nucleus was a group of ten or twelve engineers who had been employed by the General Land Office, associates of Mr. Johnson, taking part in the field examination of every survey, as deemed important in transition from the older methods, and to insure results of acceptable quality. This group had frequent contact with the authorities in the Washington office and understood the aims of the reorganization. A larger number were drawn from those who had been engaged on the western work before 1910, a few who had specialized in it, but in most cases there had been no continuity of employment. By 1915 the force had been built up to 160 chiefs of field parties.

Another doubtful outcome, much debated, was on the matter of the costs. Mr. Johnson felt that the work could be considerably improved as to faithfulness and accuracy, without materially increasing the costs, then calculated principally on a mileage basis. The General Land Office had found it impossible, prior to 1910, to put through some of the more difficult surveys within the cost limits stipulated by legislation. The results to 1915 demonstrated that the work as a whole could be better performed, and stood well as to costs when compared with the older practices.

The matter of combining the cadastral surveys with the topographic came up again in 1912 when formidable argument was advanced for the change. It was then settled, largely on the strong recommendation by Mr. Johnson that the nature of the surveys and the areas of operation were too widely divergent to admit of a general and successful handling at the same time. The cadastral surveys had to be arranged to meet the insistent demand of the actual settlement of the public domain, and could not be deferred for the bringing in of geodetic control, nor for the leveling to give the elevations above sea level. Further, that the topography was primarily a base for the geologic studies and should be placed in the areas of greatest immediate interest. The mapping is a specialized branch, quite different from the matter of establishing land boundaries, and without the legal relationship of the latter. Few engineers could be looked upon as specialists in both branches, although in the Geological Survey and in the General Land Office a very few of the engineers were experienced in both fields, this included Mr. Johnson. The discussion was concluded, excepting to continue the topographic with the cadastral surveys on large areas of Indian lands to 1917, when the practices were finally discontinued, largely on account of the very practical objections advanced by Mr. Johnson many years before.

A further reorganization of the several western offices was sponsored and put through by Mr. Johnson in 1925 when the needed legislation had been enacted. Time has shown the many benefits of a closely integrated field and office operating organization, adding to the achievements over the years, and consummating the complete transition from the methods of the past to that of a highly developed system, making use of the modern trends in surveying methods so far as applicable.

Mr. Johnson would personally deny full credit for the improvements, generously sharing this with his associates, though the latter looked upon him for the leadership, all pulling together to bring success to their work.

On the more personal side, Mr. Johnson was born in Berryville, Virginia, November 4, 1872. His boyhood days were divided between that place and Washington, where his father was engaged in business. Mr. Johnson sometimes related his early adventures in the environment of the woods and valleys in the area northwest of Rock Creek, in Washington, which is now so highly developed. Here he could roam at will, his home neighborhood. Some mutual friends have recalled his activity in athletics during the college days. Mr. Johnson was well developed, and powerful in strength, which became a great asset during the later years of his life that were spent in the surveying camps.

Happily married October 17, 1917, to Miss Lucy Barham of Texas, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson kept a delightful open house in Denver, Colorado, to the officers of the Department, and to the many friends among the engineers, with whom there was the continual need for close friendship and understanding. Mr. Johnson was admitted to membership in the American Society of Civil Engineers in the year 1927.

MEMORANDUM for Mr. Arthur D. Kidder,
District Cadastral Engineer.

July 3, 1944.

Receipt is acknowledged of the three copies of the "Memoirs" of Mr. Frank M. Johnson as prepared by you and transmitted with your memorandum of June 28.

Distribution of the copies has been made in accordance with your suggestion.

The "Memoirs" are excellent,—far the best I have seen. In its presentation, you have been generous and self-effacing as to your important part in initiating and carrying on the work of surveying the public lands under the Direct System.

A. G. HORTON, JR.

Supervisor of Surveys.
Memorandum for Mr. Horton
Supervisor of Surveys.

I would refer to the matter which was taken up at the Conference relative to the life of Mr. Johnson. I will not attempt to go into a number of matters which are well known but will try to touch upon a few things which perhaps someone else has not thought of.

I find that Mr. Johnson spent the greater part of the years 1899 and 1900 in connection with the survey of the Las Vegas Grant. He once told me that he became a legal resident of New Mexico during this period. As a result he had a wide acquaintance with the "old timers" about Las Vegas many of whom were instrumental in shaping the history of New Mexico. Among such persons are Miguel A. Otero, former Territorial Governor of New Mexico and A. A. Jones later Asst. Secretary of the Interior and U. S. Senator from New Mexico.

One of Mr. Johnson's diversions was the reading and study of history, particularly of the West. I have never met anyone who had a more intimate knowledge of the history of the West than he. He had a very intimate and detailed knowledge of the old mining towns and the characters therein.

I believe that one of his principal characteristics was his keen interest in people. He appeared to be as much interested in the very lowly as the person of prominence and high social standing. His office door was always open to the lowest field assistant and such person paying him a visit always came out with the idea that Mr. Johnson was very much interested in his welfare. Moreover I believe that Mr. Johnson thoroughly enjoyed such visits, from the fact that he was interested in people.

The above are a few little sidelights on Mr. Johnson as I have known him. I hope that they may be of some use.

Mr. A. C. Horton, Jr.,
Supervisor of Surveys,
Denver, Colorado.

Dear Mr. Horton:

I was requested while at the Denver Conference to submit to you, for transmittal to Mr. Farnsworth, my knowledge of Mr. Frank M. Johnson's earlier work and my association with him.

The first work of Mr. Johnson, of which I have any knowledge was as a U. S. Surveyor for the Geological Survey, in making land office surveys and topographic maps of the old Indian Territory, consisting of the Five Civilized Tribes. Mr. Johnson went to work in this capacity in 1895. I joined his party as Chainman, July 1, 1896, and was with him in that capacity for several months. Later in 1897 as Levelman in the party, I was associated with him in the same camp. Mr. Johnson was later assigned to a camp running exterior boundaries. In 1898 he received an appointment as Examiner of Surveys with the General Land Office.

I had no further contacts with Mr. Johnson in his work until 1911 when I joined his force and took a party to Alaska.

Mr. Johnson was appointed Supervisor of Surveys in 1910, when the contract system of surveys was abolished and all public land surveys were made direct by the General Land Office under his supervision. He organized in 1910 the Cadastral Engineering Service for the direct execution of public land surveys and was continuously in charge of that work until his death in 1944.

I was engaged in the capacity of U. S. Surveyor, Assistant Supervisor of Surveys, and District Cadastral Engineer, under Mr. Johnson from 1911 until his death.

In 1915 Mr. Johnson accompanied me to Alaska where we organized the survey of the three coal fields. At that time we covered considerable of Alaska, in organizing and placing parties. Mr. Johnson and I were together on this work about two months, when he returned to his headquarters in Denver.
From my association, I think Mr. Johnson's outstanding characteristics were his devotion to duty, his loyalty to the organization he established and directed, his uniform courtesy and tolerance. The efficiency he maintained in his organization was outstanding due to his inspiration.

I know of no bureau of the Government in which the head thereof was more uniformly respected and loved. His life work was an inspiration to all of us.

Sincerely,

MEMORANDUM for the Supervisor of Surveys,
Denver, Colorado

My first acquaintance with Mr. Frank H. Johnson was in 1905 subsequent to his resignation as Examiner of Surveys with the General Land Office. At that time he came to Cheyenne, Wyoming, to contract with the government for the survey of the ceded portion of the Shoshone Indian Reservation located in the west central portion of the state. Mr. Johnson as a Deputy U. S. Surveyor executed the surveys awarded to him and Mr. John W. Dougall in 1905 in record time as a certain time limit had been set for the disposal of the lands within the ceded portion of the Reservation by lot.

In the years from 1906 to 1909 Mr. Johnson conducted an engineering office in Cheyenne and was engaged mostly in the survey and resurvey of the public lands in southwestern Wyoming under government contracts. These contracts included the resurvey of lands within the Union Pacific Land Grant under the Act of July 2, 1864, subdivisional resurveys and the determination of the boundaries of private lands, title to which had passed from the government.

During the time he was engaged on contract surveys by the government he was able, in his tactful way, to settle many disputes of long standing between stockmen and settlers regarding the limiting boundaries of their holdings due to his familiarity not only with the engineering problems involved, but with his thorough and complete understanding of human nature and the frailties that encompass practically all men. His psychology in handling difficult problems was unbounded and he was possessed of that rare gift of being able to instill confidence and trust in his decisions and judgment by all with whom he came in contact.

Mr. Johnson was an authority on the settlement of the West and many are the stories he would tell of his acquaintance with some of its characters especially those he met while engaged on the early surveys he made in the nineties in the Indian Territory, now Oklahoma. He met and knew such men as the Dalton Boys, Bob Ford, Bill Starr, Black Jack and others equally notorious in those early days. Bill Starr, Mr. Johnson stated on numerous occasions, stopped for meals at his camp and would always sit at the table and keep his rifle across his knees while eating for fear an officer of the law might put in an appearance. This fact alone, permitting an outlaw to visit and have a meal at his camp, exemplified the tolerance, forbearance and kindness of heart he always had for his fellow man. With Mr. Johnson, a man who was considered outside the pale by the law and by other citizens was still in his heart a human being who perhaps by some peculiar quirk of chance either drifted or was forced into a life contrary to the precepts and standards of other men by some unfortunate circumstance and therefore should not be condemned too harshly, but rather be given an opportunity to make amends for past misdeeds as he was a firm believer in the old axiom:

"There's so much good in the worst of us,
And so much bad in the best of us,
That it scarcely behooves any of us
To speak ill of the rest of us."

Mr. Johnson was deeply interested in the welfare of young boys growing into manhood and was always ready to offer counsel and advice to assist them in avoiding the pitfalls of life. In his role as an unsung and unpublished humanitarian he derived great satisfaction in putting six deserving boys through college and paying all the expenses for their education.

In 1910 Mr. Johnson was instrumental in the passage of the Act of June 25, 1910, whereby the contract system of surveys was abolished and the Direct System inaugurated. Under this latter system all surveys and resurveys pertaining to public lands are executed by cadastral engineers employed directly by the government under Civil Service regulations. Mr. Johnson was appointed Supervisor of Surveys and directed the organization of the Cadastral Engineering Service of the General Land Office.

The law becoming effective July 1, 1910, Mr. Johnson with his usual energy and perspective for organization, systematically and effectively proceeded to form the nucleus of the new service and in a short period of time built up an effective operating establishment that functioned more actively from year to year under his able guidance and achieved a prominent and enviable niche in the activity and conduct of government business.

District Cadastral Engineer
MEMORANDUM for Mr. Pollansbee:

After witnessing the prize fight at Reno, Nevada, between Jim Jeffries and Jack Johnson on July 4, 1910, Mr. Frank M. Johnson hurried to Denver, Colorado, to organize a field surveying service of civil service employees to execute the survey and resurvey of public lands in the United States and Alaska under an Act of Congress effective July 1, 1910, which terminated the system of surveying under contract. I first met Mr. Johnson in Denver at that time.

My first impression of Mr. Johnson, and one that persisted through the years, was an appreciation of his very human qualities, his diplomacy, broad viewpoint, distaste for details, and capacity for leadership. Although there were two Supervisors of Surveys until the Act of July 1, 1918, the other being Mr. Arthur D. Kidder, it seemed to me that the speed and efficiency with which the work was started and carried on were due largely to the efforts of Mr. Johnson.

During the long time he was Supervisor many seemingly unsurmountable obstacles came in our path, but always these crises were successfully passed through Mr. Johnson's efforts. Through his death the Service lost its inspiration.

Mr. A. C. Horton, Jr.,
Acting Chief Cadastral Engineer,
Bureau of Land Management,
Denver, Colorado.

Dear Mr. Horton:

Subsequent to our conversation yesterday, I am submitting herewith a brief summary of my experience and training in the engineering field:

June, 1930 - Received BS degree in Civil Engineering at Iowa State College, Ames, Iowa. Course included fundamental training in all general branches of Civil Engineering.

June, 1930 - to July, 1931 - Employed by Layne-Bowler Corp., Chicago, Ill. - Construction of large capacity water wells and installation of associated equipment. Six months on construction and 6 months as contracting engineer.

August 1931 - to Sept., 1934 - Mostly employed assisting father on farm with occasional short periods of employment in engineering, surveying land, inspecting highway construction, materials, etc.

Feb., 1936 - to April, 1938 - Biological Survey. Six months land acquisition surveys and 8 months on water-fowl refuge development work - Topog surveys and some construction layout and design.

April, 1938 - to present date - General Land Office Field Work.

Very respectfully,

Boundary Survey
By
Arthur D. Kidder

The south boundary of Colorado west of the continental divide, through Archuleta, La Plata, and Montezuma Counties.

With the completion in September, 1950, of the marking of the Colorado and New Mexico boundary, it may be reported that the property lines through La Plata County adjacent to the boundary were found to be in good position, in conformity with the township surveys. There are no conflicts with New Mexico property. By the treaty of 1868 with the Ute Indians their lands were to extend to the south boundary of Colorado, taking in a portion of Archeluta County, and all of La Plata and Montezuma Counties to the Colorado and Utah line. The Colorado and New Mexico boundary was surveyed in that same year. About ten years later the township surveys along the boundary were begun and continued until trouble developed in making satisfactory closures on the state line. Allotments were made to individual Ute Indians along the lower Pine River, but few allotments elsewhere that were near the boundary.

The unallotted lands still belong to the Ute tribe excepting where sales have been made. Only a few of the sales extend to the state boundary. Most of the latter are along the stream valleys south from the villages of Arboles, Allison, and Tiffany, Colo., where in most cases the section line surveys were terminated on the state line, and have been perpetuated in good order. These agree with the restored boundary.

Boulder Marked Survey

The valley of the Las Animas River is very narrow where it is crossed by the state line. Here, in 1868, a large boulder was marked in the boundary survey, which was well known in the early days, and has always been in that vicinity. Approaching the valley of the La Plata River from the east the state line survey recognized for the land surveys of 1868 was well marked, but it was poorly marked west from the river, although there have been no conflicts in the land surveys in this valley.

The 1868 survey was discontinued when reaching the rugged cliffs and deep gorges of the several forks that make up the head of the Barker Arroyo, which drains from the southwesternmost part of La Plata County, Colo., to the La Plata River in San Juan County, N. M. The boundary survey of 1868 was resumed at the foot of the last bluff of the Mesa Verde, and extended from there to the calculated position for the corner of the four territories of Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona, and Utah.

In this omitted interval the present Ute Mountain Indian lands extend across the boundary to include a large area in New Mexico, which takes in the whole of the Barker Dome oil and gas field as at present developed and producing. None of the Ute Mountain Indian lands in the vicinity of the state line have been subdivided or allotted to individual Indians. At the present time there are no oil and gas wells close enough to the boundary to have caused any question as to the jurisdiction at the location.

The line between La Plata County and Montezuma County, Colo., follows the high divide between the watershed of the La Plata River and that of the Manесos River. As the divide approaches the New Mexico boundary the county line is found to be located upon a rather flat mesa top between the westernmost fork of Barker Arroyo, draining to the southeast, and the easternmost fork of Salt Creek Wash; the latter, with its many forks drains to the southwest to the San Juan River.

Gap Causes Trouble

In Archuleta County, Colo., there was much trouble in the past concerning the location of the state boundary. Coming west from the continental divide the marking of the survey of 1863 was apparently discontinued when reaching what is now known as Ewell Canon, a gorge in the vicinity of Chromo, Colo., draining to the north. The plain marking of the boundary was resumed after the line crosses the Navajo River, where that stream flows from Colorado into New Mexico. This is the location of the old Archuleta Ranch, and later the site of Edith, Colo., a sawmill village now abandoned. It was the gap in the boundary survey that caused the trouble. When the line from the east was extended beyond Ewell Canon to the Navajo River, it was found to be located a considerable distance to the south of the boundary monuments west from the river. The boundary location was later settled by the General Land Office, Department of the Interior, by placing the offset on the east wall of Ewell Canon. This adjustment was an arbitrary solution, which was given very careful study before being decided upon, and survey in that manner directed and marked in 1916.

Archuleta Mountain lies just west of the valley of the Navajo River. The boundary was well marked to the top of the mountain, but discontinued from there to the top of the north face of the high mountain immediately south of Arboles. In between, the Navajo River flows back into Colorado, through a narrow gorge, reaching the San Juan River farther to the west. After confluence, the San Juan River flows southwesterly to the New Mexico boundary, then turns back into Colorado in a westerly course, running near Arboles before making a wide turn into New Mexico. The Piedra River joins the San Juan River at this turn. The southeastern corner of the Ute Indian lands is on the top of Archuleta Mountain. An unfortunate hardship was occasioned by reason of the non-marking of the boundary where the line first reached the San Juan River valley. There was an early Mexican settlement on the public lands south of the boundary, but settlement was not allowed in Colorado where the land belonged to the Ute Indians.
It developed later that the Mexican settlements extended too far north, encroaching upon the Ute lands. The encroachments had to be abandoned after 1916, when the General Land Office ordered the boundary marked in that vicinity.

Markers Destroyed

West of the Mesa Verde, at the slope below the westernmost high cliff, a large boulder was marked in 1868 to indicate the location of the boundary. Apparently, the marks of the survey from that point to the corner of the four territories became completely obliterated. None have been identified in recent years, although the present retrace- ment shows positively that the line was measured in 1868, and that several objects called for in the record can be identified, all in good position for true line. The Navajo Indian lands adjoin this part of the boundary on the south.

When Colorado was organized as a territory, Congress fixed the south boundary as the line of the 37th parallel of latitude; the plan of the 1868 survey was to locate and follow that line. The surveyor, Chud N. Darling, employed by the Department of the Interior, began the survey at an initial point which had been established about ten years earlier in the exploratory surveys of the U.S. Army Engineers. The plan was to mark the 37th parallel at intervals of one mile, locating its position in latitude by a series of ten astronomical stations distributed along the boundary. This was carried out in intent where it then appeared practicable to make a complete survey. The mile stations were marked with native stones, picked up nearby, of a size which one man could handle; the stones were appropriately marked for identification, and set in the ground. In some places bearing trees were also marked. Larger stones, or a large wooden post were placed at the ten astronomical stations.

New Mexico Sues

In legal aspect, after approval of the survey, the 1868 markers determined the true ground location of the boundary, unchangeable excepting as directed under competent jurisdiction. These are the monuments that were controlling for the retracement and remarking of the boundary as stipulated in the decree of the Supreme Court of the United States, entered April 13, 1925, in the case of the State of New Mexico vs. the State of Colorado (263 U.S. 108). The litigation grew out of the difficulty that had been experienced in identifying the line of 1868 as marked; from the omissions of the survey; and, from the discrepancies in position that came to be known when the township surveys were being established on the state boundary. In the decree closing the litigation, instructions were set out in detail for the retracement and remarking of the boundary; Arthur D. Kidder, an experienced engineer of the General Land Office, was designated as the commissioner to execute the survey.

Marking Stones Lost

Much of the difficulty in the identification of the 1868 survey came from the fact that a large proportion of the mile stations were located in rough, more or less inaccesible places, on the mountain slopes, most of them in timber and undergrowth, where the stone could not be recovered without tedious search, or by survey from a known starting point. Some of the stone became disturbed or lost as the years passed. The recent retracement shows less than one-third oblitaeration, west of the divide.

Major discrepancies in the direction of the line of the 1868 survey were discovered many years later when the townships along the boundary were being subdivided. It was found that the line between the astronimal stations failed to follow a true parallel, although observing stations were reasonably well located for astronomical latitude.
The large offset at Ewell Canon was the only error of that nature.
425 Miles Retraced

Excepting at Ewell Canon, all of the large discrepancies in the direction of the 1868 line were located east of the continental divide. The direction has been found to be exceptionally accurate through Archuleta, La Plata and Montezuma Counties of the west slope, particularly good for the acceptable standards of survey of that period. A few large discrepancies in the length of the line have come to light through the careful measurement and retracement of the whole boundary, 335 miles; errors in measurement do not afflect the location of the boundary in its latitudinal position. Most of the line of the 1868 survey was well measured according to the standards of that period; a good record was made of objects noted along the boundary, which has been a great aid in making a careful retracement of the line.
The intervals that were not measured or marked in 1868 have now been connected through, and monumented, all on good alignment.

New Markers Set Up

In the complete marking of the boundary substantial new markers have been placed at ev-evry mile interval. A monument has been placed at each highway and railroad crossing, and at every minor roadway; also on principal summits; and at the top of the principal cliffs which were overlooking valley land or wide depressions. Most of the new monuments are constructed of concrete, mixed at the station, the dry material carried in by pack animals. Each monument has a bronze tablet in its center, at the top, on which the inscription shows the location of the mile station, or of its intermediate position within the mile. In some inaccessible places, that can not be reached by pack animals, a red brass tubing has been employed for the monument. Bronze tablets were employed in the rock outcrop on the high cliffs.

During the period from 1893 to 1901 recommendations were made to the General Land Office to correct the survey along the state boundary; careful field examinations were directed to confirm the conditions as reported, and to ascertain additional facts needed for an understanding of the situation. An appropriation was passed to meet the cost of a resurvey. The instructions for the work were carefully prepared to meet the situation as it then appeared; the cost of a resurvey. This called for certain steps in the following manner:

omical observations, using the latest instruments and methods, at ten stations along the boundary; to set new monuments at intervals of one mile through the entire boundary, using iron post markers; and to search for and destroy all markers of the 1868 survey.

New Survey Made

The survey was made by Howard B. Carpenter, United States Surveyor and Astronomer, who in 1901 executed the survey of the boundary between Arizona and Utah on a similar plan for the determination of the position of that line. The new work was accomplished in 1902 through Montezuma, La Plata, and Archuleta Counties, and the remainder completed in 1903. The report of the Carpenter survey apparently confirmed the earlier information as to the character and condition of the survey of 1868.

There were large differences in latitudinal position in portions of the line, and only a small percent of the markers of 1868 were recovered and destroyed, indicating that the remainder had become lost or obliterated. At this stage, and with this more complete information as to the differences in latitude, the State of Colorado protested the acceptance and approval of the Carpenter survey. Further study was then given to the legal aspects of the situation, and the conclusion reached that the Department of the Interior lacked the jurisdiction to annul the survey of 1868 and to substitute the new boundary, although the latter was admittedly in more nearly the correct position as originally intended by Congress, and was well marked throughout its full length.

Two Lines: Confusing

New Mexico was then a territory and could not act in its own right until admission as a sovereign State. During this intervening period there was the condition of having two lines on the ground, the approved boundary of 1868 poorly marked; a new line closely located along the true 37th parallel and well marked, but lacking in due confirmation. Through the three counties the delay was felt greatest where fencing was needed to control the grazing. In some places the drift fences were constructed along the Carpenter line, there being no other guide as to the boundary location; in other places there was reliable information as to the location of the 1868 boundary and this was recognized. Most of such drift fences are of a character that can be moved to correct position if needed, without undue expense. The exception is that of a well constructed fence along the line of the Carpenter survey separating the pastures of the Ute Mountain Indians from those of the Navajo Indians. There are no other improvements along this line.

No Loss Involved

At some future date, when major repairs may become necessary, a new fence may be constructed along the line of the 1868 survey, now plainly and well marked. No substantial gain or loss will be involved in the acquiescence in its present position. The difference is about 500 feet at the highway, gradually playing out to nothing where the San Juan River flows back into Colorado. Every monument of the Carpenter survey has now been removed, with an exact measurement of the difference in location.

The field notes of the retracement and marking of the line and new maps are to be submitted to the Supreme Court for approval, and copies supplied to each State.

CITATION
FOR DISTINGUISHED SERVICE

MR. ARTHUR D. KIDDER

after completion of more than 45 years of Government service. During his service, Mr. Kidder demonstrated outstanding skill in the performance of his duties as a Cadastral Engineer and as an Astronomer. He made valuable scientific contributions which have been adopted and put in use throughout much of the Government service. He made the necessary astronomical observations and calculations in connection with the investigation of boundary lines between the various states and territories and his thorough work has been the basis of a number of determinations by the Federal courts. He has on two occasions been selected by the Supreme Court of the United States as Commissioner of the Court to establish state boundaries. His ability as a mathematician and astronomer is demonstrated by the calculation and compilation of the mathematical tables and formulas included in the Standard Field Tables and Trigonometric Formulas prepared by the General Land Office for the use of its engineering staff. These were first published in 1910 and are now in their sixth edition, being widely used by engineers in many of the Federal agencies as well as in private work. In 1910, Mr. Kidder prepared The Ephemeris of the Sun and Polaris to meet the needs of the engineering staff of the General Land Office in precise astronomical determinations of latitude and azimuth required in the field work. Mr. Kidder continued the preparation of the publication annually until 1944. In 1945, under his direction, to meet the needs of the armed forces, this Ephemeris was expanded to include essential data on 28 stars to permit rapid and accurate determinations of azimuth in the field. From 1910 to 1914 Mr. Kidder consulted with the manufacturers in proving the design and mechanical details of the improved solar transit which has been adopted as standard in the cadastral engineering service of the Bureau of Land Management and other Federal agencies. Again, from 1940 to 1945, he cooperated with the manufacturers in the design for improvements in the solar transit which has resulted in a new standard model of greatly improved accuracy. Mr. Kidder was Editor-in-Chief of the Board that prepared the Manual of Instructions for the Survey of Public Lands, editions of 1919 and 1930, and of the Board on Technical Procedures which prepared the present Manual of Surveying Instructions, edition of 1947. During the course of his work in the Cadastral Engineering Service, Mr. Kidder undertook and carried forward to completion many other projects wherein extremely high value were involved, with problems involving the application of the most precise and scientific survey procedures in their solution. For his contributions and devotion to public service, Mr. Kidder is deserving of the highest commendation of the Department.

My dear Mr. Clement:

Please mail to -

Commander H. W. Hemple,
Chief, Division of Geodesy,
U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey,
Department of Commerce,
Washington, 25, D. C., -

one copy of "Examples of Good Practice", Observations for Time, Latitude, and Azimuth, with a note that it is being sent at my request.

The subject comes up on the matter of a discussion of a paper which appeared in the November, 1917, issue of Proceedings, American Society of Civil Engineers, the article being entitled: "Determination of Position and Azimuth by Simple and Accurate Methods" by Professor T. F. Hickerson.

Mr. Wm. H. Richards Jr., M. Am. Soc. C. E., receives the Proceedings, and I am sure will be glad to loan same to you for the reading of the article in question.

Our practice as set out in the Manual is very different, and in my opinion, - far simpler, as we employ all data in terms of Greenwich mean noon, and the same equations that are used in making reductions of observations on the sun. Our plan, being entirely outside the scope of the article by Professor Hickerson, is not suitable as discussion material.

A review of the Manual methods could be presented as a new and separate article. The question is as to the interest, and its value for publication. Commander Hemple is a member of a Washington committee, A. Soc. C. E., which cooperates with the technical divisions of the Society in reviewing articles and the discussions thereof.

Recalling our recent conservation on "Definitions of Terms Used in Geodetic and Other Surveys", - I am now in receipt of a copy of same, 5th edition, sent to me by Commander Hemple. I am really surprised at the great amount of work that was put into the compilation.

With kindest personal regards,

Yours very sincerely,

My dear Mr. Kidder:

With your approaching separation from our organization by retirement, I wish to take this opportunity of expressing officially and personally my appreciation for the services rendered during your long association with the General Land Office and the Bureau of Land Management.

In the more than 46 years which have elapsed since you first joined the organization, you have made major contributions to the advancement of the technical procedures in our cadastral engineering work. The numerous technical publications which you have authored will stand as a monument to your abilities. I feel that the Federal service as a whole has profited greatly by your association with our work.

May I take this opportunity to extend our best wishes to you with the hope that you will enjoy the freedom which you so richly deserve.

Very sincerely,

Effective Date: December 31, 1946

Acting Director

Accomplishment Title: Surveying Public Lands.

JUSTIFICATION: (Reason justifying no extension for the service recommended)

Retirement under act approved January 24, 1942.
Mr. Kidder has been serving since April 1, 1946, under a continuance beyond retirement are approved by the Secretary on March 19, 1946, limited to the period of need for his services in connection with a revision of the Manual of Instructions for the Survey of the Public Lands of the United States. This work has now passed the galley proof stage and the purpose for which he was continued has been accomplished.
Because a young lad in Indiana more than half-century ago made a pal of Polaris, the North Star, the General Land Office of the Department of the Interior today maintains a system of surveying on the public domain geared to the sun and stars, higher mathematics and civil engineering skill, that has been accepted as accurate in many court battles involving millions of dollars worth of property in the United States.

Today, that young Indianan, Arthur D. Kidder, cadastral engineer for the Eastern Survey District of the General Land Office in Washington, after 40 years in the Government service, still utilizes his intimate acquaintanceship with Polaris and the Sun to promote unfailing accuracy in measurements of land on which the nation's wealth and strength rest. Through his efforts, valuable information is furnished other surveyors which enable them to determine a whole year in advance the position of these celestial bodies at any given moment of any day in the twelve-month period. From these statistical tables, technically called the General Land Office Ephemeris, the surveyors are able to establish an absolutely true north and south line upon which to base their measurements of the land.

Behind these four decades of service lies the story little known to the general public of another scientific development by the Government which has contributed technical knowledge and skill to activities important in private life. In order adequately to evaluate this service, it is necessary to take a quick glance at two angles of the problem involved in the earlier measurement of the vast extent of the public domain.

Prior to 1910, survey of the public lands was carried on under a contract system by which the Government utilized the service of private surveyors in the several States who were paid by the mile for the amount of land surveyed. In some instances, accuracy was sacrificed for mileage. In other cases discrepancies in the work occurred, with the result that the contract system was replaced in that year by the direct method of surveying by cadastral engineers of the General Land Office.

Another important factor in connection with the work of the Government scientist lay in the fact that the earlier surveys were conducted with the use of the magnetic needle compass; in some areas of the United States deposits of minerals in the ground affected the accuracy of the compass calculations, and errors in public land measurements occurred, particularly in Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Scientists long ago had recognized the disadvantages of the magnetic compass and as early as 1838, William A. Burt devised a solar compass by which a true north and south line could be determined from the position of the Sun and the North Star. But it was not until the advent of Mr. Kidder in the Government service that use of the solar transit was developed to the extent now employed in the surveying work on the public domain. A year-by-year recital of his career tells its own story of the advancement in scientific land measurement.
Although born in Michigan in 1876, Mr. Kidder received his early education at the Terre Haute High School, graduated with honors from a course in civil engineering at the Rose Polytechnic School in that city in 1899, and received the degree of master of science in astronomy in 1901, after post graduate work at Columbia University, now George Washington University in Washington, D.C.

A recognized pioneer in the scientific field which combines field astronomy, mathematics and civil engineering in methods for land measurement, the young scientist was called into the General Land Office in 1901 to revamp earlier tables used by the Government in observing the position of the Sun and North Star, over a ten-year period. Later, these computations were to be broken down by Mr. Kidder into the present daily ephemeris, which he has prepared annually for the past 30 years.

In addition, the General Land Office engineer took active part in the development of the surveying instrument known as the solar transit, devoting more than four years to personal consultation with the makers in perfecting its design and mechanical details. Out of these activities came a new standard of accuracy in the surveying of hundreds of thousands of miles of land all over the United States and Alaska.

Naturally, these instruments, transported over rough terrain, sometimes get out of order. Solution of this problem has been brought about by the establishment in the General Land Office in Washington of a laboratory, the only one of its kind in the world containing special equipment for the testing and repair of the solar transit. All of this equipment was planned and installed by Mr. Kidder and his associates.
Land survey work involves the use of complicated mathematical tables. Up until 1910, there was no publication in existence which contained all of these computations. After six months of work, Mr. Kidder completed the assembly of such information into a document which today is known throughout the civil engineering world as the Standard Field Tables. He also is the author of the manual of practice for use in surveying the public lands, a surveyors' guide never assembled in such a comprehensive form before his entrance into the Government service.

Records of the General Land Office disclose that hard, practical work, involving months of slogging through swamps, trudging over mountains, and wandering over desert areas played an equally important part with theoretical calculations in the building up of the public land survey system to its present state of efficiency.

When in 1910 the contract system of surveying was replaced by direct survey work under the General Land Office, Mr. Kidder aided in the task of getting the new work started, and in that capacity travelled over a large portion of the West. Through the years that followed, the Government scientist's services frequently were called upon for the settlement of important land disputes.

For example, litigation arose over the title of the United States to land in northeastern Arkansas which was complicated by the existence of many lakes and swamps created by frequent floods in the St. Francis River. Impossible of survey in earlier land measurement operations, the boundaries in 150,000 acres of land were determined by Mr. Kidder, whose findings were sustained by the courts. Other land measurement disputes, notably in Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico, Louisiana, and other States, were settled in the courts when the scientist's findings were accepted without protest.

Down in south central Florida, the Seminole Indians in 1870 interfered with the work of surveyors. Compelled to work without sufficient military protection, some portions of the public lands and lakes in that region were not included on the original survey maps. Later, settlers came into the area and disputes arose over their right to the land which now embraces the richest citrus areas in the State. Between 1915 and 1920, Mr. Kidder was called upon to make surveys which resulted in the settlement of between 30 and 40 of these claims, involving 5,000 acres, without the registering of a single complaint against his findings.

The historic argument in 1919–21 between Oklahoma and Texas over the boundaries of land bordering on the Red River was, perhaps, the most formidable task encountered during the scientist's 40 years of Government service. It took four seasons of field work to complete the job to which he was assigned as special commissioner for the Supreme Court of the United States. Preparing 92 maps of his surveys, all of his findings were accepted by the Court. During the course of the litigation, operation of valuable oil well properties was conducted under a receivership and funds from their production impounded pending settlement of the controversy. As a result of Mr. Kidder's calculations, more than $28,000,000 finally was distributed without protest.

This unusual case also is found in the General Land Office records:

Some time ago, the cadastral engineer retraced the measurements of surveys made in 1839 of land in Ferry Lake township, Caddo parish, Louisiana. After the work was done, a private suit arose over the location of a certain oil well, which resulted in the impounding of $800,000. When the well was drilled, the local surveyor placed it in the southeast quarter of a section; after it came into production, adjoining property owners claimed it was located in the southwest quarter. Although the area was not public land, the Supreme Court of Louisiana remanded the case to the Caddo district court, which asked Mr. Kidder to establish the true location of the section boundaries. Determining the true north and south center line of the section, he found that the well was only 18 inches from the north and south center line, but that it actually was located in the southwest quarter. Here again, his decision was accepted by the litigants without question.

One task still awaiting completion by the Government scientist is the retracement and establishment of 330 miles of boundary line between New Mexico and Colorado. Selected by the Supreme Court of the United States to perform this work, Mr. Kidder already has completed his task on 230 miles of that line, actually identifying more than two-thirds of the original marks placed there in 1868, and constructing more than 400 concrete monuments to mark the line. In addition, he has prepared maps of a strip a mile wide along the line, which include detailed description of the topography along the boundary. There are still 90 miles of this work to be finished whenever the States involved are in a position to provide funds for its progress.
GOVERNMENT'S "ACE" SURVEYOR RETIRES

Arthur D. Kidder, leading cadastral engineer in the Department of the Interior, whose scientific land measurements have been accepted as accurate in many court battles involving millions of dollars worth of property in the United States, retired from the Government service with the beginning of 1947, it was announced today by Acting Director Fred W. Johnson of the Bureau of Land Management.

Mr. Kidder is remaining temporarily in Washington doing consultation work.

One of the foremost scientists in the Government's ranks, Mr. Kidder began his public career 45 years ago when he joined the technical force of the then General Land Office, now part of the Bureau of Land Management, in the Department of the Interior in 1901. Through the nearly half century of service which followed he became a universally recognized expert in the technical aspects of cadastral engineering involved in the measurement of the Nation's public lands. As a result of his efforts valuable information today is furnished other surveyors which enable them to determine a whole year in advance the position of the Sun and North Star at any given moment of any day in the twelve-month period. Out of these activities came a new standard of accuracy in the surveying of hundreds of thousands of miles of land all over the United States and Alaska.

Naturally, these instruments, transported over rough terrain, sometimes get out of order. The establishment in the Department of a laboratory containing special equipment for the testing and repair of the solar transit solved this problem. All of this equipment was planned and installed by Mr. Kidder and his associates. One of its features involved the use of an instrument known as a collimator for the simulation within doors of the space normally needed properly to test survey instruments.

Land survey work necessitates the use of complicated mathematical tables. Up until 1910, there was no publication in existence which contained all of these computations. After six months of work, Mr. Kidder completed the assembly of such information into a document which today is known throughout the civil engineering world as the Standard Field Tables. STATEMENT OF DISTINGUISHED SERVICE

Arthur D. Kidder, born March 26, 1876, entered the service of the General Land Office on July 25, 1900. He was retired on December 31, 1926, after a career of more than 45 years of distinguished service in the General Land Office and its successor, the Bureau of Land Management. At the time of his retirement he held the position of District Cadastral Engineer in charge of surveys in the Eastern Surveying District.

During those years of service Mr. Kidder demonstrated outstanding skill in the performance of his duties as a Cadastral Engineer and an Astronomer and made valuable scientific contributions which have been adopted and put in use throughout much of the Government service.

Mr. Kidder received his engineering training at Rose Polytechnic Institute where he was graduated as a Civil Engineer. Shortly after entering the service of the General Land Office he pursued a course of astronomy at Columbian University (now George Washington University) and the Naval Observatory, receiving the degree of Master of Science in astronomy.

Subsequently, and pursuant to the act of Congress approved January 15, 1901 (31 Stat. 731) Mr. Kidder was assigned to the determination of the intersection of the true 100th meridian with Red River by astronomical methods which he accomplished expeditiously and correctly.

In 1903 Mr. Kidder was detailed as Astronomer and Surveyor to make the necessary astronomical observations and calculations and to project such true lines as were required to mark upon the ground the point of intersection of the 100th meridian and the 103rd meridian of west longitude with the parallel of 35° 30' N., latitude; the point of intersection of the 103rd meridian of west longitude with the 32nd parallel of north latitude; and the point of intersection of the 32nd parallel of north latitude with the Rio Grande River, all in connection with the investigation of the boundary lines between the state of Texas and the territories of New Mexico and Oklahoma. This complicated work was accomplished by Mr. Kidder and has been recognized as authoritative since that time.

During the course of his work in the Cadastral Engineering Service of the General Land Office Mr. Kidder undertook and carried forward to completion many other projects wherein extremely high values were involved, with problems involving the application of the most precise and scientific survey procedures in their solution.

His thorough study and investigation of Ferry Lake in Louisiana resulted in the upholding, by the Supreme Court of the United States, of the title of the Federal Government to large areas of land in a producing oil field.

His thorough study and grasp of technical matters lead to his selection, on two occasions, by the Supreme Court of the United States as a Commissioner of the Court to establish State boundaries. One of these appointments involved the survey of the Texas-Oklahoma boundary along Red River and followed his work in cooperation with the staff of the Department of Justice in preparing for the trial of the suit for development of physical evidence. In the second case he was appointed as Commissioner of the Court to resurvey the boundary between the states of Colorado and New Mexico which he had previously investigated as an employee of the General Land Office.

In the field of scientific contribution, by virtue of his ability as a mathematician and astronomer during his service with the General Land Office Mr. Kidder calculated and compiled the mathematical tables and formulas included in the "Standard Field Tables and Trigonometric Formulas" prepared by the General Land Office for the use of its engineering staff. These tables were first published about 1910 and are now in the 6th edition; being widely used by the engineers in practically all of the Federal agencies as well as those in private work.

The Ephemeris of the Sun and Polaris published by the General Land Office was devised and prepared by Mr. Kidder in 1910 to meet the needs of the engineering staff of the General Land Office in precise astronomical determinations of latitude and azimuth required in the field work. Mr. Kidder continued the preparation of this publication annually until 1944; it is and has been extensively used throughout the Government service and is one of the "Best Sellers" of the Superintendent of Documents to the engineering profession outside of the Federal service. In 1945, under Mr. Kidder's direction, to meet the needs of the armed forces engaged in global warfare this Ephemeris was expanded to include essential data on 28 stars to permit rapid and accurate determinations of azimuth in the field. The tables thus expanded have been adopted by the military forces of the Army.

Throughout his Government service Mr. Kidder was intensely interested in the advancement of the standards of the cadastral engineering work in all its phases. From 1910 to 1914 he devoted much time to personal consultation with the manufacturers in perfecting the design and mechanical details of the improved solar transit, which has been adopted as standard in the cadastral engineering service of the General Land Office and this Bureau, as well as other Federal agencies. Again, from about 1940 to 1945 he cooperated with the manufacturers in the design for improvements in the solar transit which has resulted in a new standard model of greatly improved accuracy.

Mr. Kidder was Editor-in-Chief of the Board which prepared the Manual of Instructions for the Survey of the Public Lands, editions of 1919 and 1930 and of the Board on Technical Procedures which prepared the present Manual of Surveying Instructions, edition of 1947.

MEMORANDUM:

To: The Director (Attention Personnel Officer)
From: Everett H. Kimmell, Cadastral Engineer.
Subject: Service Record.

On my retirement record card (Form 2086) on file in the office of the Regional Administrator, Region V, I find that my first five periods of service are not shown. All of this service was with the General Land Office. The omitted periods, to the best of my knowledge, are as follows:

- June 2 to Sept. 18, 1914, in Idaho.
- June 5 to Oct. 11, 1915, in Idaho.

During the first four of the above periods I was employed as a Chairman at salaries of $55 and $60 per month, and during the fifth period as a Flagman at salaries of $45 and $50 per month, as shown in a letter from Donald B. Clement, Regional Cadastral Engineer, dated Oct. 26, 1946, a copy of which is attached hereto.

I feel that a correction of the record should be made at the earliest possible date, and since the above will add a considerable amount of service to my record, I would like to request that the Regional Administrator be authorized to enter this service on my service record card.

Everett H. Kimmell,
Cadastral Engineer.

Commissioner of the General Land Office.

Order No. 279.
April 19, 1924.

Mr. George A. Parky,
Asst. Supervisor of Surveys & Public Lands,
Juneau, Alaska.

Dear Sir:

I transmit herewith your appointment as Assistant Supervisor of Surveys and Public Lands, at a salary of $4,000 per annum, effective on the date of your entrance on duty, also oath of office which you will please execute and return to this office.

As I wired you April 16, it was suggested that you enter on duty under your new appointment on that date.

Very truly yours,

(Signed) Frank W. Johnson

Supervisor of Surveys.

RGM.
Mr. George A. Parks,
General Land Office.

Sir:

The President having authorized the apportionment of the regular appropriations for the fiscal year 1925 to enable the Department to adjust rates of compensation of certain civilian employees in field services, as intended by the provisions of Bill H. R. 9551, which failed of signature in the last session of Congress, you are hereby notified that your position and salary, effective July 1, 1924, and until further notice, will be as follows:

Assistant Supervisor of Surveys and Public Lands at $4400 per annum.

By direction of the Secretary:

(Signed) GEO. E. SCOTT,

Air Mail

April 2, 1948

Mr. George A. Parks,
Juneau, Alaska.

Dear Governor:

I read with mixed feelings your letter of March 24. To say that you have well earned retirement is indeed putting it mildly when I think of the 40 years of your life you have given to the Government and of your arduous and successful efforts which have contributed so much to the welfare of Alaska that you have decided to relax and enjoy life before it is too late is but an example of the good judgment you have always displayed. And Alaska is not to lose you, which is her good fortune and ours.

Reluctantly I think of our surveying organization without your guiding hand, even though I appreciate fully the superior qualifications of Messrs. Ross and Berlin. Without thee the situation would be hopeless.

Answering your question specifically, the allotment to Alaska for surveying public lands is being increased from $48,000 to $52,000 to cover your lump sum payment in view of your contemplated retirement on June 30.

Warm regards and best wishes to you, Governor,

Sincerely,

cc: Mr. Puckett (Air Mail)

P.S. The Accounting Branch informs me that reimbursable items in amounts of $1133.61, $165.61 and $743.89, or a total of $2,043.31 increase the $52,000 to $54,043.31.
Juneau, Alaska.
March 24, 1948.

Mr. A.C. Horton Jr.
Washington D.C.

My dear Mr. Horton.

(Personal)

I think that we have discussed plans for retirement several times in recent years and that you have been aware of my intention to leave the service soon after my next birthday. Many years ago I began to plan so that I could retire when I reached that anniversary and I have been fortunate in that no untoward circumstances have arisen to cause me to change the plan. It is true that at the time the plan was formulated the effective date was far in the future and I gave little thought to the situation that would confront me when the day arrived. Now that it is almost here I find that I am deeply conscious of the difficult adjustment that must be made. I think that no one can contemplate severing the ties of nearly forty years of service without being disturbed emotionally and I do not find it easy. Nevertheless I realize that sooner or later it must come and that it would be much more difficult later when I might not be able to travel and do the many other things that will help to keep me busy.

I have made tentative plans to retire the latter part of June, preferably at the end of a pay period to simplify the paper work, but the actual date depends on the status of our allotment. I have accumulated ninety days leave and that represents a considerable sum of money. I do not know whether funds are available to pay my terminal leave. If not then I will have to wait until after July first. You can advise me about the funds, I prefer the earlier date but will not make a formal application until I hear from you.

I have advised Mr. Fucket informally of my plans so that he may be considering the necessary arrangements in his office. Insofar as the Public Survey Office work is concerned there need be no apprehension. For more than a year Mr. Ross has been working with me on all phases of the work and he is familiar with the procedures and details in the office and field. Mr. Berlin has had wide experience in the field and knows Alaska. These men have remained with the organization in Alaska notwithstanding other attractive offers of employment and it is my feeling that they have earned, and are entitled to, first consideration for advancement. In fact I do not know of any one else who is qualified to carry on the work. In the event that funds are available for an expanded program they can plan and direct the work in an efficient manner.

I cannot commend too highly the employees of this office for their loyalty to the organization and their devotion to duty. I have entrusted them with responsibility and they never have failed to justify the confidence I have placed in them. They have made it possible to carry on the work.

It has been my good fortune throughout the years to be intimately associated with most of those who have directed the activities of the organization. Always I have received cooperation and courteous consideration far beyond the requirements of our official relations. With retirement from active duty the official contacts will exist no longer but the memories of associates who have gone and the friendship of those who remain will be with me always and they will be a source of satisfaction and pleasure in the years to come.

I shall continue to reside in Alaska and always it will be a pleasure to be of service to those who may be called upon to carry on the work. My immediate plans are to spend the summer with my folks at West Yellowstone, returning to Juneau in time for the Fall hunting and fishing.

Please give my regards to Tom Havell, Earl Harrington, Don Clement, Will Richards and my other friends in the office.

With kindest personal regards,

Cordially yours,

Geo. A. Parks

I was first appointed as a transcribing clerk in the office of U. S. Surveyor General for Idaho, on January 20, 1887, at the rate of $5.00 per day, payable from deposits by individuals for surveying public lands.

March 14, 1887, on account of inadequate funds, pay changed from $5.00 per day to $3.50 per day. Paid from "Deposits by Individuals Surveying Public Lands, Mineral Deposits", and from the regular appropriation when on agricultural work.

December 4, 1888. Pay changed from $3.50 per day as transcribing clerk to $1100.00 per annum, payable from the appropriation for clerk hire, and also from "Special Deposits by Individuals".

October 31, 1890. End of service under first appointment.

July 27, 1893. My second appointment as a transcribing clerk in the office of U. S. Surveyor General for Idaho, at $3.50 per diem, payable from the regular salary appropriation and from "Deposits by Individuals". Continued to be paid at the rate of $3.50 per diem and at $1100.00 per annum, changing back and forth at such compensation, and payable from same funds, as transcribing clerk, until July 1, 1901.

July 1, 1901, compensation was increased to $4.00 per diem as transcribing clerk and accountant.

July 1, 1902. A salary of $1200.00 per year as accountant and transcribing clerk was paid.

August 1, 1902, appointed as temporary chief clerk, with a salary at the rate of $1500.00 per annum, as recommended by Hon. Commissioner of the General Land Office to the Civil Service Commission on Sept. 5, 1902. By telegram dated Oct. 1, 1902, from Hon. Commissioner G.L.O., authority given to continue me as temporary chief clerk at rate of salary of $1500.00 per annum until Civil Service Commission acts.

Oct. 23, 1902, authority given for permanent appointment as Accountant, transcribing clerk and examiner at $1500 per annum, which was approved by the Civil Service Commission. This salary was paid until July 1, 1904, when it was reduced to $1300.00 per annum.
April 1, 1906. Placed on the rolls as draftsman at $1300.00, where I was continued as such and under same compensation until July 1, 1910, when I was placed on the rolls as transcribing clerk and accountant, at a salary of $1100 per annum, in which position I remained until July 1, 1924, and during which time my basic salary remained the same.

July 1, 1924, my basic salary was increased to $1380, and the amount of my salary remained at this figure at the close of the fiscal year on June 30, 1925.

The entire term of my service as a government employee, beginning on January 20, 1887, to June 30, 1925, has been in the office of the U. S. Surveyor General for Idaho.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR
WASHINGTON

June 29, 1925.

Mr. John W. Rowland of Oregon.

Sir:

You have been appointed by the Secretary of the Interior, subject to taking the oath of office, an Office Cadastral Engineer (Grade 13) in the Office of District Cadastral Engineer, Portland, Oregon, at $3000 per annum, effective July 1, 1925, by transfer from Chief Clerk (Grade 13) in the Office of Surveyor General of Oregon, at the same salary.

Very respectfully,

J. W. Atwood
Acting Chief, Division of Appointments, Mails and Files.

Through the Commissioner of the General Land Office.

Order No. 649.
I, the undersigned, entered the service in the office of the U.S. Surveyor General of Oregon, Bureau, General Land Office, Department of the Interior, January 1, 1895, as Assistant Draftsman at a salary of $1000.00 per annum; salary increased to $1200.00 per annum July 1, 1896; salary increased to $1400.00 per annum November 1, 1901. January 7, 1925.

Dr. George H. Phelps,
President and General Manager,
Phelps Occupational Bureaus, Inc.,
Denver, Colorado.

Dear Sir:

I have your letter of the 5th instant making inquiry as to the training and character of Mr. Alton O. Stinson, who has registered with you for employment.

The records of this office, under which Mr. Stinson worked for a number of years, show that he was born in Wisconsin, August 5, 1889, and that he attended the high schools of Sauk Center, Minnesota, and Grand Forks, North Dakota, and also the University of North Dakota. Prior to entering this service the record states that he was engaged in civil engineering, especially along the lines of street paving and later cadastral surveys.

Mr. Stinson became a member of this service of which I have charge March 1, 1913, and resigned April 28, 1918, to enter the army, with which he served in France as sergeant, Co. B, 527th Engineers. Shortly after the signing of the armistice he was honorably discharged and since that time has been engaged in private work.

While in this service between March 1, 1913 and April 28, 1918, he served in a responsible engineering capacity in various parts of the country. His record of work is excellent. He is intelligent, capable and conscientious, and of a temperament that enables him to get along well with men in his employ. He was not one of our highest grade engineers, and may not have reached the top in many years, but his qualities are such that he was considered a valuable man in practically any situation. He is dependable and Special Experience in Public Land Surveying: I began surveying Public Lands in Montana in the spring of 1905, for Frank E. Maxwell who had the contract to survey 6 townships there. After completing this contract Mr. Maxwell and I formed a partnership and were awarded the contract to survey 12 townships in Croyee Co., Ida., after completing this contract I helped Mr. R. J. Wood with his contract near Weiser, Ida. After completing this I worked a contract of my own near Nezitoe, Ida., I have worked at Public Land Surveys nearly continuously since I left college and began in Montana in 1905. During which time I have had all of the different positions to fill but most of the time I have acted as transit man.

August 1, 1927.

Mr. Wm. H. Thorn,
U.S. Cadastral Engineer, Retired,
214 W. Cypress,
Redlands, California.

Dear Mr. Thorn;

Enclosed is letter of July 27 to you from Mr. Johnson, relative to your treatise on the "Care and Use of Field Equipment."

The treatise is meeting with an enthusiastic response from the field and again I wish to thank you for it.

Mr. Leroy Hanson received an appointment and is now with Mr. Kinsey north of the Grand Canyon. Mr. Hunter is here in the office for a few days, after the recent completion of the Mt. Lemon work north of Tucson. He will soon join Mr. Blout who is engaged near Prescott. Messrs. Hisler and Vander Meer are surveying Mt. Shasta, with Mr. Siebecker near there on another railroad fraction. Mr. Joy is making an investigation of overlap conditions near the Coast north of Eureka. Mr. Warboys is resurveying T. 11 N., R. 5 W., north of San Francisco and Mr. Campbell is segregating mineral claims near Auburn. Messrs. Averill and Wilson are engaged in a prolonged search for control, preliminary to resurveying the Sespe Hot Spring township. A return to Mt. Wilson will be necessary to search for control in T. 1 N., R. 11 W., S.B.M. Do you happen to remember whether you found any original corners in T. 1 N., R. 11 W., especially on the west boundary, in your survey of the Angeles Forest boundary many years ago for the Geological Survey?

I expect to leave here the night of August 5, and after a visit to the camp of Messrs. Averill and Wilson I will arrive in San Francisco about August 12.

How are you enjoying your well earned rest? Please remember me to your family.

With best regards, I am,

Sincerely yours,

[Signature]

OFFICE OF THE SUPERVISOR OF SURVEYS
Denver, Colorado

July 27, 1927.

Mr. W. H. Thorn,
Redlands, California.

My dear Mr. Thorn:

Mr. A. C. Horton, Jr., District Cadastal Engineer, has furnished me with copy of your treatise on "Care and Use of Field Equipment," which also has been supplied the field men in District No. 5.

The detailed suggestions which you have made for handling and preserving field equipment reflect your practical experience and careful observation in the many ways of maintaining it in an efficient and serviceable condition.

Your effort in preparing this article and making it available for our Service is greatly appreciated.

With kind regards to you and Mrs. Thorn, I am

Very sincerely,

JF
Supervisor of Surveys.
Redlands, Calif.,
July 5, 1927.

Mr. A. C. Horton, Jr.,
District Cadastral Engineer,
145 Sansome Street,
San Francisco, Calif.

Dear Mr. Horton:

In retiring I want to thank you and Mr. Johnson for all of the nice things you have done for me. It has been a pleasure to have been in your division and I want to thank all the boys that have been in my party for their loyal support.
I don't think any field man ever had better crews than I have had in the last 41 years. I want to thank the Phoenix and San Francisco office force for all they have done for me.

To my chiefs:-- I have had the best.

Yours truly,

(Signed) William H. Thorn,
U. S. Cadastral Engineer (retired)
Thornton, William H., Cadastral Engineer, $3000.

Retired at close of business June 30, 1927.
May 14, 1927.

Mr. William H. Thorn,
Cadastral Engineer,
San Francisco, California.

My dear Billy Thorn:

I notice from the recent letter of the Acting Secretary of the Interior that Father Time, with the aid of Congress and the Civil Service Commission, has finally opened the door for you to the enchanted land of our dreams, where physical hardships and mental worries become only cherished memories of bygone days.
I envy and congratulate you.

Few men are blessed with the strength and health
you have always enjoyed, and fewer still have retained with the advancing years your fine and wholesome view of life. These qualities contribute to the enviable reputation you enjoy in this and sister services as a man and as an engineer. In our own Hall of Fame you will always occupy a niche for your genuineness, honesty and high efficiency.

The deep regret I feel at your leaving the Service is partially offset by my knowledge of your desire to retire, and in this I think you are wise.
You are in the prime of life and can devote many years to what you want to do rather than to what some one else wants you to do. But in your going the ties of friendship that have bound our little group these many years must not be severed or loosened. Those of us who are still doing time want to be looked upon by you as in the days of old, for I am sure our interest will never grow less in the welfare and happiness of you, Mrs.
Thorn.

Very sincerely,

Mr. A. C. Horton, Jr.,
District Cadastral Engineer,
Phoenix, Arizona.

Dear Mr. Horton;

Your letter May 6th just received.

I will be very glad to retire June 30th and I thank you and Mr. Johnson for the interest you have taken in my case. I don't think it would be right for me to ask for an extension of time after what has been done for me. I am well satisfied to step down and give someone else a chance. I will be glad to meet you in San Francisco.

Yours truly,

William H. Thorn

Sir:

Receipt is acknowledged of your letter of October 29, 1925, requiring evidence showing the correct date of the birth of Miss Eudora Vestal.

Miss Vestal has presented, for my personal inspection, a bible, issued in 1862, containing the following record in faded ink:

Emily I. Buhman, was born May 27, 1838.
Geo. A. Vestal, was born Dec. 18th, 1863.
Eudora Vestal, was born March 17th, 1871.
WM. S. Vestal, was born November 12th, 1868.
Olive Mary Vestal, was born Nov. 13th, 1876.

As this bible is an old and valued heirloom and is not the exclusive possession of Miss Vestal, she can not well forward it as evidence.

Very respectfully,

A. C. Horton, Jr.,
District Cadastral Engineer.
