BURNS INTERAGENCY FIRE ZONE CONDUCTING PRESCRIBED BURNS

HINES, Oregon – Fire crews from the Burns Interagency Fire Zone (BIFZ) expect to conduct several prescribed burns within Harney County this fall. Officials say, if weather permits, they will begin burning the week of September 24 and continue operations off and on until the snow flies.

Projects for this fall include 1,900 acres in Miller Canyon, 12 miles northeast of Crane at the junction of the Stinking Water Access Road and the Warm Springs Reservoir Road; 2,500 acres at Oliver Springs, 9 miles south of Diamond between McCoy and Cucamonga Creeks; 700 acres along Devine Ridge, 12 miles northeast of Burns near Highway 395 at Devine Ridge Spring; and 1,000 acres in Landing Creek, 12 miles northwest of Burns. Several slash pile burns scattered throughout the District and at least five forest underburns north of town between Yellowjacket Lake and Drewsey may also occur as conditions allow.

There may be noticeable smoke and increased traffic around project areas. The Devine Ridge burn will be highly visible to area residents and will likely be the first project underway. The public should be aware of the activity and avoid the work sites as much as possible.

The BIFZ conducts a number of prescribed burns each year to reduce fuel loading and the risk of catastrophic large wildfires, to increase forage for livestock and wildlife, and to improve wildlife habitat. Fire Management Officer Mike Morcom said, "These projects are important in our efforts to develop more fire resilient and healthier ecosystems. In the long term, completing these projects will allow for lower intensity fires that are more in tune with the historic natural occurrence of fire in this area."
