BLM Seeks Volunteers for North Spit Beach Cleanup

COOS BAY, Ore. – Anyone interested in sprucing up the North Spit's bayside beach is invited to participate in the Bureau of Land Management's (BLM) annual National Public Lands Day volunteer event on Saturday, September 29.

Volunteers will pick up litter or complete trail maintenance. The event runs from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and participants should meet at the BLM Boat Ramp on Trans Pacific Parkway.

Individuals, families and community groups of all ages are welcome. All tools, safety equipment, and materials for the projects will be provided. Volunteers should wear outdoor work clothes and bring sunscreen and water. In appreciation for their work, volunteers will receive a National Public Lands Day T-shirt.

As the nation's largest one-day volunteer event in support of public lands, National Public Lands Day hosts more than 2,100 sites in all 50 states and the District of Columbia with a wide array of activities. Volunteers' one-day efforts will equal more than $17 million in improvements.

For more information, contact Bob Golden with the BLM at 541-756-0100. Additional information on National Public Lands Day can be found online at www.publiclandsday.org

About BLM

The BLM manages more land – 245 million surface acres – than any other Federal agency. This land, known as the National System of Public Lands, is primarily located in 12 Western States, including Alaska. The Bureau, with a budget of about $1 billion, also administers 700 million acres of sub-surface mineral estate throughout the nation. The BLM's multiple-use mission is to sustain the health and productivity of the public lands for the use and enjoyment of present and future generations. The Bureau accomplishes this by managing such activities as outdoor recreation, livestock grazing, mineral development, and energy production, and by conserving natural, historical, cultural, and other resources on public lands.
