

COOS BAY WAGON ROAD PILOT PROJECT

The Coos Bay Wagon Road (CBWR) pilot project is a cooperative effort between the Coquille Indian Tribe and the Coos Bay District of the Bureau of Land Management. The objective of the project is to apply the ecological principles suggested by Professor's Norm Johnson and Jerry Franklin in designing a variable retention regeneration harvest in the moist forests of the Oregon Coast Range.

After consulting with the professors and a neighboring tribe, the BLM and Coquille Indian Tribe selected T28S, R10W, Section 17 on the Coos Bay Wagon Road Lands as the location for the pilot timber sale. This area is typical of moist forests found throughout the Oregon coast range and meets the specifications outlined by Professors Johnson and Franklin. The area is approximately 200 acres in size and contains Matrix and Riparian Reserve land use allocations. Tribe and BLM specialists will work together on a joint interdisciplinary team to analyze the environmental effects of the timber sale. The BLM and Tribe will provide multiple opportunities for you to review the project's progress and provide feedback.
