The Scout Camp Loop Trail (hiker only) heads over to and then down into the Deschutes River canyon for a 2.2 mile loop.

Directions to Otter Bench Trailhead from Highway 97

From Highway 97, just north of Terrebonne, turn left on to Lower Bridge Road (Sign with left arrow says "Crooked River Ranch").

After 2 miles turn right on 43rd St.

After 1.7 miles turn left on Chinook Dr.

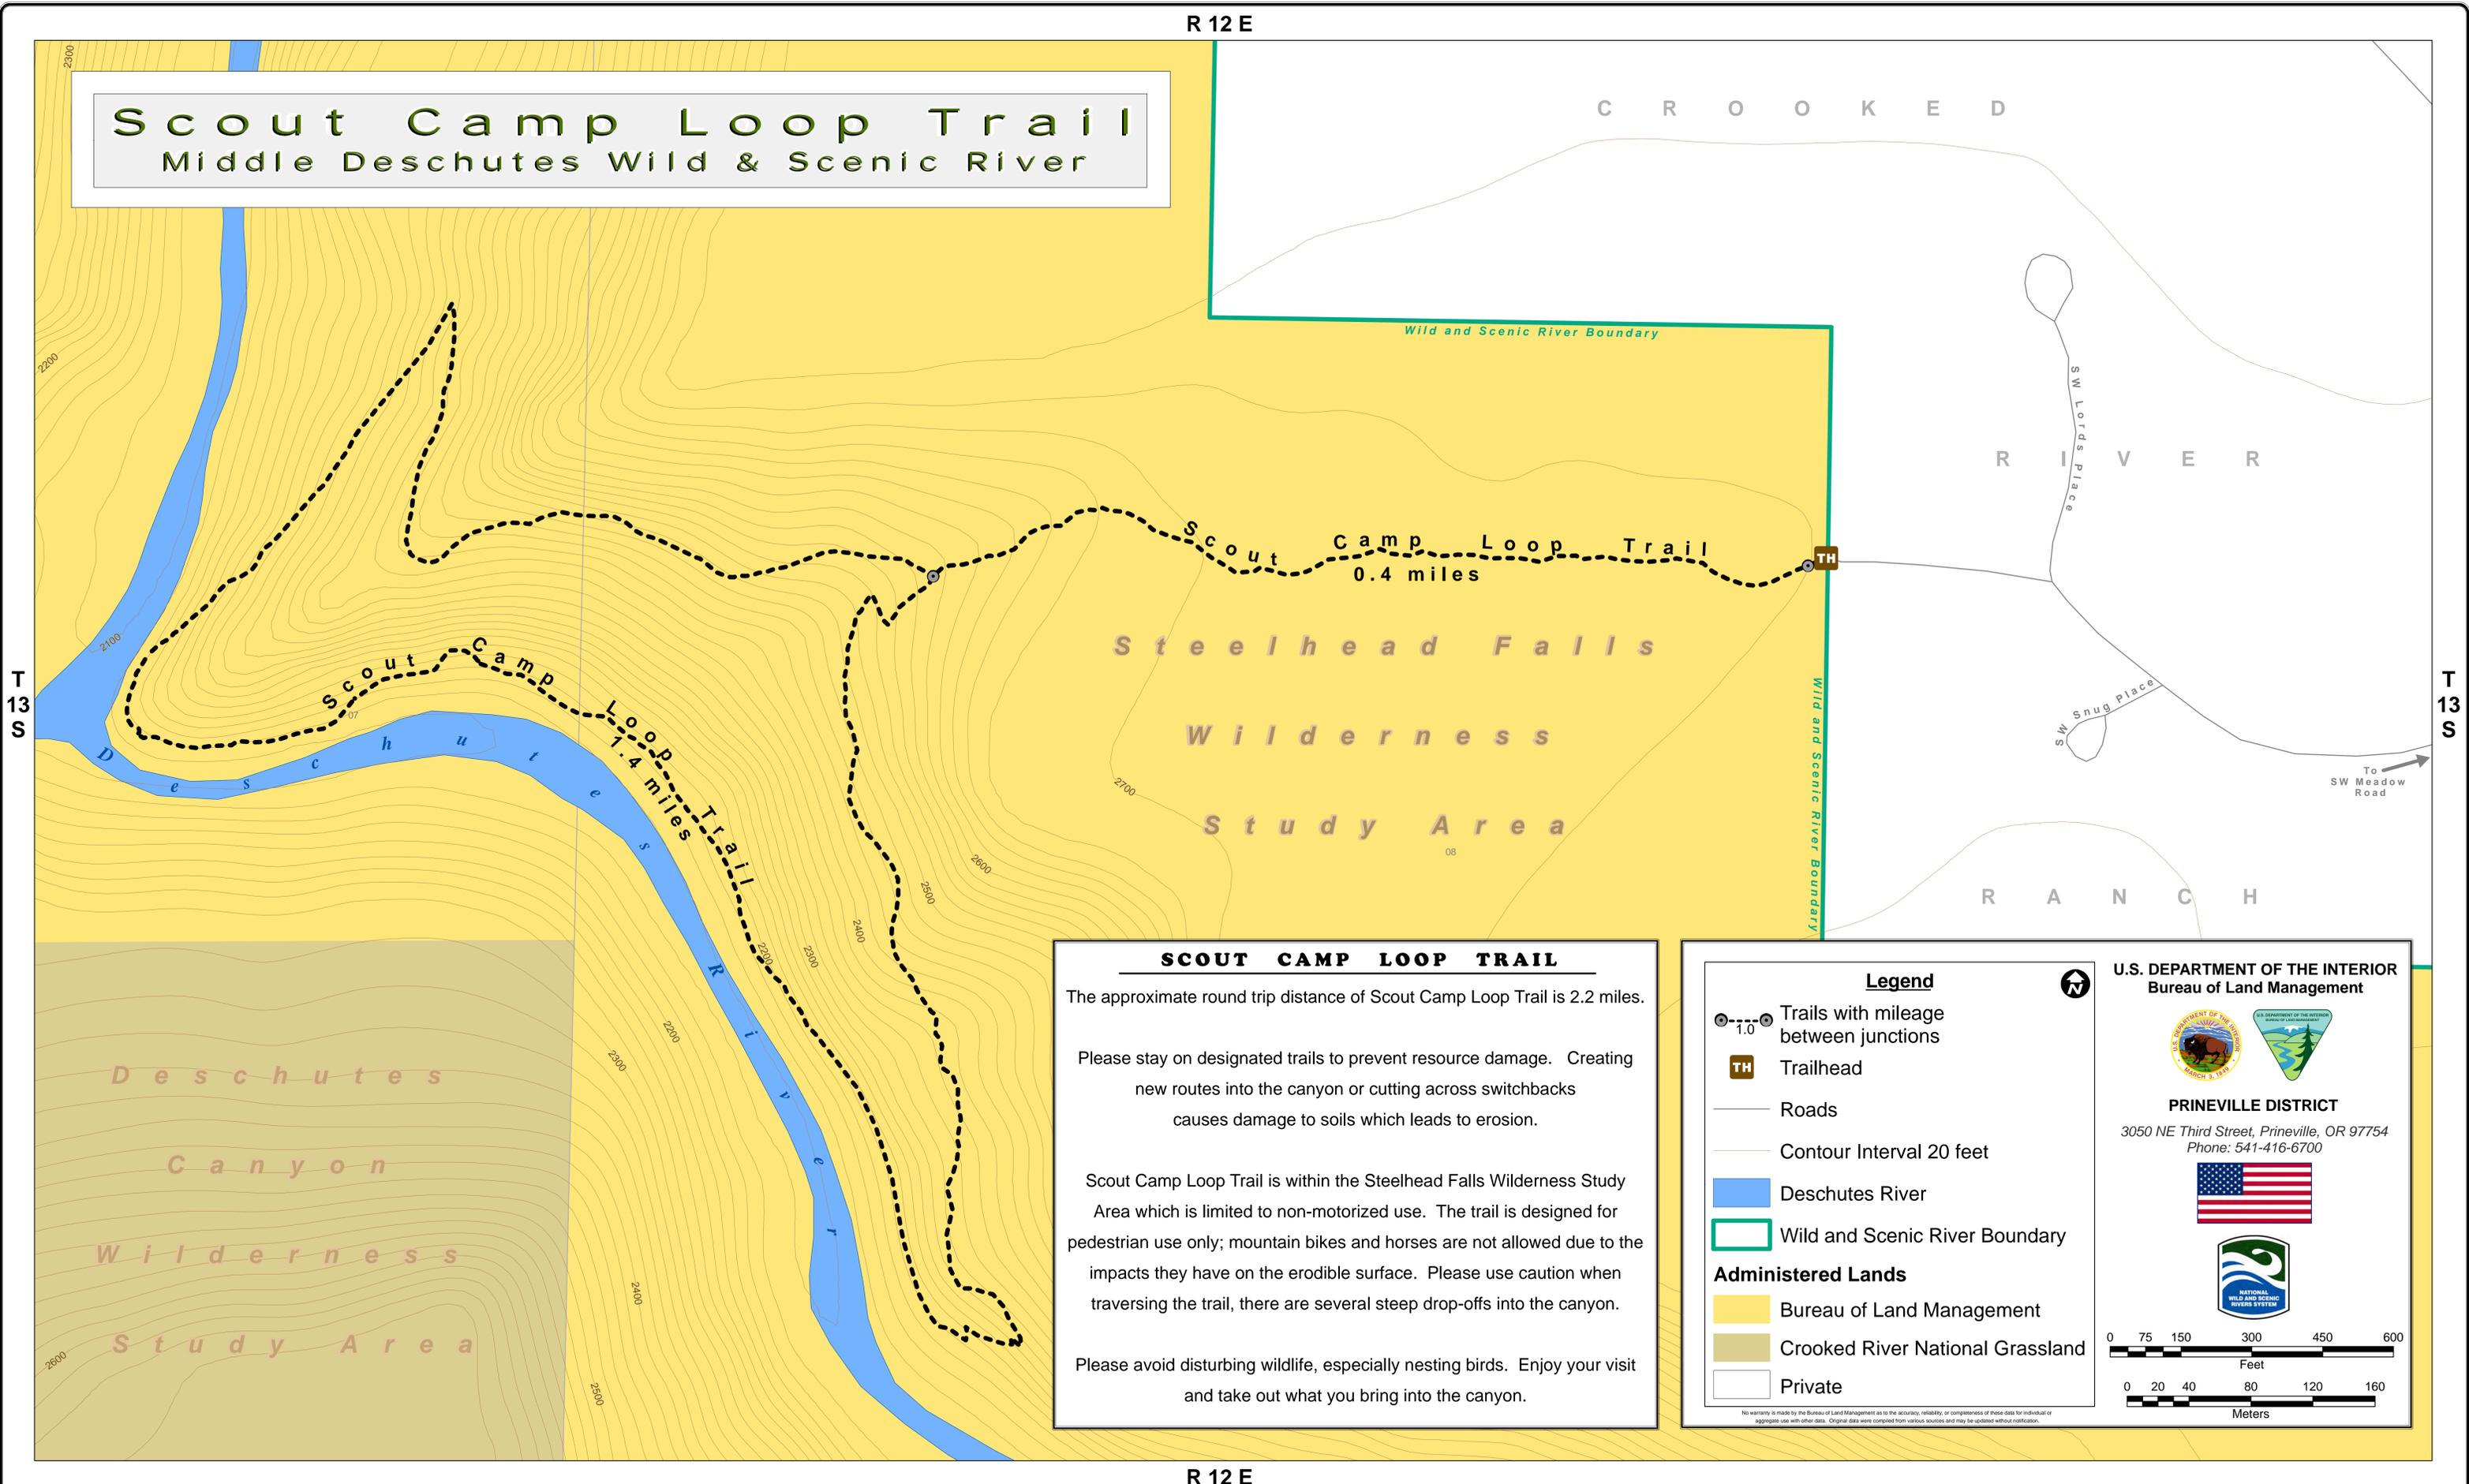

After 5 miles (including a steep descent), go straight on to Horny Hollow Rd (do not take Chinook back up the switchback)

Go 1.7 miles to the end of the pavement and park there.

From the trailhead, Lone Pine Trail (hikers only) heads NE (right) for about ¼ mile then descends into the inner Crooked River Gorge to the river for another .7 mile. Otter Bench Trail (hikers, mountain bikes, & horses) heads west for 1.7 miles along the side slope with nice views of the canyon--this is the easiest of the trail system. At the end of Otter Bench Trail you can descend on the Pink Trail for .4 miles to a lovely spot along the Crooked River or continue out to 3.5 mile Opal Canyon loop.

Middle Deschutes Wild & Scenic River

SCOUT CAMP LOOP TRAIL

The approximate round trip distance of Scout Camp Loop Trail is 2.2 miles.

Please stay on designated trails to prevent resource damage. Creating new routes into the canyon or cutting across switchbacks causes damage to soils which leads to erosion.

Scout Camp Loop Trail is within the Steelhead Falls Wilderness Study Area which is limited to non-motorized use. The trail is designed for pedestrian use only; mountain bikes and horses are not allowed due to the impacts they have on the erodible surface. Please use caution when traversing the trail, there are several steep drop-offs into the canyon.

Please avoid disturbing wildlife, especially nesting birds. Enjoy your visit and take out what you bring into the canyon.
