

Power City

Power City is a waterfowl-wetland habitat about 120 acres in size. This habitat supports a diversity and abundance of waterfowl best viewed during the spring (March-May) and fall (September-October) migration periods.

Shorebirds are abundant during the spring and summer nesting season. Upland game birds and small mammals may be seen throughout the year.

Activities:

Facilities: At this wildlife viewing area parking is available and there is an interpretive trail through the area.

Season: Open year-round.

Other: Hermiston, Oregon is 4 miles south and McNary Dam is 4 miles north for other attractions.

