for

National Fire Plan Project Design and Consultation Process

The process and materials provided on this web site were developed for use by Federal agencies on National Fire Plan projects in the Northwest (Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana, Utah, Nevada, and portions of Wyoming) and for projects implemented specifically as described in the Activity Descriptions.

Their use in other areas, by other entities, or for other programs is at the responsibility and discretion of the user. No warranty is made to the accuracy and applicability under these situations. Users are encouraged to contact the appropriate consulting agency office prior to using these for effects analysis for consultation under the Endangered Species Act in any situation other than that described above.
