Comments:

I strongly urge the creation of more cross-country (low-impact) mountain bike trails, or conversion of hiking-only trails to multi-use to allow for cyclists. The complete lack of mountain biking opportunities in/near Portland remains a disappointment for myself and my family. Recreational mountain biking is the perfect way to escape the crowds (and cars), enjoy nature, exercise, and have fun with a group of your family or friends. Building new trails closer to Portland should be a priority for any governmental agency looking for new plans regarding Oregon's public lands.
