I was over in Eastern Oregon the 1st week ion Oct. 2012. We went to the Deer Creek area in Murders creek Unit. It was hard to believe the number of wild horses and the damage they have done to the vegetation. There is very little food for the wildlife and the horses have ruined the water sources there. Some thing needs to be done with the excess wild horses. If you see a wild stallion they will charge you. At one time this was a great place to camp and hunt. Not anymore to many horse lovers. We pay for the right to hunt not to be over run by a heed of mustangs. Thanks for your time. Forrest Byerly
