Re: Revision of the Resource Management Plans of the Western Oregon
Bureau of Land Management

I support Alternative Two, your review of the research on stream buffer width, can only lead to the logical decision you have chosen.

In Alternative One, areas are created that are uneconomical to log because of the wide riparian zones, an attempt should be made to quantify the land base involved. This would give the general public a better awareness caused by the unrealistically large riparian zones and the severe economic effects it has on our rural communities.

The BLM is to be commended for the monumental effort entailed in this project. I hope your efforts are not stopped by frivolous law suits.

Sincerely Yours,

Morris H. Bergman
