As a life long Oregonian who is concerned about what kind of environmental legacy we are in the process of bequeathing to future generations I concur in the comments your agency has received from the North Umpqua Steamboaters, Pacific Rivers Council, The Wilderness Society, Oregon Wild, and the coalition of groups led by Trout Unlimited.

Any change in existing plans or regulations that would roll back in any way critical protection for anadromous fish and other species should be condemned to the dust bin as worse than negligent and bordering on criminal conduct. In other words, as an agency entrusted with stewardship of precious resources that are now more fragile than ever you should know better.

Sincerely Yours,
