Letter in Opposition to BLM Western Oregon Plan Revisions

Bureau of Land Management

RECEIVED
JAN 11 2008

To the BLM,

I firmly do not support the Western Oregon Plan Revisions. The proposed seven fold increase in old growth timber harvest on our public lands is not only retrograde to ecological conservation but will also be obviously detrimental to catastrophic fire prevention efforts. I am certain that the BLM is well aware of the environmental and biological value of old growth ecosystems and is also aware of their resilience to catastrophic wild fires. I am thus lead to believe that it is absolutely shameful that the BLM has failed to defend these endangered ecosystems from the shortsighted and politically driven economic objectives of the Bush Administration. WOPR is bad for critical old growth habitat, bad for salmon, bad for sustainable resource management and bad for future generations and for the public interest of the vast majority of Oregonians.

Sincerely,

David Kurushima
