Western Oregon Plan Revisions

Re: BLM Off-Road Sites

My wife and I are avidly opposed to the plan to set aside up to 100,000 acres of land in Jackson and Josephine counties for use (spell that abuse) by off-road vehicles. This appears to be an excessive amount of land to be made available by a special interest group.

The concept raises several questions. What is the source of funds to establish and delineate these sights; to monitor them; and most importantly to clean them up and restore them to their original condition? Will the off-roaders be charged extra fees or taxes to cover the above mentioned costs, or will the general population pay them?

Other areas of concern is the physical damage these people will cause to the landscape and noise pollution. Pity any poor homeowner who unfortunate enough near these areas. And what of the wildlife? Not only will their habitat be invaded and damaged, but one can only imagine what the noise that these vehicles generate will do to the wildlife.

Sincerely,

Anne and William Collins
