2) The Tekshepkuk Lake area deserves special protection due to the high dependence of the world's waterfowl for molting and nesting. Many animals, including humans, depend on the entire Tekshepkuk Lake ecosystem for survival.

3) The entire Tekshepkuk Lake Special Area should deserve "maximum protection" as recognized by the Interior Department in 1977. Stop leasing oil and gas permits in this area to conserve our national and natural values of the Area.

4) A moritorium on exploration should come into effect immediately in the original 1977 Tekshepkuk Lake Special Area until proper public notice and testimony is heard by US citizens regarding this national treasure and natural historic site.

5) The historic and cultural sites in the entire National Pretroleum Reserve-Alaska deserve maximum protection for sustenance of Alaska Natives, caribou, waterfowl, and the intricate web of life that sustains these beings.

6) Priority of energy policy, research, and development monies should be given to sustainable energy projects with 100% renewable energy.
