Spring Hollow to Teton Dam

Welcome. This 12-mile stretch of the Teton River from the Spring Hollow Access to the Teton Dam is designated with Class III rapids. Boaters, it may be difficult to avoid rapids which can swamp an open canoe, it requires complex maneuvers in fast currents and good boat control in tight passages, large waves or strainers may be present but may be avoided. Scouting is advisable for inexperienced boaters.

Canyon walls are extremely steep isolating the river below from the farm fields above. There are no areas where you will be able to hike out and little to no cell service. Helping yourselves will be your best emergency response. Preventative measures should be taken before your trip to ensure your party's safety—be prepared before you launch.
