<td></td>
<td>Historical Note: Sherars Falls is a fishing location used for thousands of years by Indian people. Handbuilt platforms protrude from the rocky cliffs where the ancient technique of dip netting is performed. Fishing at Sherars Falls occurs today by members of the Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs. John Todd built the original bridge over the falls in 1860. Joseph Sherar purchased this bridge in 1871 and built thirty miles of road on each side of the river, as well as a thirteen room hotel. This bridge served as a link between Canyon City and The Dalles, the two largest cities in central Oregon at that time. The hotel was a popular stop for prospectors, traders, and travelers.</td>
