Dear sirs,

Please, please do not auction drilling rights at Lewisville Lake in Texas! Fracking shouldn't be conducted near the source of drinking water for hundreds of thousands of people – and especially not at lake with a dam listed as the 8th most dangerous in the United States.

It's simply not worth the risk to public safety if the dam fails or public health if drinking water is contaminated. What happened in Flint, Michigan, should be avoided at all costs.

There are thousands of children and adults who would be put at risk by opening of the northwest side of Lewisville Lake for oil exploration bids.

As a concerned citizen and homeowner, I join the cities and other entities that are protesting this action.

Sincerely,

Nancy Cochran LeMay
