

U.S. Department of the Interior
Bureau of Land Management

Visit With Respect

Respect the Land, Respect Each Other

Public lands are full of amazing places to explore, from mountains and deserts to rivers and trails. When we visit, it's our job to treat these places with care. That means following simple rules like packing out trash, staying on paths, and admiring wildlife from a distance. These small actions help protect the land so everyone can enjoy it—today, tomorrow, and for generations to come!

PUBLIC LANDS ARE FOR EVERYONE TO ENJOY!

When you explore, camp, or play outside, it's important to think about how your actions affect others. Being a responsible visitor means keeping the outdoors clean, safe, and fun for everyone—not just you.

O CIRCLE THE CHOICES THAT SHOW RESPECT FOR PEOPLE OR NATURE.

X CROSS OUT THE ONES THAT DON'T SHOW RESPECT FOR PEOPLE OR NATURE.

RECREATING IN YOUR COMMUNITY

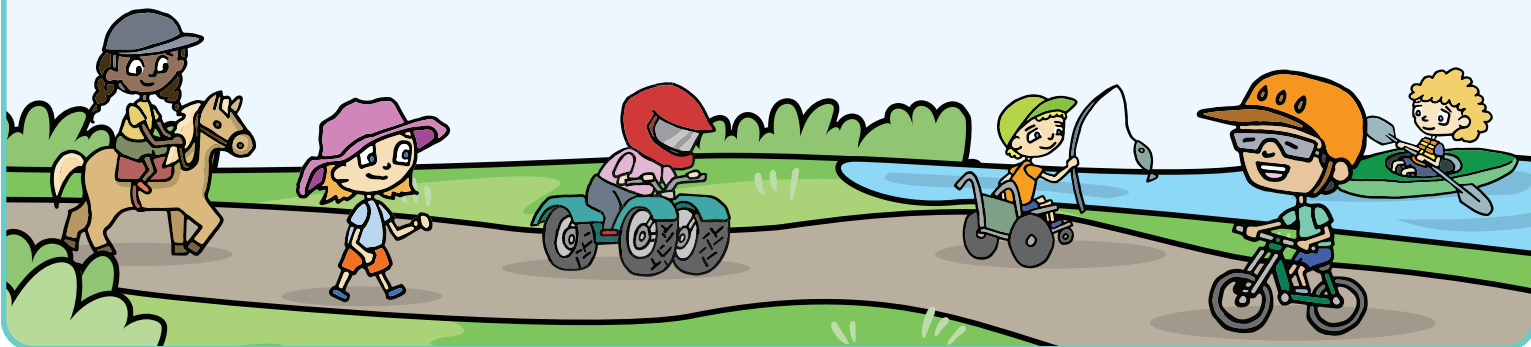

Public lands are full of possibilities! Some people drive or hike to see beautiful landscapes, others ride bikes, paddle rivers, or maybe find a place to watch stars and just enjoy the quiet.

Here in _____,

people like to _____,

_____ and _____ on public lands.

Public lands are multiple use, which means they're shared by many people doing different things. That's what makes them so special—there's something for everyone!

HOW DO YOU CONNECT WITH PUBLIC LANDS?

WHAT ABOUT YOU?

Think about the places you like to explore near your home and answer the following questions:

What's your favorite thing to do outside?

Who do you enjoy spending time with on public lands?

What do you see, hear, or feel when you're out in nature?

What actions can you take to ensure others enjoy their experience, too?
