Hi Randy,

I am out of town this week, but will plan to call in on Wednesday. The majority of the NPS coding team will be present in room 6122.

Thanks,

There will be a meeting with the comment coding team, to which all of you are invited, to discuss how best to handle the next round of comments, which are likely to address a wider range of issues than the Bears Ears ones did, on Wednesday the 14th starting at 2 pm. Dr. Shulman of DiscoverText will be present remotely, and we will have the coding system operational on the screen in the D/S conference room, 6122, where we met previously.

Some of the NOAA marine monument review team will also be there to see how we can capture information they would like to have from the comments on marine monuments, and we will then have a second meeting with them to discuss coordination and other issues, again for which everyone is invited.
