yes thanks, and sorry to bother you, as I found the overall cut-off time on the site.

Hi Randy,

The system will take comments up to midnight for that particular day. After that, it dates it for the following day.

We'll run a Bulk Extract on Saturday to capture the submissions that came in from the beginning of the comment period to that date. Because we're doing bulk posts, some Bears Ears comments may come in and get posted after the cut off, but we're not coding them.

Hope this helps.

Do you know or can you find out how the system dates comments - does it switch from one day to another at midnight eastern time, or at some other time?

The question is in the context of the May 26 cut-off on Bears Ears comments, which regs.gov is not set to recognize, and so it is up to us to decide when to stop processing them.
