

To: Maciel, Martha[mmaciel@blm.gov]
From: Webster, Sarah
Sent: 2017-06-19T17:53:37-04:00
Importance: Normal
Subject: Re: Can you access this article for news clips?
Received: 2017-06-19T17:54:01-04:00

I'll copy the entire article. I have a feeling my temporary access has run out.

Sarah K. Webster

Lead Public Affairs Specialist
Office of Communications
Bureau of Land Management California State Office
Office: (916) 978 4622

On Mon, Jun 19, 2017 at 2:51 PM, Maciel, Martha <mmaciel@blm.gov> wrote:

if you can't access it, then we probably shouldn't include it b/c others may not be able to access it either.

Here's the entire article:

California's senators are trying to prevent changes to six national monuments in the Golden State, and they're asking Californians to help by sending comments to the Interior Department.

President Trump recently ordered Interior Secretary Ryan Zinke to review 27 national monuments created by the previous three presidents under the Antiquities Act, calling it "a massive federal land grab" that "should never have happened."

The California monuments being looked at are Giant Sequoia, Carrizo Plain, San Gabriel Mountains, Berryessa Snow Mountain, Mojave Trails and Sand to Snow.

"On behalf of all Californians, we urge that these national monument designations are preserved with their present boundaries, to ensure these special places remain for generations to come," Democratic Sens. Dianne Feinstein and Kamala Harris wrote in a letter to Zinke.

As of Tuesday, 157,807 comments on the national monuments had been submitted. Tens of thousands of the comments are specifically about California and its monuments.

Comments can be submitted until July 10, and Feinstein urged Californians to share their opinion, especially after Zinke issued his initial recommendation to downsize Bears Ears, a new monument in Utah.

Martha Maciel

U.S. Department of the Interior
Bureau of Land Management - California
Deputy State Director for Communications
(916) 978-4616 (o)
(916) 384-7563 (c)

On Mon, Jun 19, 2017 at 2:49 PM, Webster, Sarah <swebster@blm.gov> wrote:

Martha,
Can you please send me the first paragraph? I do not have access to the news article.

Sarah K. Webster

Lead Public Affairs Specialist
Office of Communications
Bureau of Land Management California State Office
Office: (916) 978 4622

On Mon, Jun 19, 2017 at 2:25 PM, Maciel, Martha <mmaciel@blm.gov> wrote:

Yes, I can access the story. I get a banner but I click on the upper right corner "continue to article"

Martha Maciel

U.S. Department of the Interior
Bureau of Land Management - California
Deputy State Director for Communications

(916) 978-4616 (o)

(916) 384-7563 (c)

On Mon, Jun 19, 2017 at 2:17 PM, Webster, Sarah <swebster@blm.gov> wrote:

Martha,

I am getting a banner over the article by the LA Times asking me to sign up with a subscription. Can you access this article?

<http://www.latimes.com/politics/essential/la-pol-ca-essential-politics-updates-preserve-california-s-national-1497380182-htmlstory.html>

California's Senators Ask Residents To Tell The Federal Government To Stay Away From The State's National Monuments.

The Los Angeles Times (6/13, Wire) reports that "California's senators are trying to prevent changes to six national monuments in the Golden State, and they're asking Californians to help by sending comments to the Interior Department." In a letter to Interior Secretary Ryan Zinke, Sens. Dianne Feinstein and Kamala Harris wrote, "On behalf of all Californians, we urge that these national monument designations are preserved with their present boundaries, to ensure these special places remain for generations to come."

Sarah K. Webster

Lead Public Affairs Specialist
Office of Communications
Bureau of Land Management California State Office
Office: (916) 978 4622