SECRETARY ZINKE SIGNS SECRETARIAL ORDER TO SUPPORT SPORTSMEN & ENHANCE WILDLIFE CONSERVATION

Order seeks to expand access on public and private lands and to promote hunting and fishing among youth, veterans, and minority communities

WASHINGTON – Today, U.S. Secretary of the Interior Ryan Zinke signed Secretarial Order 3356, which will support and expand hunting and fishing, enhance conservation stewardship, improve wildlife management, and increase outdoor recreation opportunities for all Americans. Secretarial Order 3356 is an extension of Secretarial Order 3347, issued on Zinke's first day, March 2, 2017. That order identified a slate of actions for the restoration of the American sportsmen conservation ethic, which was established by President Theodore Roosevelt.

The new order comes days after the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service announced a survey that found there are 2.2 million fewer hunters in America now than in 2011. The order seeks to improve wildlife management and conservation, increase access to public lands for hunting, shooting, and fishing, and puts a new and a greater emphasis on recruiting and retaining new sportsmen conservationists, with a focus on engaging youths, veterans, minorities, and other communities that traditionally have low participation in outdoor recreation activities.

WH COMMS REPORT (new report filed Thursday

Press Inquiries:

- ☐ Many small inquiries.
- ☐ Politico: (Esther Whieldon)—REQUEST--I'm looking into the Cadiz water project and its connection with Zinke's review of the Mojave Trails national monument. To what extent was David Bernhardt involved in the Sept. 1 railroad ROW rights scope solicitor's opinion (titled "Withdrawal of Solicitor's Opinion M-37025 issued on November 4, 2011, and Partial Withdrawal of Solicitor's Opinion M-36964 issued on January 5, 1989")? And to what extent was Bernhardt involved in Zinke's monument review, including on the Mojave Trails monument? Lastly, to what extent does the agency define the Mojave trails review as a decision that involves Cadiz or how has it delineated between the two, if at all?—RESPONSE--The Cadiz water project has nothing to do with the review of Mojave Trails. There is no connection. Mr. Bernhardt was not involved in the Sept. 1 railroad ROW opinion and was not aware of the opinion until it was uploaded on the Internet. Mr. Bernhardt was not involved in the Mohave Trail Monument Review. The Deputy Secretary, after close coordination with the career ethics experts within the Office of Ethics, has fully complied with his obligations under the Ethics pledge. Mr. Bernhardt has agreed to recuse himself from particular matters involving specific parties. He has committed to ensuring that he is setting the highest ethical standards for his office.
- ☐ CQ Roll Call: (Jackie Toth) —REQUEST-- Has DOI received environmentalists' petition today asking for a rulemaking action to ensure fair market value in oil and gas leasing? How does DOI intend to respond?—RESPONSE--The Department always appreciates seeing the American people supporting our work. In the case of ensuring fair market value in energy leases, please see the Royalty Policy Committee, which the Secretary championed. <https://www.doi.gov/pressreleases/secretary-zinke-appoints-members-royalty-policy-committee-announces-first-meeting>

The Groveland, Vero Beach, Tampa Port, Tallahassee, and Jacksonville Offices are open for business. Detailed reports from refugees most severely affected are contained within the attached DOI Emergency Management Daily Situation Report.

BIA reports that the FEMA Region 4 Tribal Liaison and a FEMA team are on site with the Seminole Tribe, and are assisting with submitting resource requests and completing damage assessments. The Seminole Tribe of Florida has 4 shelters open, with a total population estimated at 48 (-37). While cellular companies are working to repair cell towers, the Seminole Tribe continues to have problems with receiving gas, diesel, and propane. The previously requested pharmacy shipment from IHS arrived as scheduled.

All U.S. Geological Survey (USGS) personnel are accounted for. In Puerto Rico, five USGS personnel were in the field yesterday making discharge measurements, repairing gages, and flagging additional measurements. In Florida, 52 personnel were assessing damage to gages, repairing gages, and making discharge measurements. Personnel from the USGS Caribbean-Florida Water Science Center have developed preliminary coastal change forecasts for the Florida Atlantic coast based on potential impacts from Hurricane Jose, and are coordinating results with the National Oceanic Atmospheric Administration, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, and other partners.

Law Enforcement Updates:

On September 16, six known gatherings will take place in the District of Columbia. Four of these events will take place on or around the area of the National Mall, with one of them being a counter-demonstration. A fifth event is being scheduled for Lafayette Park that should have no impact on the others, and the sixth event, as of now, is occurring on the grounds of the United States Capitol, but may include a march to the White House. The groups include: Mother of All Rallies (MOAR); Juggalo March on Washington, DC; March to Protect American Democracy; Root out Racism; DC Means "Don't Come" – MOAR Counter Demonstration and, Arms Wide Open (Childhood Cancer Awareness). Due to the large number of participants as well as road closures associated with planned marches, a large police presence is needed for safety purposes.

Wildland Fire Updates:

The Sprague Fire in Glacier National Park, MT (NPS), has burned 15,995 (+1,200) acres and is 60 (no change)-percent contained. The fire is managed by a Type-2 IMT with 169 (+2) personnel assigned,

As operations for Hurricane Harvey and Irma have begun to transition from response to long term recovery, the Interior Operations Center (IOC) will reduce its operational status to Level 3 (Enhanced Operations) effective September 15, 2017, at 8:00 a.m. EDT.

Support updates to the interagency Hurricane Irma Response are as follows:

In support of ESF #5 (Information and Planning), U.S. Geological Survey (USGS) had one person in Puerto Rico flagging high water marks (HWMs) on September 13. Additionally, USGS had 26 personnel in Florida and 10 in Georgia retrieving storm surge sensors and analyzing data. A total of 42 surge sensors were retrieved between the two states. Two additional personnel were analyzing previously gathered data from sensors in South Carolina, where all 66 surge sensors have successfully been retrieved.

In support of ESF #13, Public Safety and Security, DOI Irma Quick Response Teams (QRTs) 1, 4, and 6 relocated to Orlando, Florida, yesterday, pending their assignment. As of September 13, Moody Air Force Base is no longer being utilized as an ESF #13 staging area. DOI IRMA QRTs 1, 4, and 6 will support ESF #8 (Public Health and Medical Services) and ESF #9 (Search and Rescue) missions.

With respect to internal bureau and office-specific Irma activities:

The National Park Service (NPS) has 100-percent accountability of their employees. The current priorities are restoring services and access to the parks, debris removal, and providing support to employees who were impacted by Hurricane Irma. The NPS is tracking 140 personnel who are supporting Hurricane Irma response and recovery efforts, and the NPS Emergency Incident Coordination Center (EICC) remains at enhanced staffing. The NPS Eastern Incident Management Team (EIMT) has established operations in a local hotel until power is restored and they can permanently relocate to the Everglades National Park. Herbert: Zinke Signaled Grand-Staircase Should Be Shrunk.

The AP (9/14, PRICE) reports that Utah Gov. Gary Herbert "said Thursday that Interior Secretary Ryan Zinke has signaled that he's recommending President Donald Trump shrink Utah's two-decade old Grand Staircase-Escalante National Monument." Herbert "doesn't specifically know what Zinke has recommended for the 1.9-million acre (7,700-square kilometer) area or Utah's new Bears Ears National Monument, but the governor said at his monthly news conference, taped at KUED-TV Thursday, that Zinke felt former President Bill Clinton's 1996 declaration of Grand Staircase-Escalante went too far."

BLM: Wyoming Working To Fulfill Trump Energy Agenda.

The Wyoming Tribune Eagle (9/14, Funk) reports that "with a very different energy agenda in the administration of President Donald Trump than his predecessor, the Bureau of Land Management in Wyoming is ready to adapt to those changes," according to Duane Spencer, BLM of Wyoming deputy state director for minerals and lands. Spencer "spoke Wednesday during the 2017 BLM Industry and Government Conference in Rawlins." Spencer said, "We have been working very closely with our Washington (D.C.) office to bring them up to speed on what Wyoming is working on, what resources we offer, and that we believe BLM Wyoming is strategically positioned to deliver on what some of the administration's priorities are – in particular, the goal of making America safe through energy independence and contributing to economic development and local economies."

Protests Over BLM Timber Sale.

KOBI-TV Medford, OR (9/14, Jordan) reports that "an auction for logging rights to hundreds of acres of Bureau of Land Management property drew a crowd of protesters in Grants Pass." The BLM "says the land needs logging to prevent fires." But "protesters were concerned about the thinning of old growth trees."

Deep-Sea Study To Begin Off Southeast Coast.

The Coastal Review (9/14) reports that "a team of scientists is set to launch in the coming weeks a four-and-a-half year study of deep-sea coral, canyon and gas-seep ecosystems in the mid- and south Atlantic." The team will "travel aboard the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's ship Pisces to explore biological features and geological processes, such as corals and naturally occurring gas seeps and the organisms that inhabit them." The San Diego Union-Tribune (9/14, Moran) reports, “A coalition of environmental groups on Thursday sued the Department of Homeland Security challenging the use of sweeping power under a federal law to ignore environmental laws in order to build walls, fences and roads on the border.” The lawsuit was filed in federal court in San Diego by Defenders of Wildlife, the Sierra Club, and the Animal Legal Defense Fund. The Union-Tribune says the lawsuit “targets a section of the REAL ID Act of 2005 which granted the Secretary of Homeland Security the power to waive complying with federal laws such as the Endangered Species Act, Clean Air Act in order to expedite border security building projects.” The lawsuit “contends that the use of the law was limited to a certain time period after it was passed by Congress, and was not meant to be a perpetual tool the government can use to avoid laws.” The AP (9/14) reports the lawsuit “largely mirrors a lawsuit filed by another advocacy group, the Center for Biological Diversity, but the three organizations each say they have hundreds of thousands of members, bringing more attention and resources to a legal fight over one of President Donald Trump’s key campaign pledges.”

Berkeley Gets Black Panther Tribute $98K.

The Daily Caller (9/14, Krayden) reports that the National Park Service is “giving $98,000 to commemorate a violent student protest group: the Black Panther Party.” The NPS is “offering money to UC Berkeley so that it might ‘honor the legacy’ of the ‘60s-era organization that preached a communist revolution and upheld black nationalism.”

Emergency Management

The Lincoln Memorial Reflecting Pool was scheduled to be drained as of yesterday, June 11, in order to clean and treat the area in response to a water-borne parasite that has affected the local duck population. Chemical treatments alone are not sufficient to fully reduce the parasite or snail population which harbors the parasite. Humans, under conditions such as prolonged wading or swimming, may experience a condition known as “swimmer’s itch,” but this condition is not life-threatening and most often clears without medical attention. Cleaning is expected to begin tomorrow, and refilling of the pool is scheduled to begin on Friday, June 16.

In Arizona, the Freeze 2 Fire in San Carlos (BIA) began on June 1 and has burned 2,106 acres to date. The fire is 25-percent contained and managed by a Type-2 Incident Management Team with 337 personnel assigned, including 120 DOI personnel. The containment date is June 19. Recreation permits for San Carlos and Fort Apache have been temporarily suspended due to visitor safety concerns.

In Georgia, the West Mims Fire, at 152,515 acres burned, is now 90 (+25)-percent contained.

Outside Media of Interest*Interior Secretary To Make Proposal On Bears Ears Monument In Test For Protected Land.

Reuters (6/10, Volcovici) reports Interior Secretary Zinke on Saturday was expected “to make a recommendation to the White House...on whether to rescind or resize Utah’s Bears Ears monument, setting the tone for the administration’s broader study of which lands protected by past presidents should be reopened to development,” but “an Interior Department official did not say when the recommendation would be made public.” According to Reuters, “The 1.35 million-acre monument, created by former president Barack Obama at the end of his term and named after its iconic twin buttes, is the first of 27 national monuments that will be evaluated by the Department of the Interior after President Donald Trump ordered the review in April.”

NPR (6/10, Dwyer, Siegler) reports that although “a looming decision on whether to abolish or shrink the Bears Ears National Monument in Utah should provide an early signal of how the Trump administration will deal with a long list of public lands issues,” the Grand Staircase-Escalante National Monument “offers a more comprehensive glimpse into the controversy that eddies around many of the monuments — and a revealing peek into what Zinke may ultimately recommend to the president.” The article provides “a tour of the national monument’s economic impact, the political cloud surrounding it — and what we can expect next, once that final call comes down.”

Mark Sanford, Environmental Groups In Race Against Clock To Stop Offshore Drilling.

The Beaufort (SC) Gazette (6/9, Angst) reported that 60 organizations from South Carolina and along the Atlantic coast expressed support for Rep. Mark Sanford's bill that would prevent offshore drilling and all related activities for 10 years in the Atlantic, Straits of Florida and Eastern Gulf of Mexico. The coalition of groups wrote, "If passed, this legislation would give our businesses, communities and organizations the assurance needed to ensure the longevity of our livelihoods without the fear of impacts from offshore drilling and seismic airgun blasting." Sanford said in a statement, "The administration's latest action in opening the waters of the Atlantic to seismic testing is another in a string of decisions that is fundamentally at odds with the notion that the government closest to the people governs best."

Lincoln Memorial Reflecting Pool To Be Drained, Cleaned After Parasite Kills 80 Ducklings.

The Washington Post (6/9, Moyer) reports that "the Lincoln Memorial's Reflecting Pool will be drained and cleaned next week after a waterborne parasite killed several ducklings, officials said." According to a statement by the National Park Service, "since May 20, about 80 ducklings have been found dead in the Reflecting Pool, and necropsies showed the likely cause of death to be parasites that grow in snails that live in the water." The NPS said that "chemical treatments cannot kill the parasites and snails, so the water must be drained and cleaned."
