Thanks for the feedback, that makes sense not to attend.

Agree, and if we do take part we should have a role then exit before discussions on advocacy

It doesn't look like there's anything specific on the agenda for BLM and is mostly advocacy regarding the review. I'd sit this one out.

Tim,

This seems to be CLF's regular Friends Network call.

We've participated in the past but not every time. We would provide any shareable updates and then listen to the Friends groups discussion.

Chris and Nikki, thanks for your thoughts about whether anyone from BLM should participate given the ongoing monuments review. I'm inclined to say no.

Thanks, Sally

Hi Sally

Are you aware of this call?is this something I should participate in as the lead? Also did Nikki just meet with CLF rep on Monday?

Join the next network call: Thursday June 15, 2017

Dear Friends Grassroots Network and Partners:

Please join our Friends Grassroots Network call on Thursday to discuss our interim report that includes a recommendation to dramatically eliminate Bears Ears National Monument. Get an update on how we're working together to protect national monuments and the National Conservation Lands.

Thursday, June 15, 2017

Noon (MDT)/11:00 AM Pacific

Call-in information:
(855) 212-0212 or (530) 881-1212
Access Code: 573-616-683

Agenda:

- Welcome new CLF staff: Brian Sybert, Executive Director and David Director of Government Affairs
- Bears Ears "Review Period" update from Utah and next steps
- Substantive comments submission on all monuments under review

- Updates from partners working on other important efforts outside of our campaigns

More Information:

A new, informative press release from Friends of Organ Mountain-Denali can be found here. To adapt for your local area, just fill in your own information, add local quotes and you have a terrific press release about the ongoing "review" of how people can stand up against this attack on all of our National Monuments. If you need assistance.

Remember, it is important that people know that if this ill-informed recommendation is made for Bears Ears, the national monuments in your state could be next.

For more information on the legal rationale on why shrinking or rescinding is illegal, please take a look at this informative document.

The deadline to submit public comments for the other national monuments affected by the Executive Order is July 10. Let people know they can still go to www.MonumentsforAll.org to make their voice heard.

Social Media Guidance:

Below are some sample social media posts that you can use, as well as templates if you want to send an email to your board or volunteers, or submit a letter to your local paper.

- Facebook profile photo tool (put the Bears Ears logo over your profile photo for the week!): <https://actionsprout.io/F0A06F>
- Twitter tool (brings up a sample tweet to Zinke): <http://bit.ly/2mRib>

Sample tweets:

Tearing apart #BearsEars would be an illegal act - and a slap in the face to Tribal Nations. #StandWithBearsEars! #MonumentsForAll

Monuments "review" officially a sham: 1 million+ comments support #MonumentsForAll @SecretaryZinke refuses to #StandWithBearsEars

#StandWithBearsEars! Change your Facebook profile photo to oppose the attack <https://actionsprout.io/F0A06F> #MonumentsForAll

Sample Facebook post:

Protected landscapes where we hunt, fish, camp and hike are part of what makes our country great. Tearing apart Bears Ears National Monument would be against the will of more than 1 million public comments in support of our #MonumentsForAmerica. Be silent when America's heritage is at stake. Change your Facebook profile picture with Bears Ears. <https://actionsprout.io/F0A06F>

Sample Instagram post:

An attack on our national monuments is an attack on all of our public lands and our national heritage. The #BearsEars landscape contains tens of thousands of acres of spectacular natural features, and world-class opportunities for outdoor recreation. Future generations have the chance to experience its wonders? #MonumentsForAmerica @usinterior @whitehouse @usinterior @mypubliclands @usdagov

Talking Points:

To be clear, Zinke is recommending that President Trump eliminate important national monuments - Bears Ears National Monument - a move that is illegal, undermines tribal sovereignty, and ignores the will of the American people.

National parks and protected public lands and waters help define who we are. Attempts to rip apart the fabric of national monuments are an assault on our nation's historical, cultural and natural heritage.

Utahans and the majority of Americans support national monuments and conservation protections.

- Despite the woefully short initial 15-day comment period, the response and across the nation was loud and clear. More than 700,000 Americans commented in support for the Bears Ears, with 99% of the comments in support of keeping the monument. Click here to read this article regarding the outpouring of support generated.
- National parks, monuments, public lands and waters are a critical part of our nation's economy - especially for rural and Western communities that rely on tourism, outdoor recreation and quality of life associated with healthy landscapes.

An Attack on Bears Ears is an Attack on All Monuments

- With all national monuments designated since 1996 still under "review," this recommendation confirms the Trump Administration is on a disturbing path to undermine our National Conservation Lands. We still have until July 1st to have our voices heard in support of our other national monuments.
