If we extend for one week we will not be able to analyze all the comments and include them in the material the Secretary receives. I am advised by those expert in that site that temporary glitches are normal, and resolve themselves in short order. It was working yesterday afternoon, as I was looking at comments until after 7 pm, and it is working now; just checked. We have received over 3,000 comments since 7 last night.

Good evening,

Our organization is actively trying to upload the comments we have collected regarding the Bears Ears National Monument and the site is not working. Please consider extending the comment period for one week so that your agency has time to address the technical challenges that are preventing the upload of comments.

Sincerely,
