This is partly the same archaeological data (Tabular Data) they sent before, with an explanatory sheet (Archaeological Data Cut sheet). The actual data is GPS coordinates of sites, as before - would seem to require an expert to interpret. A State map summarizing that data is attachment 2 in your notebook.

The first "noname" file is a portion of an email that explains the 3 primary files, including that the "State-private data cut" is also GIS coordinates. My computer does not have a program to open that set of files. The 2nd, 3rd and 4th "noname" files do not seem to have any content.

Unless you plan to turn both sets of files over to a team of GIS specialists to plot the coordinates on a map, I don't see how they could be used. I also don't know how long that plotting would take, but could turn both sets of data over to BLM and ask for a quick answer on how long it would take to plot the data points.

More data. How does the team plan to utilize this? Cross check against our own?
