INFORMATIONAL MEMORANDUM FOR THE SECRETARY

DATE: June 13, 2017 TIME: 2:30pm - 3:30pm

FROM: Tim Williams, Deputy Director of External Affairs

SUBJECT: Pittman-Robertson Grants Round Table

I. STATEMENT OF PURPOSE

To hear and meet with State Wildlife Directors and Sportsmen. To listen to their successes interactions and challenges with the Department.

II. BACKGROUND

Facilitator: Ron Regan is the Executive Director with Association of Fish & Wildlife Agencies. Ron has put together the round table and has invited several State Wildlife Directors to the meeting.

The Association of Fish & Wildlife Agencies represents North America's fish and wildlife agencies to advance sound, science-based management and conservation of fish and wildlife and their habitats in the public interest.

Martin MacDonald is the Director of Conservation for Bass Pro shops and will be hosting the event. Bob Pope is the manager of the local store.

Bass Pro Shops Founded in 1972 by avid young angler Johnny Morris, Bass Pro Shops is a leading national retailer of outdoor gear and apparel, with 100 stores and Tracker Marine Centers across North America. Johnny started the business with eight-square-feet of space in the back of his father's liquor store in Springfield, Mo., the company's sole location for the first 13 years of business.

Johnny's passion for the outdoors and his feel for the products and shopping experiences desired by outdoor enthusiasts helped transform the industry. Bass Pro Shops locations are more than just stores — they are true destination experiences that draw more than 120 million visitors annually. Each location is heavily customized to reflect the character of the region. In addition to giant aquariums teeming with live fish and extensive wildlife mounts and dioramas, many locations feature unique restaurants and ocean-themed bowling alleys.

III. DISCUSSION

DOI will announce $1.1 billion to states this year from excise taxes on firearms, ammunition, fishing tackle and some motor boat engines. This is the bulk of the funding that states use for their state wildlife agencies (along with hunting license fees). Money also goes towards hunter education, archery programs in schools and other education programs. The states love this, hunters love this (because they benefit directly from the taxes they pay), conservation community loves this (funds that benefit game species also benefit non-game species), and industry is mostly on board. One item to flag: Small mom-and pop ammunition and fishing tackle manufacturers don't like it because it's an additional tax and their margins are very fine.

PROGRAM BACKGROUND

- The Wildlife Restoration program (enacted in 1937) and the Sport Fish Restoration Program (enacted in 1950) provide grants to State fish and wildlife agencies for conservation, recreation, and education projects.
- The programs have a long record of success in restoring wildlife (such as deer, elk, and turkey) and fish (such as striped bass, lake trout, and walleye) to benefit hunting and sport fishing.
- The programs are funded by Federal excise taxes on firearms, ammunition, archery gear, and fishing tackle. A portion of the Federal gasoline tax is also dedicated to the Sport Fish Restoration program.
- The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (FWS) receives the funds from the Federal tax collecting agencies and disburses the funds to State agencies through grants.
- To date, the Wildlife Restoration program has provided $10.7 billion, and the Sport Fish Restoration program has provided $9 billion in grants to State agencies. States provide matching funds for 25% of the cost of each project.
- The programs are often referred to by the Congressional sponsors of the legislation: Wildlife Restoration is the “Pittman-Robertson” or P-R program, and Sport Fish Restoration is the “Dingell-Johnson” or D-J program. Sport Fish Restoration may also be called “Wallop-Breaux” in recognition of major changes made by Congress in 1984 amendments.
- The Federal laws that enacted the programs also protect revenues from State hunting and fishing licenses. In order to receive grants, a State must legally dedicate license revenues to operating the State fish and wildlife agency. License funds may not be diverted to other uses.
- The Wildlife Restoration program also funds Hunter Education projects to promote safe, responsible hunting.
- The Sport Fish Restoration program also funds projects for Boating Access and Aquatic Resource Education to provide access to public waters and to promote awareness and responsible use of aquatic resources.

INFORMATIONAL MEMORANDUM FOR THE SECRETARY

- For 2017 FWS has made available (“apportioned”) $780 million from the Wildlife Restoration program and $349.4 million from the Sport Fish Restoration program.
- The amount of funds for each State are calculated according to the law, using the area of the State and the number of hunting and fishing license holders. The laws set maximums and minimums that a State may receive, and set a specific percentage for each territory.
- The 50 States and 6 Territories eligible to receive grants have been formally notified of the amounts available to each of them in 2017.
- States and Territories are in the process of submitting their 2017 grant applications for eligible activities and once approved they will begin spending against those grants.

Conserving New Hampshire's Wildlife Legacy – Funding Wildlife Research & Connecting People with Nature

Pittman-Robertson Wildlife Restoration grants administered by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service have provided a sustained funding source to New Hampshire Fish and Game Department for research, monitoring and management of many species of wild birds and mammals. The biological needs and habitat requirements for species such as black bear, white-tailed deer, wild turkey and moose have been researched and management programs implemented to ensure the sustainability of these species that are important to the people of New Hampshire. These funds are also important in the management of migratory ducks and geese, secretive species like river otter, bobcat and fisher. All these species populations have grown since the inception of the Wildlife Restoration Act decades ago. Some of these species provide opportunity for the public to harvest them for food statewide, with tens of thousands of people participating annually. New Hampshire Fish and Game Department expends more than $840,000 in these Federal funds annually on this important work. Since its inception in 1937 the Wildlife Restoration Act has provided more than $53.43 million in federal funds to New Hampshire Fish and Game to achieve its conservation mission. These projects embody the outstanding conservation programs that state fish and wildlife agencies bring to communities by conserving and managing important wildlife species, providing habitat for fish and wildlife, providing places for the public to connect with nature while participating in fish and wildlife oriented activities like hunting and angling. This work is supporting local communities whose economies benefit from these activities.

Aquatic Resources Education Programs in New Hampshire

The New Hampshire Fish and Game Department uses Dingell-Johnson Sport Fish Restoration grant funds administered by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to fund their aquatic resources education program. In 2016 the New Hampshire Fish and Game Department delivered 60 Lets Go Fishing courses (Ice Fishing, Fly Tying, Kayak Fishing, Fly Fishing and Basic Fishing) to Schools, Parks and Recreation Departments, Scout Groups, 4H and Becoming an Outdoors-Woman program with nearly 2000 participants in total. In 2013, bass fishing became an official high school sport in New Hampshire and is supported by the New Hampshire Fish and Game Department, along with New Hampshire B.A.S.S. Nation, New Hampshire Bass Federation and Bass Pro Shops. The Dingell-Johnson Sport Fish Restoration program has provided funding to educate children in New Hampshire schools about fishing and aquatic resources, and to teach families to fish and enjoy the outdoors. As residents take up angling and boating they help fund the future of fishing in the United States.

Establishment and Management of Public Water Access Sites in New Hampshire

The New Hampshire Fish and Game Department uses Dingell-Johnson Sport Fish Restoration Grant funds administered by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to create and operate 143 public boating and fishing water access facilities located on coastal waters and freshwater rivers, lakes and ponds. These access sites provide opportunities for the public to safely fish, boat and enjoy New Hampshire's waterways. In 2012, the New Hampshire Fish and Game Department used $755,000 in Sport Fish Restoration funds and $433,750 in state funds to purchase Downing's Landing, an existing private boat access facility on Lake Winnepesaukee in Alton, NH. This acquisition created the first state-owned and controlled public boat ramp with on-site parking on New Hampshire's largest and arguably most popular lake. The public who use this facility enjoy free access to premier fishing for landlocked salmon, lake trout, rainbow trout, largemouth bass and smallmouth bass, and local businesses experience economic gains from increased tourism and spending by anglers and boaters.

Expansion of State Wildlife Management Areas in New Hampshire

During the last five years, New Hampshire Fish and Game Department has used $1,827,100 in Pittman-Robertson Wildlife Restoration funds administered by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and $883,200 in state funds to protect approximately 3,400 acres of land that provides new opportunities and access for hunting, fishing, outdoor recreation, and wildlife habitat protection. A specific example is the addition of a 97 acre parcel along the Upper Ammonoosuc River that provides public river access and is good habitat for the American woodcock. This location has been a favorite hunting spot for woodcock and white-tailed deer and, as with all Wildlife Management Areas held by the New Hampshire Department of Fish and Game, is open to public access for hunting, fishing, trapping, wildlife viewing, and other compatible uses. Many of these acquisitions have expanded public access in the southern portion of the state that previously contained only 25% of the state's protected lands, and where the density of hunters, anglers, and wildlife watchers is greatest. For example, the state expanded the Ellis Hatch and McDaniel's Marsh Wildlife Management Areas by 400 acres and 65 acres, respectively. In total, New Hampshire has 90 Wildlife Management Areas providing approximately 53,000 acres of public land. These projects embody the vision of the Pittman-Robertson Wildlife Restoration

INFORMATIONAL MEMORANDUM FOR THE SECRETARY

DATE: June 13, 2017 TIME: 7:00pm - 8:30pm

FROM: Tim Williams, Deputy Director of External Affairs

SUBJECT: Dinner with Gov. LePage

I. STATEMENT OF PURPOSE

The Governor would like to share his views on the Katahdin National Monument.

II. BACKGROUND

Former President Obama designated Katahdin Woods and Waters National Monument in Northern Main shortly before he left office. President Trump's Executive Order for the Review of Designations under the Antiquities Act called for a review of monuments over 100,000 acres or where designated "without adequate public outreach and coordination with relevant stakeholders". Katahdin Woods is 87,563 and as such the Governor has asked the Secretary to review the monument. The Governor supports rescission of the monument. In the alternative, assuming the land remains in federal ownership, the Governor believes that the land should be managed by the State of Maine. The Governor has submitted a letter in opposition, letters from opposition groups, individuals and industry in opposition the monument. Roxanne Quimby's Foundation donated more than 87,500 acres in the Katahdin region for the monument and the family continues its support.

STATE OF MAINE OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR

Paul R. LePage

GOVERNOR

Dear Mr. Secretary:

It was an honor to meet you and to attend the signing by President Trump of the Executive Order for the Review of Designations under The Antiquities Act.

As you know, the order calls for the review of monuments that are 100,000 acres or larger, as well as those the Secretary of the Interior determines were designated "without adequate public outreach and coordination with relevant stakeholders." Here in Maine, The Katahdin Woods and Waters National Monument is 87,563 acres, so it is not listed as one of the 26 national monuments over 100,000 acres that are slated for review.

However, the Katahdin Woods designation was made in the face of significant opposition. In 2015, three local Communities impacted by Katahdin Woods voted overwhelmingly against designation as a National Park. The wealthy Ouimby family, who owned most of the land that would be used for a National Park, then immediately lobbied Washington, D.C. for the designation of a National Monument instead.

In response, the Maine Legislature in 2016 enacted bipartisan legislation-which submitted-requiring legislative approval for a National Monument designation in Maine. The people who live in the area, as well as their elected representatives in the Legislature, are certainly relevant stakeholders, but their Voices were ignored.

Since the public was not adequately heard, I am Writing to confirm that the Department of Interior will indeed review the designation of The Katahdin Woods and Waters National Monument. Please let me know at your earliest convenience. Thank you.

Sincerely,

Paul R. LePage Governor

Secretary's Response Letter to the Governor

The Honorable Paul R. LePage Governor of Maine Augusta, Maine 04333

Dear Governor LePage:

It was a pleasure to see you at the President's signing ceremony here at the Department of the Interior (Department) last week. I also want to thank you for your letter dated April 27, 2017, concerning the Woods and Waters National Monument (Monument). I appreciate your

President Trump's "Review of Designations under the Antiquities Act" Executive Order (E.O.) directs me to conduct a review of all designations or expansions of designations made under the Antiquities Act since 1996 where the designation or expansion covers more than 100,000 acres. The E.O. also directs me to examine all designations made without adequate public outreach and coordination with relevant stakeholders. As such, the review may extend to monuments smaller than 100,000 acres.

The E.O. makes clear that monuments should only be designated in accordance with the law and with adequate public consultation. Monuments can result in burdensome restrictions that limit traditional multiple-use purposes and public access on Federal lands. It is therefore critical that state, tribal, and local leaders and communities have a meaningful say in designations so that these burdens can be mitigated.

Your letter seeks to have the Department review the Monument in Maine. I invite you to provide the Department with a detailed description of the Monument, the unique values to be protected, and the process used to designate the Monument. In particular we would value your assessment regarding the degree of public support or opposition for the Monument.

I appreciate receiving your views and look forward to continued communication throughout this process. If you have any questions or require additional information, please contact Ms. Downey Magallanes at (202) 208-4105 or Downey.Magallanes@ios.doi.gov.

Sincerely,

Ryan K. Zinke Secretary of the Interior

Response from the Governor to the Secretary's Letter

STATE OF MAINE OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR

Paul R. LePage

GOVERNOR

May 24, 2017

Dear Mr. Secretary,

It was an honor meeting you last month during President Trump's signing of the "Review of Designations under the Antiquities Act" Executive Order. This letter is in response to your May 12 letter requesting my input regarding the process that led to the designation of the Katahdin Woods and Waters National Monument by former President Obama. Many Maine citizens and I are pleased that the Department of the Interior will conduct a formal review of this monument and analyze the significant opposition to the designation.

The Katahdin Woods and Waters National Monument, which is comprised of about 87,500 noncontiguous acres of land just east of Baxter State Park in northern Maine, was a former working forest. The monument allows limited hunting opportunities on the lands east of the East Branch of the Penobscot River. Portions of the monument abut Maine's premier Baxter State Park. This state park is about 200,000 acres and includes Mt. Katahdin, which is over 5,200 feet in elevation.

As you know, the Antiquities Act was intended to be a tool to allow the president to protect areas that have "historic landmarks, historic and prehistoric structures, or other objects of historic or scientific interest." The law addresses the size of such protected areas by stating the land must be the "smallest area compatible with the proper care and management of the objects to be protected." I have yet to see evidence the designation of the Katahdin Woods and Waters National Monument by former President Obama was needed to protect any imminent threats to historical structures or objects. I believe the designation of this monument was not in accordance with the intent of the Antiquities Act.

Public opposition to the designation of this monument was quite significant, and it goes back years. The public became very concerned when the owners of the land tried to lobby Congress to make approximately 150,000 acres of land in northern Maine a national park. This troubled many people in Maine who rely on the forest product and outdoor recreational industries about the possibility of strict laws and rules imposed by the federal government if they owned land in this area of the state. In response to this, the 125th Maine Legislature passed a bipartisan joint resolution in 2011 opposing the creation of a national park in northern Maine. In 2015, three municipalities located close to the proposed national park held non-binding votes to gauge local support: all three voted overwhelmingly against designation. East Millinocket voted 63% to 37% against, Medway voted 71% to 29% against, and Patten voted 70% to 30% against the national monument. I also made my position to President Obama very clear by writing to him and expressing my opposition to any federal control of this land.

With local, state and congressional delegation support lacking for the designation of a national park, the Quimby family then decided to lobby President Obama to use his unilateral power under the Antiquities Act to declare the area a national monu The opposition to federal control of this land

SUBJECT: National Congress of American Indians Mid-Year Conference

I. STATEMENT OF PURPOSE

The Secretary will give remarks at the National Congress of American Indians Mid-year Conference. NCAI is the oldest and largest American Indian and Alaska Native organization serving the broad interests of tribal governments and communities.

As a non-profit organization, NCAI advocates for a bright future for generations to come by taking the lead to gain consensus on a constructive and promising vision for Indian Country. The organization's policy issues and initiatives are driven by the consensus of our diverse membership, which consists of American Indian and Alaska Native tribal governments, tribal citizens, individuals, and Native and non-Native organizations.

II. BACKGROUND

NCAI is organized as a representative congress of American Indians and Alaska Natives that serves to develop consensus on national priority issues that impact tribal sovereignty. American Indian and Alaska Native governments pass resolutions to become members of NCAI, selecting official delegates to the NCAI Executive Council, Mid-Year Conference, and Annual Convention. During these events, delegates consider issues of pressing concern in accordance with their governments' policies, goals, and needs. NCAI members vote on and pass resolutions to determine NCAI's position on a broad range of issues.
