Thanks. Amy is the Acting Assistant Secretary for PMB, so I doubt she prepared it, but one of the staff there assembled the data submitted. It seems this likely came in from the Park Service, as they have an even larger figure on one of their web sites, so will pursue there.

Good morning Randy. It is nice to hear from you.

When FWS originally responded to the data call in mid-March our realty office reported one entry for the World War II Valor in the Pacific Monument. The total acreage they reported for the monument (AK and CA) was 6,304 acres.

In late March we received an aggregate spreadsheet from ASFWP that included two entries for that monument. The one we provided and a second entry listed as follows:

NPS & FWS - WWII Valor in the Pacific National Monument - Honolulu, HI - 4,038,400 acres (at enactment) - 56.66 acres (current federal).

I believe the aggregate spreadsheet showing all bureaus was prepared by Amy Holley in DOI.

We provided comments on the aggregate spreadsheet, but never received the final version. So, we included both entries in the version we provided to you.

So, this is a long way of me saying we did not come up with the 4,038,400 figure within FWS but Amy Holley should know since she prepared the aggregate spreadsheet.

I hope this helps. If you need anything else, please let us know.

Matt, I understand you were the FWS contact person for information on the WWII Valor in the Pacific monument submitted for the PMB data call earlier this year. As you may have heard, I'm on detail to the Deputy Secretary's office to staff the monument review.

I would appreciate it if you could check with the appropriate people and see if the figure of 4,038,400 acres at enactment for that monument come from within the Service, as it does not appear to be correct.

I had some involvement in the establishment work on that monument, which is why those numbers caught my attention, and the checking I did found in a joint NPS-FWS "Foundation Document" for the Service sites in the Aleutians, maps showing, presuming my calculator was working correctly, just under 5,000 acres total. I have also asked NPS to recheck their parts.
