DOI Comms Report

(Sent yesterday to the WH.)

Press Inquiries:

· Santa Barbara Independent: REQUEST-- Now that the public comment period for public comment on national monument designation has expired, can you outline what happens next and in what time frame? Is there a deadline by which z. needs to respond or is totally discretionary as to when or if he responds at all? I am hearing from Salud Carbajal's office that no response has yet been made to his requests to meet with R. Zinke to discuss the matter. Is that still accurate? --RESPONSE-- As is outlined in the Executive Order, the review period ends on August 24th. The comments will be reviewed and the Secretary will continue to have meetings with various stakeholders in the coming weeks. At this time, the Department does not have any further announcements on monuments.

Top Stories:

- E&E News: Interior considering 3 Beaufort Sea Projects
- Bismarck Tribune: Fort Berthold environmental organization files suit over methane rule pause
- Flathead Beacon: Under Pressure, Glacier Park Loosens Boating Restrictions
- American-Statesman: President Trump taps Susan Combs for Interior Department post

Top Issues and Accomplishments:

- Today, the Secretary spoke at the Farm Bureau meeting in D.C. Zinke discussed the Department's work in the agriculture sector and being a good neighbor to local landowners.
- The Department of the Interior is announcing key appointments. Press releases are being issued on a case-by-case basis.
- On Wednesday, Secretary Zinke will testify before the SASC in support of the nomination of Cully Stimson for DoD. Zinke and Cully are longtime friends from the Navy.
- On Friday, Secretary Zinke will travel to Oregon to continue his review of national monuments under the President's April 26 executive order.

National Park Service

July 12: Public scoping meeting for the site of the proposed National Desert Storm and Desert Shield Memorial. Two sites are under consideration: the area near Memorial Circle at George Washington Memorial Parkway on Columbia Island, and the Constitution Avenue Terminus Area near 23rd Street NW. The public comment period for the Environmental Assessment (EA) is open through July 24.

July 15: Facebook CEO Mark Zuckerberg will visit Glacier National Park. He will tour the park in a historic red bus with Superintendent Mow and USGS scientist Dan Fagre (Director of the Climate Change in Mountain Ecosystems Project). He will also visit with Gracie the Bark Ranger and official park partners. Zuckerberg will do a Facebook post immediately following his visit to his 92 million followers.

June 23-July 24: NPS Local release: The NPS is conducting an Environmental Assessment (EA) and is seeking public comments regarding the site of the proposed National Desert Storm and Desert Shield Memorial. Two sites are under consideration: the area near Memorial Circle at George Washington Memorial Parkway on Columbia Island, and the Constitution Avenue Terminus Area near 23rd Street NW. The EA public scoping period is June 23-July 24, 2017, with an initial scoping meeting on July 12.

U.S. Interior Department Receives Over 2 Million Comments On Monument Review.

Reuters (7/11, Volcovici) reports that the public comment period for the review of national monuments and marine sanctuaries “drew more than 2 million public comments ahead of a report to be issued by Interior Secretary Ryan Zinke to President Donald Trump next month.” Zinke said on Tuesday “that more than 1.2 million comments were received on the Regulations.gov website and thousands more were received via traditional mail.” Zinke said in a statement, “After hearing some feedback, I’d like to remind and reassure folks that even if a monument is modified, the land will remain under federal ownership.”

Pruitt, Zinke Visit State Farm Bureau Presidents.

The American Farm Bureau (7/11, Thornton) reports that Interior Secretary Ryan Zinke and Environmental Protection Agency Administrator Scott Pruitt “made guest appearances Tuesday morning in Washington during the American Farm Bureau Federation’s Council of Presidents meeting.” During his remarks, “Zinke outlined the importance of supporting multiple uses of the nation’s public lands.” He also “spoke briefly about the challenges presented by wild horse overpopulation on public lands.”

Congressman LaMalfa Asks Interior Secretary To Stop Marijuana Grows.

KRCR-TV Redding, CA (7/11, Gardner) reports that Rep. Doug LaMalfa “wrote letters to the Department of the Interior Secretary Ryan Zinke and Department of Agriculture Secretary Sonny Perdue asking them to prevent marijuana grows on public lands.” In the letters LaMalfa wrote, “Drug cartels have created large-scale operations on federal lands which illegally divert stream water, dump tons of illegal toxicants and pollutants, and harm the local wildlife. These sites are often protected by heavily armed cartel members which pose a serious safety risk to those who utilize our public lands for hunting, fishing, and recreational activities – as well as the Forest Service and BLM staff who patrol the forests. It is imperative that the federal government address this problem in order to make our forests safe again for the public to enjoy.”

Op-Ed: Shrinking Bears Ears Is Shortsighted And Wrong.

In an op-ed for the Deseret (UT) News (7/11, Yarnold), David Yarnold, president and CEO of the National Audubon Society, raises concerns after Interior Secretary Ryan Zinke has “indicated he will recommend that the government dramatically shrink” the Bears Ears National Monument, “which could open the landscape to oil and gas drilling and other potentially damaging activities.” Yarnold blasts the decision as “shortsighted and just plain wrong.” In response, the National Audubon Society is “bringing together 400 leaders from across its state and chapter network this weekend in Park City to support the protection of Bears Ears.”

The U.S. Is Too Dependent On Foreign Mineral Imports.

In an op-ed for U.S. News & World Report (7/11), Ned Mamula, an associate fellow with the R Street Institute, and Catrina Rorke, a senior fellow with the R Street Institute, write that the Trump Administration is “driving a massive pivot on public-lands policy” and it’s “a firm step toward righting the ship on our national approach to mineral resources on federal lands” They note that “earlier this year, the U.S. Geological Survey reported that, of 88 important minerals they track, the United States is more than 25 percent import-dependent for 62 of them.” The authors warn that “the risk to the United States comes not just from its import-dependency, but its dependency on imports from countries known to use domestic resource wealth as a diplomatic and trade weapon.”

High-Profile Attorneys Join Wyoming Boundary Dispute.

The AP (7/11) reports that “a lawsuit over the boundaries of the Wind River Reservation in central Wyoming is attracting some high-profile attorneys, including former U.S. Interior Secretary Ken Salazar.” Salazar, who served in the Obama Administration, is “among several high-profile attorneys brought in by the Eastern Shoshone and Northern Arapaho tribes in their lawsuit against the state of Wyoming.” Salazar is “representing the Shoshone along with former Solicitor General Seth Waxman, who served under President Bill Clinton, and the Arapaho also have hired Paul Clement, who was a solicitor general under President George W. Bush.”

Trump Budget Sets Up Wild Horse Showdown.

The Reno (NV) Gazette-Journal (7/11, Spillma) reports that wild horses “could be killed in greater numbers under a budget proposal from President Donald Trump.” The article notes that “the changes are included in Trump’s proposed budget for the Bureau of Land Management, which seeks an 11 percent cut to the agency’s $1.1 billion budget.” Moreover, “in addition to the overall cut the agency’s budget justification document proposes cutting $10 million and 29 jobs from the Wild Horse and Burro management program, a reduction of 12 percent.”

Air Force Backs Continued Oil Drilling Moratorium.

The Tampa Bay (FL) Times (7/11, Pittman) reports in its Buzz Florida Politics blog that the US Air Force agreed with a bipartisan group of Florida politicians that the existing moratorium on offshore drilling in the eastern Gulf of Mexico should be extended. General David L. Goldfein, the Air Force chief of staff, wrote to Sen. Bill Nelson saying the Air Force “needs the certainty of the proposed extension” to ensure that it can continue testing and training flights in the area.

Monk Seal Bites, Injures US Wildlife Staffer On Midway Atoll.

The AP (7/11, Jones) reports that “a U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service employee has been bitten by an endangered Hawaiian monk seal while swimming at Midway Atoll in the Northwestern Hawaiian Islands.” FWS spokeswoman Megan Nagel “said Tuesday that the incident happened on July 6 on Midway’s North Beach in the Papahānaumokuākea Marine National Monument.” The article says that “staff access to all beaches has been closed until the end of the pupping season in response to the attack.”

Interior Provides Nearly $ 1M Grant To CNMI.

The Saipan (MNP) Tribune (7/10) reports that Acting Interior assistant secretary Nikolao Pula “made available last week $994,711 to the CNMI to improve water distribution, waste management, and hospital billing services.” Another grant was “provided for a joint government/non-profit partnership to improve efforts in addressing and prosecuting sexual violence cases.” Pula said, “Requests submitted to the Office of Insular Affairs for grant assistance always outweigh the available resources. We are pleased that we can support some of the worthy projects prioritized by Gov. Ralph [DLG] Torres as they will have a direct impact toward improving lives for our fellow Americans living in the CNMI.”

Pruitt, Zinke Visit State Farm Bureau Presidents.

The American Farm Bureau (7/11, Thornton) reports that Interior Secretary Ryan Zinke and Environmental Protection Agency Administrator Scott Pruitt “made guest appearances Tuesday morning in Washington during the American Farm Bureau Federation’s Council of Presidents meeting.” During his remarks, “Zinke outlined the importance of supporting multiple uses of the nation’s public lands.” He also “spoke briefly about the challenges presented by wild horse overpopulation on public lands.”

Congressman LaMalfa Asks Interior Secretary To Stop Marijuana Grows.

KRCR-TV Redding, CA (7/11, Gardner) reports that Rep. Doug LaMalfa “wrote letters to the Department of the Interior Secretary Ryan Zinke and Department of Agriculture Secretary Sonny Perdue asking them to prevent marijuana grows on public lands.” In the letters LaMalfa wrote, “Drug cartels have created large-scale operations on federal lands which illegally divert stream water, dump tons of illegal toxicants and pollutants, and harm the local wildlife. These sites are often protected by heavily armed cartel members which pose a serious safety risk to those who utilize our public lands for hunting, fishing, and recreational activities – as well as the Forest Service and BLM staff who patrol the forests. It is imperative that the federal government address this problem in order to make our forests safe again for the public to enjoy.”

Op-Ed: Shrinking Bears Ears Is Shortsighted And Wrong.

In an op-ed for the Deseret (UT) News (7/11, Yarnold), David Yarnold, president and CEO of the National Audubon Society, raises concerns after Interior Secretary Ryan Zinke has “indicated he will recommend that the government dramatically shrink” the Bears Ears National Monument, “which could open the landscape to oil and gas drilling and other potentially damaging activities.” Yarnold blasts the decision as “shortsighted and just plain wrong.” In response, the National Audubon Society is “bringing together 400 leaders from across its state and chapter network this weekend in Park City to support the protection of Bears Ears.”

The U.S. Is Too Dependent On Foreign Mineral Imports.

In an op-ed for U.S. News & World Report (7/11), Ned Mamula, an associate fellow with the R Street Institute, and Catrina Rorke, a senior fellow with the R Street Institute, write that the Trump Administration is “driving a massive pivot on public-lands policy” and it’s “a firm step toward righting the ship on our national approach to mineral resources on federal lands” They note that “earlier this year, the U.S. Geological Survey reported that, of 88 important minerals they track, the United States is more than 25 percent import-dependent for 62 of them.” The authors warn that “the risk to the United States comes not just from its import-dependency, but its dependency on imports from countries known to use domestic resource wealth as a diplomatic and trade weapon.”

High-Profile Attorneys Join Wyoming Boundary Dispute.

The AP (7/11) reports that “a lawsuit over the boundaries of the Wind River Reservation in central Wyoming is attracting some high-profile attorneys, including former U.S. Interior Secretary Ken Salazar.” Salazar, who served in the Obama Administration, is “among several high-profile attorneys brought in by the Eastern Shoshone and Northern Arapaho tribes in their lawsuit against the state of Wyoming.” Salazar is “representing the Shoshone along with former Solicitor General Seth Waxman, who served under President Bill Clinton, and the Arapaho also have hired Paul Clement, who was a solicitor general under President George W. Bush.”

Trump Budget Sets Up Wild Horse Showdown.

The Reno (NV) Gazette-Journal (7/11, Spillma) reports that wild horses “could be killed in greater numbers under a budget proposal from President Donald Trump.” The article notes that “the changes are included in Trump’s proposed budget for the Bureau of Land Management, which seeks an 11 percent cut to the agency’s $1.1 billion budget.” Moreover, “in addition to the overall cut the agency’s budget justification document proposes cutting $10 million and 29 jobs from the Wild Horse and Burro management program, a reduction of 12 percent.”

Air Force Backs Continued Oil Drilling Moratorium.

The Tampa Bay (FL) Times (7/11, Pittman) reports in its Buzz Florida Politics blog that the US Air Force agreed with a bipartisan group of Florida politicians that the existing moratorium on offshore drilling in the eastern Gulf of Mexico should be extended. General David L. Goldfein, the Air Force chief of staff, wrote to Sen. Bill Nelson saying the Air Force “needs the certainty of the proposed extension” to ensure that it can continue testing and training flights in the area.

Monk Seal Bites, Injures US Wildlife Staffer On Midway Atoll.

The AP (7/11, Jones) reports that “a U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service employee has been bitten by an endangered Hawaiian monk seal while swimming at Midway Atoll in the Northwestern Hawaiian Islands.” FWS spokeswoman Megan Nagel “said Tuesday that the incident happened on July 6 on Midway’s North Beach in the Papahānaumokuākea Marine National Monument.” The article says that “staff access to all beaches has been closed until the end of the pupping season in response to the attack.”

Interior Provides Nearly $ 1M Grant To CNMI.

The Saipan (MNP) Tribune (7/10) reports that Acting Interior assistant secretary Nikolao Pula “made available last week $994,711 to the CNMI to improve water distribution, waste management, and hospital billing services.” Another grant was “provided for a joint government/non-profit partnership to improve efforts in addressing and prosecuting sexual violence cases.” Pula said, “Requests submitted to the Office of Insular Affairs for grant assistance always outweigh the available resources. We are pleased that we can support some of the worthy projects prioritized by Gov. Ralph [DLG] Torres as they will have a direct impact toward improving lives for our fellow Americans living in the CNMI.”
