

Conversation Contents

FOR REVIEW - Press releases on the comment period

"Swift, Heather" <heather_swift@ios.doi.gov>

From: "Swift, Heather" <heather_swift@ios.doi.gov>
Sent: Mon Jul 10 2017 17:24:50 GMT-0600 (MDT)
To: Laura Rigas <laura_rigas@ios.doi.gov>, "Magallanes, Downey" <downey_magallanes@ios.doi.gov>
Subject: FOR REVIEW - Press releases on the comment period

Press releases on the comment period

Interior Secretary Ryan Zinke's Statement on the End of the Monuments Review Public Comment Period

(WASHINGTON) On Monday, July 10, the formal public comment period for the review of national monuments closed. More than 1.2 million comments were received on Regulations.gov and thousands more received via traditional mail. Twenty-seven national monuments designated since January 1, 1996 that are more than 100,000 acres are under review in accordance with President Donald J. Trump's August 26, 2017, executive order.

"Too often under previous administrations, decisions were made in the Washington, D.C., bubble, far removed from the local residents who actually work the land and have to live with the consequences of D.C.'s actions. This monument review is the exact opposite," said Interior Secretary Ryan Zinke. "President Trump and I opened the formal public comment period – the first-ever for monuments designated under the Antiquities Act – in order to give local stakeholders a voice in the decision-making process. These comments, in addition to the extensive on-the-ground tours of monuments and meetings with stakeholders, will help inform my recommendation on the monuments going forward. I appreciate everyone who took the time to logon or write in to participate in our government."

As required by the executive order, in June, Secretary Zinke submitted an interim report to the White House with various recommendations and observations on Bears Ears National Monument. The report came after Zinke spent several days on the ground in Utah touring the monument and speaking with stakeholders from Tribal, local, state and federal government, and representatives from conservation, historic preservation, agriculture, tourism and education sectors. In the June report, the Secretary reopened the comment period for Bears Ears to extend through the July 10th deadline.

The Secretary also traveled to Maine's Katahdin Woods and Waters National Monument and to Boston to hold meetings on the Northeast Canyons and Seamounts National Marine Monument off the coast of New England. The Secretary plans to visit Oregon, New Mexico and Nevada in the coming weeks.

Regarding the comment period, the executive order stated:

In making the requisite determinations, the Secretary is directed to consider:

- (i) the requirements and original objectives of the Act, including the Act's requirement that reservations of land not exceed "the smallest area compatible with the proper care and management of the objects to be protected";*
- (ii) whether designated lands are appropriately classified under the Act as "historic landmarks, historic and prehistoric structures, [or] other objects of historic or scientific interest";*
- (iii) the effects of a designation on the available uses of designated Federal lands, including consideration of the multiple-use policy of section 102(a)(7) of the Federal Land Policy and Management Act (43 U.S.C. 1701(a)(7)), as well as the effects on the available uses of Federal lands beyond the monument boundaries;*
- (iv) the effects of a designation on the use and enjoyment of non-Federal lands within or beyond monument boundaries;*
- (v) concerns of State, tribal, and local governments affected by a designation, including the economic development and fiscal condition of affected States, tribes, and localities;*
- (vi) the availability of Federal resources to properly manage designated areas; and*
- (vii) such other factors as the Secretary deems appropriate.*

82 FR 20429-20430 (May 1, 2017).

###

-
Heather Swift
Department of the Interior
@DOIPressSec
Heather_Swift@ios.doi.gov | Interior_Press@ios.doi.gov

Laura Rigas <laura_rigas@ios.doi.gov>

From: Laura Rigas <laura_rigas@ios.doi.gov>
Sent: Mon Jul 10 2017 17:37:33 GMT-0600 (MDT)
To: "Swift, Heather" <heather_swift@ios.doi.gov>
CC: "Magallanes, Downey" <downey_magallanes@ios.doi.gov>
Subject: Re: FOR REVIEW - Press releases on the comment period

Thanks, Heather! Defer to Downey if she has specific nuanced edits. (b) (5)

[REDACTED]

Laura Keehner Rigas

Communications Director
U.S. Department of the Interior
(202) 897-7022 cell
@Interior

On Jul 10, 2017, at 7:25 PM, Swift, Heather <heather_swift@ios.doi.gov> wrote:

Press releases on the comment period

Interior Secretary Ryan Zinke's Statement on the End of the Monuments Review Public Comment Period

(WASHINGTON) On Monday, July 10, the formal public comment period for the review of national monuments closed. More than 1.2 million comments were received on Regulations.gov and thousands more received via traditional mail. Twenty-seven national monuments designated since January 1, 1996 that are more than 100,000 acres are under review in accordance with President Donald J. Trump's August 26, 2017, executive order.

"Too often under previous administrations, decisions were made in the Washington, D.C., bubble, far removed from the local residents who actually work the land and have to live with the consequences of D.C.'s actions. This monument review is the exact opposite," said Interior Secretary Ryan Zinke. "President Trump and I opened the formal public comment period – the first-ever for monuments designated under the Antiquities Act – in order to give local stakeholders a voice in the decision-making process. These comments, in addition to the extensive on-the-ground tours of monuments and meetings with stakeholders, will help inform my recommendation on the monuments going forward. I appreciate everyone who took the time to logon or write in to participate in our government."

As required by the executive order, in June, Secretary Zinke submitted an interim report to the White House with various recommendations and observations on Bears Ears National Monument. The report came after Zinke spent several days on the ground in Utah touring the monument and speaking with stakeholders from Tribal, local, state and federal government, and representatives from conservation, historic preservation, agriculture, tourism and education sectors. In the June report, the Secretary reopened the comment period for Bears Ears to extend through the July 10th deadline.

The Secretary also traveled to Maine's Katahdin Woods and Waters National Monument and to Boston to hold meetings on the Northeast Canyons and Seamounts National Marine Monument off the coast of New England. The Secretary plans to visit Oregon, New Mexico and Nevada in the coming weeks.

Regarding the comment period, the executive order stated:

In making the requisite determinations, the Secretary is directed to consider:

- (i) the requirements and original objectives of the Act, including the Act's requirement that reservations of land not exceed "the smallest area compatible with the proper care and management of the objects to be protected";*
 - (ii) whether designated lands are appropriately classified under the Act as "historic landmarks, historic and prehistoric structures, [or] other objects of historic or scientific interest";*
 - (iii) the effects of a designation on the available uses of designated Federal lands, including consideration of the multiple-use policy of section 102(a)(7) of the Federal Land Policy and Management Act (43 U.S.C. 1701(a)(7)), as well as the effects on the available uses of Federal lands beyond the monument boundaries;*
 - (iv) the effects of a designation on the use and enjoyment of non-Federal lands within or beyond monument boundaries;*
 - (v) concerns of State, tribal, and local governments affected by a designation, including the economic development and fiscal condition of affected States, tribes, and localities;*
 - (vi) the availability of Federal resources to properly manage designated areas; and*
 - (vii) such other factors as the Secretary deems appropriate.*
- 82 FR 20429-20430 (May 1, 2017).

###

-

Heather Swift
Department of the Interior
@DOIPressSec
Heather_Swift@ios.doi.gov | Interior_Press@ios.doi.gov

"Swift, Heather" <heather_swift@ios.doi.gov>

From: "Swift, Heather" <heather_swift@ios.doi.gov>
Sent: Mon Jul 10 2017 17:38:24 GMT-0600 (MDT)
To: Laura Rigas <laura_rigas@ios.doi.gov>
CC: "Magallanes, Downey" <downey_magallanes@ios.doi.gov>
Subject: Re: FOR REVIEW - Press releases on the comment period

(b) (5)

-
Heather Swift
Department of the Interior
@DOIPressSec
Heather_Swift@ios.doi.gov | Interior_Press@ios.doi.gov

On Mon, Jul 10, 2017 at 7:37 PM, Laura Rigas <laura_rigas@ios.doi.gov> wrote:

Thanks, Heather! Defer to Downey if she has specific nuanced edits. (b) (5)

L

Laura Keehner Rigas
Communications Director
U.S. Department of the Interior
(202) 897-7022 cell
@Interior

On Jul 10, 2017, at 7:25 PM, Swift, Heather <heather_swift@ios.doi.gov> wrote:

Press releases on the comment period

Interior Secretary Ryan Zinke's Statement on the End of the Monuments Review Public Comment Period

(WASHINGTON) On Monday, July 10, the formal public comment period for the review of national monuments closed. More than 1.2 million comments were received on Regulations.gov and thousands more received via traditional mail. Twenty-seven national monuments designated since January 1, 1996 that are more than 100,000 acres are under review in accordance with President Donald J. Trump's August 26, 2017, executive order.

"Too often under previous administrations, decisions were made in the Washington, D.C., bubble, far removed from the local residents who actually work the land and have to live with the consequences of D.C.'s actions. This monument review is the exact opposite," said Interior Secretary Ryan Zinke. "President Trump and I opened the formal public comment period – the first-ever for monuments designated under the Antiquities Act – in order to give local stakeholders a voice in the decision-making process. These comments, in addition to the extensive on-the-ground tours of monuments and meetings with stakeholders, will help inform my recommendation on the monuments going forward. I appreciate everyone who took the time to logon or write in to participate in our government."

As required by the executive order, in June, Secretary Zinke submitted an interim report to the White House with various recommendations and observations on Bears Ears National Monument. The report came after Zinke spent several days on the ground in Utah touring the monument and speaking with stakeholders from Tribal, local, state and federal government, and representatives from conservation, historic preservation, agriculture, tourism and education sectors. In the June report, the Secretary reopened the comment period for Bears Ears to extend through the July 10th deadline.

The Secretary also traveled to Maine's Katahdin Woods and Waters National Monument and to Boston to hold meetings on the Northeast Canyons and Seamounts National Marine Monument off the coast of New England. The Secretary plans to visit Oregon, New Mexico and Nevada in the coming weeks.

Regarding the comment period, the executive order stated:

In making the requisite determinations, the Secretary is directed to consider:

- (i) the requirements and original objectives of the Act, including the Act's requirement that reservations of land not exceed "the smallest area compatible with the proper care and management of the objects to be protected";*
 - (ii) whether designated lands are appropriately classified under the Act as "historic landmarks, historic and prehistoric structures, [or] other objects of historic or scientific interest";*
 - (iii) the effects of a designation on the available uses of designated Federal lands, including consideration of the multiple-use policy of section 102(a)(7) of the Federal Land Policy and Management Act (43 U.S.C. 1701(a)(7)), as well as the effects on the available uses of Federal lands beyond the monument boundaries;*
 - (iv) the effects of a designation on the use and enjoyment of non-Federal lands within or beyond monument boundaries;*
 - (v) concerns of State, tribal, and local governments affected by a designation, including the economic development and fiscal condition of affected States, tribes, and localities;*
 - (vi) the availability of Federal resources to properly manage designated areas; and*
 - (vii) such other factors as the Secretary deems appropriate.*
- 82 FR 20429-20430 (May 1, 2017).

###

-

Heather Swift

Department of the Interior

@DOIPressSec

Heather_Swift@ios.doi.gov | Interior_Press@ios.doi.gov

Downey Magallanes <downey_magallanes@ios.doi.gov>

From: Downey Magallanes <downey_magallanes@ios.doi.gov>
Sent: Mon Jul 10 2017 18:01:30 GMT-0600 (MDT)
To: "Swift, Heather" <heather_swift@ios.doi.gov>
CC: Laura Rigas <laura_rigas@ios.doi.gov>

Subject:

Re: FOR REVIEW - Press releases on the comment period

(b) (5)

On Jul 10, 2017, at 7:39 PM, Swift, Heather <heather_swift@ios.doi.gov> wrote:

(b) (5)

-
Heather Swift

Department of the Interior

@DOIPressSec

Heather_Swift@ios.doi.gov | Interior_Press@ios.doi.gov

On Mon, Jul 10, 2017 at 7:37 PM, Laura Rigas <laura_rigas@ios.doi.gov> wrote:

Thanks, Heather! Defer to Downey if she has specific nuanced edits. (b) (5)

L

Laura Keehner Rigas

Communications Director

U.S. Department of the Interior

(202) 897-7022 cell

@Interior

On Jul 10, 2017, at 7:25 PM, Swift, Heather <heather_swift@ios.doi.gov> wrote:

Press releases on the comment period

Interior Secretary Ryan Zinke's Statement on the End of the Monuments Review Public Comment Period

(WASHINGTON) On Monday, July 10, the formal public comment period for the review of national monuments closed. More than 1.2 million comments were received on Regulations.gov and thousands more received via traditional mail. Twenty-seven national monuments designated since January 1, 1996 that are more than 100,000 acres are under review in accordance with President Donald J. Trump's August 26, 2017, executive order.

"Too often under previous administrations, decisions were made in the Washington, D.C., bubble, far removed from the local residents who actually work the land and have to live with the consequences of D.C.'s actions. This monument review is the exact opposite," said Interior Secretary Ryan Zinke. "President Trump and I opened the formal public comment period – the first-ever for monuments designated under the Antiquities Act – in order to give local stakeholders a voice in the decision-making process. These comments, in addition to the extensive on-the-ground tours of monuments and meetings with stakeholders, will help inform my recommendation on the monuments going forward. I appreciate everyone who took the time to logon or write in to participate in our government."

As required by the executive order, in June, Secretary Zinke submitted an interim report to the White House with various recommendations and observations on Bears Ears National Monument. The report came after Zinke spent several days on the ground in Utah touring the monument and speaking with stakeholders from Tribal, local, state and federal government, and representatives from conservation, historic preservation, agriculture, tourism and education sectors. In the June report, the Secretary reopened the comment period for Bears Ears to extend through the July 10th deadline.

The Secretary also traveled to Maine's Katahdin Woods and Waters National Monument and to Boston to hold meetings on the Northeast Canyons and Seamounts National Marine Monument off the coast of New England. The Secretary plans to visit Oregon, New Mexico and Nevada in the coming weeks.

Regarding the comment period, the executive order stated:

In making the requisite determinations, the Secretary is directed to consider:

- (i) the requirements and original objectives of the Act, including the Act's requirement that reservations of land not exceed "the smallest area compatible with the proper care and management of the objects to be protected";*
- (ii) whether designated lands are appropriately classified under the Act as "historic landmarks, historic and prehistoric structures, [or] other objects of historic or scientific interest";*
- (iii) the effects of a designation on the available uses of designated Federal lands, including consideration of the multiple-use policy of section 102(a)(7) of the Federal Land Policy and Management Act (43 U.S.C. 1701(a)(7)), as well as the effects on the available uses of Federal lands beyond the monument boundaries;*
- (iv) the effects of a designation on the use and enjoyment of non-Federal lands within or beyond monument boundaries;*
- (v) concerns of State, tribal, and local governments affected by a designation, including the economic development and fiscal*

condition of affected States, tribes, and localities;
(vi) the availability of Federal resources to properly manage designated areas; and
(vii) such other factors as the Secretary deems appropriate.
82 FR 20429-20430 (May 1, 2017).

###

-

Heather Swift

Department of the Interior

@DOIPressSec

Heather_Swift@ios.doi.gov | Interior_Press@ios.doi.gov