Dan and Downey -
I'm sure you've realized this, but the scope of review called for by the 2 monument-related EOs is quite different. The one directed at DOI has broader and more detailed direction. So, when it comes to NOAA being the "lead" on marine monuments, folks will have to consider the requirements of the separate EOs and whether it makes sense to have separate reports on individual monuments with slightly different angles .... Maybe they can be joint reports as to that group of monuments.

I believe you both have the OLC opinions (I know Downey does) related to establishment of monuments in the territorial seas/EEZ and related to FWS management ... but let me know if you need copies.

Ann.
