Dear Governor LePage:

Thank you for opposing the designation of Baxter State Park as a national monument. The development of a national park in Piscataquis County and Aroostook County would destroy the economy of the entire region north of Bangor, in my opinion.

At present we are struggling to maintain the businesses that are located here. The loss of the workforce to the much more attractive south is devastating to every industry in the area.

Add to this the environmental regulations that I am told a national park would impose on our small manufacturing businesses now operating and we may as well close the roads and relocate all the residents to Portland.

Irving Woodlands cannot find equipment operators, NEI in Ashland cannot keep electricians and technicians for their electrical business, restaurants cannot find and keep wait staff, retail stores are pressed to find staff to work in their locations in Aroostook County, the hospitals are constantly searching for staff and due to the remote location and lack of services, lose the staff they are able to hire within 5 years. These are just the highlights of the lack of workforce in the area. Almost every member of the Chamber expresses frustration with finding suitable employees.

I have not even mentioned the potato, broccoli, mixed vegetable and dairy industry struggles here. With more regulations on use of insecticides and herbicides these industries would add the related problems to their distance disadvantage.

The maintenance of rail service to northern Maine has been an advantage to the lumber industry but the length of time required to get product to market still makes it unattractive to those dealing in perishable goods. Obviously the newest Tiger Grant will increase speed of service but I doubt it will ever meet the immediacy that is our present lifestyle.

In a conversation with a value added wood manufacturing business last week, I learned that when the speed limit on Rte 95 is reduced to 45 MPH he is unable to transport his loads. In addition, the permit requires identification of the trailer that the load is on in addition to the vehicle. This identification of the trailer means that what are identical trailers by make and age are not interchangeable.

I know these are all issues that you are aware of and deal with on a daily basis. If we are unable to develop manufacturing and industrial enterprises in this region with high wages I agonize about the future of Aroostook County.

Sincerely,

Subject: Proposed National Park in the North Woods of Maine

To The Honorable Governor, Mr. Paul LePage,

I am writing to you from my work desk, yes I should be working, however, this topic of a National Park in the North Woods of Maine has my attention.

I see that EPI, Lucas St. Clair and Roxanne Quimby are beginning their biggest push yet. They have hired a high powered promotional firm and organized a multitude of groups, committees, council people, etc, and the push is now on, more intense than ever, to bring this issue of a National Park back to the front and force it to A) either a Vote, or B) President Obama's attention so he will use his pen to make it a National Monument or Forest.

Their strategy appears to lobby the local town leaders, you saw last month what happened in Bangor, You have seen Senator Angus King ask Millinocket for there "Stipulations", etc.. They are strategically targeting markets they believe will garner headlines and create the appearance of major approval of the Park. (and they appear to have the Bangor Daily News in their hip pocket.) they have published and distributed pamphlets, door to door and via US Mail.

I belong to a small group of folks who are doing our best to oppose this Proposed Federal Ownership of land here in Northern Maine, we have a web site (Preserve Maine Traditions.org), I also belong to the Maine Woods Coalition, which is another small group, we post our points, facts and figures on many Face Book pages, representatives in-boxes, etc, we have held public forums to discuss the many negative issues surrounding this proposal, we have many followers, and we do alot,... BUT WE NEED SOME HELP!!!

I know the legislature voted on a resolution, opposing this park, quite a while ago, and I know many of you in Augusta have stated that you are not in favor of Federal Ownership of a huge tract of land in the North Woods. But times change, and we know that thoughts and opinions sometimes change, May we be so bold as to ask you and your supporters to step out and help us in our fight?

We think it is time for the "SILENT MAJORITY", to be heard, the proponents are pumping thousands, if not millions of dollars into this effort, while the opponents are quite fragmented and have no central source of money or personnel to counter the constant barrage.

So our thoughts are to gain opposition voices from Augusta, ideally, these forces would be from both sides of the isle, so this wouldn't necessarily become a political football in any upcoming election cycle?

Bottom line is, the NO PARK for ME campaign has got to stand up and be heard and we would love to be able to say you are on our side in this fight!

Thank You for your consideration,

With much Respect and Trust,

Mr. Bigge:

Thank you for contacting Governor LePage and for forwarding the link to the Maine Woods Coalition's new website. As the Director of Business Development and Innovation for the Maine Department of Economic & Community Development, I have been asked to follow-up on the Governor's behalf.

The Governor and Rosaire Pelletier, Senior Forest Products Advisor to the Governor, have been monitoring the situation in Millinocket closely. While the Number 11 paper machine is currently up for auction, the mill itself is not expected to go on the auction block. That said, we will continue to following the matter closely.

Your insights and comments about the proposed North Woods National Park are also appreciated. As you know, the Governor has been clear in his opposition to the National Park proposal, even going so far as to sponsor legislation this past session to limit the federal government's authority to acquire state lands. The bill, LD 1828, would have amended the "blanket consent that is statutorily given by the State to the Federal Government to acquire lands required for various government purposes." It would have "limited the consent to the acquisition of land not exceeding 5 square miles." While, ultimately, the proposal did not receive approval by the Legislature, the Governor remains resolute in his opposition to a National Park.

Again, thank you for your email to Governor LePage.

This is a great website and while I fear the possibility of Quimby purchasing the Millinocket mill at auction, and Quimby's growing support from Obama & Michaud, she hasn't got the will of Maine voters to make it happen.

Michaud is supporting Quimby's takeover of the Northern Woods, and we have evidence tying him to his involvement, and much more. The Maine Woods Coalition found out that Michaud is supporting Roxanne Quimby's "Plan B" to designate the Thoreau Trail as a National Monument, thereby establishing a foothold for Quimby's final National Park that will decimate the current use of the Maine woods.

Mike and Emily have already made the Quimby National Park a liberal campaign platform issue, but the deeper story is in Mike's past. Since Mike's days of union leadership there has been a progressive relationship with green groups. A very quiet investigation has concluded that there is a well established pattern of Mike's ongoing involvement in a number of backroom deals over the years, and highly questionable connections to known organized "businessmen" that is a much bigger story than his former "friendship" with John Martin.... The information is quite extensive, and it reveals a pattern of Mike's activities that legal sources have told us we need to get it to the right people ASAP.

67% of Mainers are against Roxanne Quimby's National Park

89% of Millinocket, East Millinocket & Medway are against Roxanne Quimby's National Park

89% of Augusta voted against Roxanne Quimby's National Park

But when President Obama sent Ken Salazar, on the taxpayers dime (including secret service) to Millinocket for a town forum to soften the blow of the President's position "ultimately, it's the President's decision, not area residents"

In the end, this was started years ago, with a documented expense to the taxpayers of no less than $3,000,000,000, with a B... And we can tie Mike to it

Dear Governor Lepage, I have a concern that I wanted to bring to your attention. I read this morning that Acadia National Park is closing the parking lot to Bubble Pond until October 10 and that it can now only be accessed by bicycle or by bus. This move effectively stops my ability to hand launch a canoe for the purposes of fishing and recreating on a state owned body of water for which the State has paid to stock with fish. I just messaged the Park Director to ask him how he proposes that I hand launch a canoe for the purposes of recreating on state owned water. I realize that there are a lot of more pressing issues in this State, but with all the controversy over the current National Monument proposal I wanted to bring it to your attention at least. We're slowly losing access to what is ours as residents of the great State of Maine.

Thanks for your time -

Dear Governor Lepage,

Earlier this year against the will of the citizens of the Katahdin area as well as the state legislature and yourself, President Obama forced a National Monument upon the people of Maine, and removed 87,000 acres of land from the tax rolls of our state. I am sure you will be attending President elect Trumps inauguration, and perhaps you could encourage him to roll back the National Monument. Since the property now belongs to the federal government they could decide to sell the 87,000 acres of woodlands and riverfront property. I would like to offer my services to market this property for the federal government to find a new owner or owners for the acreage. Normally I charge 10% as a commission rate for raw acreage when listing a property, for this case I would reduce my rate by 1/2 to save the government a bit of money. They could use the proceeds to reduce the deficit, and we would get some productive property back on the tax rolls.

Maybe you can explain it to me as Im having a difficult time understanding how it could be used as it was when to my knowledge from reading it there is No mention of Land ,or Natural resources ! As I read it all that was mentioned was Artifacts ,archeologically significant areas,Primitive Burial sites and Ancient pottery and tools ? None of these things have been mentioned in the News articles of the Woods and Waters National Monument,which leaves me confused about Antiquities Act and how its used .I sent a message to congressman Poloquin the day it was announced but to date have heard Nothing .Any help you could give Me would be very much appreciated .Sincerely ,Fred Johnson

Dear Governor LePage,

As a member of the American Motorcyclist Association, I oppose any attempts by the administration to unilaterally designate any public lands as national monuments without public support from local stakeholders.

The designation of a national monument may negatively impact recreational opportunities and local economies. While there are cultural and historical landmarks that deserve designation as national monuments, I believe Congress and the public must be consulted before any action is taken.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Dear Paul:

RE, National Monument

Mrs Quimby and the Sierra Club must believe that the Allagash Waterway and Baxter State Park are being mismanaged by the State of Maine. They both are insulting you, me and every other Mainer that cares about the wilderness.

Even Donn Fendler must be upset over Mrs Quimby and the Sierra Club wanting to ignore Maine's record on how Maine has preserve the Allagash Waterway and Baxter State Park for future generations to enjoy the wilderness adventure.

Over the years I have personally visited and enjoyed both the Allagash Waterway and Baxter State Park as managed by the State of Maine and find the State of Maine provided the type of experience a person expects when out in the wilderness.

Nobody has said or implied what is special about her land. Why, there is nothing extra special about it. It is wilderness with out a unique waterway and/or a unique mountain.

The view from her property of Mt. Katahdin/Baxter State Park is probably no more special then the view from Rt 11 going north into Patten.

Please speak up and tell the nation how insulted Mainers are by Mrs Quimby and the Sierra Club in her offer to turn her land over to the nation to be subdivided with paved roads on her too small piece of nothing special land for the thousands that they think will visit. After their first visit, they probably will not return because there is nothing special about like you get when you visit Sugarloaf or the White Mountains or Baxter Park or Allagash Waterway.

This is our last chance to get our message to Washington. Plan to be in East Millinocket June 1 if you can.

(See attachment)

Subject: Invitation from Congressman Poliquin to Congressional Field Hearing and Local Input Session on Proposed National Monument Designation

At the request of our own Congressman Poliquin, the US House of Representatives Committee on Natural Resources will hold a Congressional Field Hearing next week in the Katahdin Region specifically to hear the perspective of local residents on a potential national monument designation of 87,500 acres by President Obama as proposed by Roxanne Quimby and EPI. The field hearing, which will be presided over by the Chairman of that Committee, the Honorable Rob Bishop of Utah, will bring several members of Congress to Maine and be held at the East Millinocket Municipal Meeting starting at 2 p.m. on Wednesday, June 1. While there has been much focus out West about the local impacts of unilateral monument designation by the White House, this is the first Congressional conversation about this emerging and important issue here in the Northeast.

While the Committee invites the handful of witnesses who will formally testify per House hearing rules, in an effort to ensure as many local voices as possible are heard by the Committee and Congressman Poliquin, we will include extended time immediately following the formal hearing to hear input from area residents and stakeholders, starting at 3:30 p.m. and going until at least 6 p.m. so those who have to work can still participate.

So we can prioritize local voices and be responsive to individual schedules, we kindly ask that you let me know by this Friday at noon via email or by calling 784-0768 if you plan to attend and would like to speak, your town of residence and if you need to be scheduled after 5 p.m., which we will work to do our best to accommodate. To allow all voices, comments should be kept under three minutes.

Hope to see you next Wednesday and thank you for your efforts on behalf of northern Maine and our iconic forest economy.

For Governor Paul Lepage -

Thank you sir for standing up for the state of Maine and it's citizens and attempting to right the wrong that was done to us with the Presidential overreach that created the National Monument here. I sincerely hope that it is either rescinded outright, or given to the State. I wanted to share with you what I just emailed to Secretary of the Interior Ryan Zinke;

Secretary of Interior Ryan Zinke,

I am writing to urge you to review and rescind the Katahdin Woods and Waters national monument.

This monument was embroiled in controversy from the beginning. For nearly 20 years there have been a select few individuals who have been "hell bent" on creating a National Park here in Maine. The properties they have been interested in are mostly owned by timber companies and have a long history of allowing public access for all types of recreation including hunting, and managed by The North Maine Woods Inc. This type of allowed recreational access model is unique to Maine, and in my opinion should be lauded and used as an example for the rest of the country. One of the individuals (not local to Maine) whose mission it was to create a National Park here became wealthy and started buying up large tracts of land here known as kingdom lots with the sole intent of donating it to the Federal Government for a National Park. This individual and her ilk repeated described it as a "seed" from which to grow a much larger park. It was a symbiotic relationship between her and a particular timber company -- they would clear cut the land, she would pay them an amount that was equal to the value of the land as if it had not been cut, and then she would have wonderful pictures of all this land that needed to be "saved". Once her intentions of a National Park became public, our state legislature voted against it, the impacted towns voted against it, our senators and representatives were (at the time) against it, and the state of Maine as a whole was against it. Realizing she had no hope of ever getting her way with the people of the State of Maine she used her wealth and influence to get the President at the time to use the Antiquities Act to declare it a Monument. An act which in my opinion is effectively cheating as the majority of Mainers did not want this. And an act from which the State of Maine has no recourse other than through you, the President and Congress.

I respectfully urge you to please review this overreach of Presidential power, and if possible rescind this travesty on the State of Maine and it's residents.

Dear Governor Lepage

The people of the Katahdin region and all of Northern Maine ask for your support to use your influence and ask President Trump to do as he said he would do and abolish Maine's two recent National Monuments. As we move forward and rebuild our economy the last thing we need is the Federal Government rules and regulations getting in the way. Thank You Jim

Dear Governor LePage:

After President Trump is inaugurated and ready to listen to you, please ask him to reverse the Obama, land grab when he decreed "Katahdin National Monument".

He has injured Maine by denying wood products, hunting, fishing, trapping and isolating 87,500 previously private, productive acres from the tax rolls!

Please reverse this arrogant seizure. I hope you know how.

Thank you, Tom Burgess of Georgetown

Dear Governor LePage

How much tax revenue has the state lost by the transfer of 87,000 acres from private ownership to a national monument?

I totally despise how this whole process was handled. It is very obvious that the federal government had everything in place even without an official decree. The despicable BDN had their presses inked, articles written, self back-padding celebrations in place, thank you notes sent to Angus King while the Park Service had all of their bases manned, the deeds transferred on Tuesday, the executive order given on Wednesday and on Thursday the place was open for business, signs, office space, Park Service personnel posted in place. All of this without regard to the local residents dislike of the federal government taking over their part of the state.

I am pissed but am still one of your supporters who will applaud you for your candid opinions of right from wrong in government matters.

Governor LePage,

I was extremely disappointed by the unilateral designation of a national monument by President Obama. It will NOT result in any real benefit to the State of Maine but only feeds the ego of this administration and Roxanne Quimby. However, it appears we Mainers have no recourse as the deed is done. Since the land now belongs to the federal government, I suggest/demand that no Maine tax dollars be spent in support of any part of its operation. If a crime occurs within its borders, call the feds; a fire starts, place OUR fighters on its borders to prevent spreading to Maine; let the feds build any and all roads leading to and within the "monument"; any requests, forward to the feds. Provide NO support whatsoever, however small!

We have lost access to this area forever and have gained absolutely nothing. I predict that tourism and jobs will not increase one iota and, in fact, jobs will decline as a result of loss of timber operations.

Very Respectfully,

As you know, I believe President Obama will sign an executive order shortly after the November elections declaring the Quimby holdings a national monument. I thank you for your efforts to fight this and those in Washington and Maine who have made it happen.

I ask that you consider making a public offer to Quimby to accept the lands on behalf of the State to be used as a climate change mitigation policy laboratory and preserve rather than put them under federal and special interest control. Make Quimby turn that offer down before giving the land to the Feds and environmental interest group control.

Included with this note is a copy of a letter I sent to the Director of the National Park Service. It raises some questions as to the legitimacy of a new national monument or park in upstate Maine. Please give it some thought. Thank you.

Mr. Jon Jarvis – Director
National Park Service
1849 C Street NW
Washington, DC 20240

Dear Director Jarvis:

When I was thirteen years old, my folks decided it was past time to visit extended family living in Alaska. Dad and Mom were also of the opinion that their children should see as much of our country as possible during the trip. We took a more southerly route by car to Seattle and then traveled by plane to Anchorage. On the return leg, we took a northerly route back to our home in Connecticut.

We camped along the way, staying a total of only three nights in motels. Our travel was planned that we could visit as many national parks as possible. It was a wonderful experience and opportunity to see and learn first-hand about many aspects of our country. What a varied land! The tracts that were set aside for future generations to enjoy are incredible.

I presently have concerns regarding the designation of lands as national parks and monuments. There has been much talk and many newspaper articles written about a proposed national park in northern Maine. Indeed, you traveled to Maine to listen to comments by citizens about the matter, to bring more information to the table and provide answers to questions. One proposed stepping stone to having the land become a national park is to have the acreage declared a national monument by an executive order by the President.

American citizens are used to the place that national parks hold in our country. They have existed in the U.S. for many generations. However, there have come to mind some questions that involve the U.S. Constitution. They are as follows:

1. Where in the U.S. Constitution is it written that the federal government is authorized to hold lands under its control?
2. Where in the U.S. Constitution is the President authorized to designate a national monument under an executive order? According the American College Dictionary, a monument does not include land, rivers or lakes. Does the broadly interpreted Antiquities Act allow such action by the executive branch? Is there a conflict between the Constitution/Bill of Rights and the Act? If so, should not the Constitution prevail?

3. Where in the U.S. Constitution is the authorization for the federal government to hand over control of our parks and monuments to another power?

Taking the questions in order:

1. The Tenth amendment to the Constitution states that, "The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people." It seems clear that the federal government does not have the authority to designate a land area as a national park under the "law of the land". It is for the individual states to designate those lands to be preserved as state parks.
2. The powers of the Executive Branch do not include the issuance of executive orders having the authority of law. According to the Constitution, only Congress is allowed that authority.
3. In 1972 the World Heritage Treaty was signed. In July of 2001 it was reported by The National Center for Public Policy Research that since the signing, 68% of all National Parks, monuments and preserves have been designated World Heritage Sites and fall under the authority of the United Nations. The protection of our treasured lands by Constitutional means is a worthy undertaking. However, the treaty cedes control of U.S. territory to another authority and thereby threatens the sovereignty of our country. In turn, that threatens some of our individual rights and freedoms.

I hope you will be able to provide clear answers to the questions posed. Thank you in advance for your time and response.

Sincerely,

Brian Dobbs

Dear Governor Lepage,

March 30, 2017

I am concerned about the Katahdin-area National Monument and how it will affect us as a state. I do not believe that we should make the katahdin-area a national monument.

The national monument will seriously affect the recreation in the area. The new monument will put partial and complete restrictions on different forms of recreation in the area. In the winter, snowmobilers are only allowed access to a part of the land. If the national monument is created, snowmobilers may lose trails that go through the area. In Yellowstone National Park, snowmobile rules and regulations are now very extensive, including an age requirement. In Yellowstone, snowmobile drivers must have a driver's license. I am fifteen years old, do not have a driver's license and enjoy snowmobiling almost every weekend in the area that the national monument is being proposed. I believe that the regulations in Yellowstone National Park could possibly have an influence on the national monument in Maine and would restrict many young riders from snowmobiling and participating in other types of recreation in the area. Though the monument could attract more tourism, the surrounding area will become more populated. Mainers enjoy going to this area to get away from other people, and enjoy the outdoors. With the increased tourism, the area would become busier and would not be as desirable a place to get away and experience the outdoors.

Dear Governor LePage,

It was with great relief and deep appreciation that we read your recent letter to President Trump urging him to abolish the Katahdin Woods and Waters National Monument.

Your input on this issue is vital to the people and businesses of northern Maine, especially now, with the lack of support we have from the members of our Congressional delegation. Despite the efforts of the Maine press to discourage elimination of this monument, the people of the Katahdin region remain strongly opposed to it, as evidenced in recent polls and social media.

The President must be made aware that we are not being represented by our delegation. Your voice must carry our message to make him realize his intentions to abolish the monument are truly in our best interests.

Our organization has been the voice of thousands of people who work in the forest industry and we want to do all that we can in this effort. The interests of our allies in the Maine Snowmobile Association and the Maine Forest Products are also better served with the monument gone or managed by the State of Maine.

Thank you again for sending this critical letter to President Trump. We deeply appreciate your work to eliminate the federal intrusion in the Maine woods.

Dear Governor LePage,

Monday, May 22, 2017

The Board of Directors of the Maine Professional Guides Association asked that I write you to encourage you to continue work on improving the process by which National Monuments are declared. As you know we are an organization of 1100 members each a small or indeed micro business. We are the folks who convert the academic discussion of economic value of recreation on remote lands into real cash that spreads through our local communities.

The Association has been opposed to the idea of a national park in Maine's North Woods since 2001. We have been supportive of other land conservation efforts in the state and I expect will support those efforts in the future. Indeed conserved land is a stable platform for our members to build and operate their businesses on.

Our reasons for opposing are simple. The Park system is not "guide friendly" this is not just hearsay from our peers around the country, although there is plenty of that. Rather from firsthand exchanges with our own Acadia National Park. Those concerns were raised at the listening session last spring but were quickly dismissed by the Park Service as not founded.

Time has proven that our concerns were not misplaced at all. As of this morning permits that would allow guides to offer their services in the new National Monument have still not available. At the very least some of our members have lost a summer season and perhaps a fall as well. Or as many of our members have feared there is a "preferred list" of individuals and organizations that will be given permits to operate in the new Monument.

At the very least the promised economic benefit from the new Monument will not be accruing to our member's businesses in the short term even after the issue was brought up in an open public meeting. We encourage you to do what you can to ensure that other states and regions do not cut out the small businesses that represent the foundation of the local economy in future designations.

Thank you very much for taking a minute to hear our concerns about this important topic.

Best regards,

Executive Director

WHEREAS, Maine residents and visitors enjoy the privilege of using large tracts of private land in the north woods for recreational uses such as snowmobiling, hunting, hiking, fishing, bird watching and other activities; and

The Honorable Donald J. Trump
President of the United States of America

Dear Mr. President,

I am writing to ask for your assistance in rectifying a grave injustice that has been done to the people of Maine and our forest economy. Former President Obama designated the Katahdin Woods and Waters National Monument in Northern Maine shortly before he left office, despite repeated objections by residents of the affected area through local referendums and in spite of state legislative action. I have attached a copy of my April 22, 2016 letter to President Obama expressing clear opposition to the establishment of a national park, as well as supporting documentation. On behalf of the Maine people, I am going on record once again as opposed to the creation of a national park or monument in Northern Maine.

Regarding the national monument designation, "those cold timid souls who neither know victory or defeat" argue that you, as President, cannot undo a national monument designation because it has never been done before. They also never envisioned President Trump. I strongly urge you to undo the designation and return the land to private ownership before economic damage occurs and traditional recreational pursuits are diminished.

In the alternative, assuming the land remains in federal ownership, I believe the land should be managed by the State of Maine to ensure it can benefit all Maine people and accommodate the region's economic and recreational needs. Who better to manage a public resource in Maine than the people who live in Maine? One of the many arguments made against creation of a national park or monument is that new federal land abuts Maine's extraordinary and unique Baxter State Park. State management of the land would complement and ensure the "forever wild" status of that park without doing harm to the region and the Maine economy.

I remain hopeful and optimistic that the overwhelming support you received from voters in this region, especially those in our Second Congressional District, will result in bold policies that create jobs, restore our national identity, ensure our place in the world and make the Maine woods great again.

Dear Mr. President:

A year ago today, I wrote you to express my strong opposition to the creation of a National Park in the Katahdin region. I am, again, writing you to reaffirm my concerns regarding increased federal ownership of land in Maine and to inform you and your Office of how this issue has transformed over the past year.

As you know, there has been a multi-year discussion regarding the creation of a National Park in Northern Maine. This conversation heated up heading into 2016, the year we celebrate the 100th anniversary of the National Park Service. In Maine, that conversation, however, has not gone particularly well for proponents of a National Park.

Since I wrote you a year ago today, three local communities have held municipal referenda regarding the creation of a National Park or National Monument – all three communities voted against this plan by wide margins. On June 23, 2015, the town of Medway held a local referendum, where over 70 percent of those voters rejected the creation of a National Park in Northern Maine. On June 29, 2015, the town of East Millinocket held a local referendum, where over 60 percent of those voters rejected the creation of a National Park in Northern Maine. Most recently, on April 19, 2016, the town of Patten held a local referendum, where almost 70 percent of those voters rejected the creation of a National Park or National Monument in Northern Maine. The concept simply is not catching on locally.

While local residents have been expressing their opposition to more federal ownership of land in Maine, members of Maine's Congressional delegation has responded with various reactions, from qualified support to outright opposition. I understand you received some correspondence from members of the State's Congressional delegation outlining their list of conditions that must be met before they would explore Congressional authorization to create a National Park in Maine.

Given the lack of local support for this proposal and the less than enthusiastic support by members of Maine's Congressional delegation, proponents of a National Park abruptly changed their plans in the fall of 2015. As you and your Office well know, supporters have now begun advocating for the creation of a National Monument, as opposed to a National Park. At first, I was surprised by this change because proponents of a National Park were so strongly convinced of the economic benefits that would flow from tapping into the National Park "brand" that I assumed they would never settle for National Monument status. Politics, however, is "the art of the possible" and proponents must have realized that a National Park was impossible.

In any event, this proposal has transformed, yet again, and the discussion now has shifted to the creation of a National Monument in Northern Maine. Regardless of the title, I remain steadfastly opposed to this project and to increased federal ownership of land in Maine. I am simply not convinced that a National Park or a National Monument is needed in Maine, as we already have a strong conservation ethos in this State. From the creation of Baxter State Park to current day efforts to conserve land, Mainers have worked to protect what makes our State unique. This includes close to 4 million acres of conserved land held in fee or easement by public and private entities. We are already doing this work, without the help of the federal government.

Of course, I am not the only person in Maine government strongly opposed to the creation of a National Monument in Northern Maine. This year, a majority of the Maine Legislature also saw fit to act in opposition to a National Monument - this includes the Democratically controlled Maine House. Just this month, I signed LD 1600 into law after receiving this bill from the Legislature. A copy of this bill, which revokes Maine's consent for the federal government to exercise exclusive jurisdiction over a National Monument in this State, is attached.

While I appreciate that under the Antiquities Act, you are the sole decision maker regarding the designation of National Monuments, I did want to provide you and your Office with these developments regarding this matter in Maine. As you can see, support at the local, state and even federal level, through Maine's Congressional delegation, is minimal at best. Please consider this information and my strong opposition to the creation of a National Monument as your Office continues to be lobbied on this issue.

Sincerely,

Paul R. LePage

An Act Regarding Consent to Land Transfers to the Federal Government

Be it enacted by the People of the State of Maine as follows:

Sec. 1. 1 MRSA §15 is amended to read:

§15. Consent of Legislature to acquisition of land by United States for public buildings; record of conveyances

In accordance with the Constitution of the United States, Article I, Section VIII, Clause 17, and Acts of Congress in such cases provided, the consent of the Legislature is given to the acquisition by the United States, or under its authority, by purchase, condemnation or otherwise, of any land in this State required for the erection of lighthouses or for sites for customhouses, courthouses, post offices, arsenals or other public buildings, or for any other purposes of the government, except for the designation of property as a national monument pursuant to 54 United States Code, Section 320301 (2015). Deeds and conveyances or title papers for the same shall must be recorded upon the land records of the county or registry district in which the land so conveyed may lie; and in like manner may be recorded a sufficient description by metes and bounds, courses and distances, of any tracts and legal divisions of any public lands belonging to the United States set apart by the general government for either of the purposes before mentioned, by an order, patent or other official paper so describing such land.

Dear Senator Collins, Senator King, Congressman Poliquin and Congresswoman Pingree:

I am writing to you due to my concerns about a growing threat to Maine's workers who rely on the State's natural resources economy. It has just come to my attention that the White House is actively exploring designating areas within the Gulf of Maine as a National Marine Monument under the Antiquities Act. Additionally, I am hearing more and more that National Park proponents are considering seeking a National Monument designation after their proposal was defeated at the polls in Medway and East Millinocket.

As you know, Congress has given the President broad powers under the Antiquities Act to designate federal land a National Monument. Fundamentally, I oppose this power because it is so sweeping and it provides few procedural protections to those who are likely to be most affected – those who rely on the natural resources-based economy. Under this power, the President has absolute discretion regarding how comments are solicited and which interests are taken into consideration before land is put off limits to commercial uses.

In addition to my general concerns, I am also opposed to the specific projects in question. A National Marine Monument putting Cashes Ledge and undersea canyons and seamounts in the Gulf of Maine off-limits to commercial fishing activity will affect Maine's offshore lobstermen, tuna fishermen, herring fishermen and groundfish fishermen. Moreover, this comes on the heels of a roughly ten-year habitat amendment process at the New England Fishery Management Council. It looks like environmental interest groups that are unhappy with that process are now going to a higher authority to upend the result achieved by the Council. Procedurally, this type of end-run is a terrible precedent.

I have been following closely the effort to create a new National Park in the Millinocket area. This is not the first time a federal takeover of the Baxter Park Area has been proposed. Unfortunately, this time we do not have Governor Baxter himself leading the charge against this maneuver as we did in the 1930s. I have been somewhat dismayed members of the Maine congressional delegation have yet to take a position on this matter, particularly in light of this summer's lopsided votes against this proposal in the towns of Medway and East Millinocket. Now, I am hearing even more troubling rumblings coming out of Washington that park proponents are trying an end-run by seeking a National Monument designation by President Obama under the Antiquities Act.

Frankly, the more I come to learn about the National Monument process the more astounded I am. This law and the power it gives to the President is a complete abdication of Congressional authority by allowing the President unilaterally to declare land off limits. The potential for misuse of this power is concerning. In fact, this authority can create a situation like we are now facing in Maine where park proponents are considering asking the President to intercede despite the will of the Maine voters who rejected this proposal this year. Of course, this would not be the first time the liberal elite thought they knew what was best for rural Mainers.

As you all know, so much of Maine's economy relies on access to our natural resources. The President's authority under the Antiquities Act puts Mainers at risk by making these natural resources off limits. In the Millinocket area, a National Monument designation makes Maine timber off limits to the forest products industry. The National Maritime Monument designation that has just been threatened in the Gulf of Maine will harm Maine's commercial fishermen by excluding commercial fishing from certain areas of the ocean. I want to ask you to do everything in your power as our representatives in Washington to resist these efforts and to reform the Antiquities Act. Maine's natural resource-based economy cannot afford to allow the President to continue to retain this unfettered power.

Thank you for your attention to this letter.

Paul R. LePage

Dear Chairman Bishop and Ranking Member Grijalva:

I am writing to you, again, regarding a proposal to create a National Park in the Katahdin region. As you may recall, I recently contacted your Committee to express my strong opposition to this proposal that would involve transferring roughly 150,000 acres of land abutting Baxter State Park to the federal government for management by the National Park Service.

Opposition to this proposal continues to grow in Maine. One of the primary concerns now being expressed about this proposal is the fact that the landowner involved continues to discuss a 150,000 acre transfer to the federal government, but owns less than 60 percent of this land. Serious questions about ownership of this land remain unanswered. Most concerning are questions regarding the potential use of eminent domain by the federal government, should the National Park Service get a foothold in this area.

Given the specter of loss of property rights in the region, opposition to this proposal has coalesced. Enclosed is a list of over 200 Maine businesses, most in the forest products industry, that have expressed their opposition to this proposal. More importantly, two communities in close proximity to the proposed park area recently held municipal votes and resoundingly rejected this concept. On June 23rd, over 70 percent of those who voted in a local referendum regarding this proposal in the town of Medway voted in opposition to this concept. On June 29th, over 60 percent of those who voted in a similar local referendum in the town of East Millinocket also voted against this proposal. Voter participation was over 35 percent in both communities.

I want to remain perfectly clear, I, as Maine's Chief Executive, oppose the establishment of a second National Park in Maine. While I remain Governor, the State of Maine will not welcome a National Park to this State.

The Honorable Barack Obama
President of the United States
The White House

Washington, DC 20500

Dear Mr. President:

I am writing to convey to you and your Administration my strong opposition to creating a National Park in the Katahdin region.

There is currently a proposal under discussion that would involve establishing both a National Park and a National Recreation Area in Northern Maine. While this "proposal" is constantly shifting as new objections to this concept arise, recent discussions involve transferring roughly 150,000 acres of land to the federal government for management by the National Park Service. While I appreciate the interest in land conservation, I cannot support ceding control of this land to the federal government and I will do everything within our power to ensure that this ill-conceived scheme is unsuccessful. I am joined by the Maine Legislature, which last spoke on this issue by adopting the enclosed Joint Resolution in opposition to the creation of a National Park, a Joint Resolution that received only 3 dissenting votes from the 186 members of the Maine Legislature.

Mainers have a long tradition of outdoor recreation, including hunting, trapping, fishing, snowmobiling and using ATVs. Unfortunately, the National Park Service largely deems these land uses incompatible with a National Park. The creation of another National Park in Maine will only diminish the ability of Mainers to access land and Great Ponds in Northern Maine for traditional activities. Of particular concern are the potential effects of a National Park on the continuity of the snowmobile trail system in Maine, a system that the State and private individuals have invested heavily in for years.

Proponents of another National Park in Maine have tried touting the economic benefits of this scheme by discussing studies performed by a pro-National Park consultancy. These economic promises, based on loose comparisons to other regions of the United States, provide only false hope to those who live in this region. The Katahdin region is certainly in need of economic development, but it will not be achieved through a National Park. This region's assets include access to important private infrastructure and Maine's forestry resources. These strengths, which will lead to economic recovery, are exactly what are put in danger by a National Park that seeks to prevent the use of Maine's natural resources. This proposal would have negative ramifications for the immediate area and the rest of the State by placing additional limits on Maine's wood supply.

I also have strong concerns regarding the loss of local and state control of this area. This land is successfully and actively managed now under existing state and local regulation. It will only be more susceptible to the dangers of forest fire than it is at present due to the National Park Service's prohibition on timber harvesting. Subjecting this land to federal oversight has the potential not only to take this land off of the tax rolls but also to shift the center of decision-making for this property out of Maine and to Washington D.C. When there are problems with Maine's State Parks, Mainers know whom to call to get these issues resolved. Federal oversight, however, means Mainers would be dependent on a largely unaccountable and faceless bureaucracy hundreds of miles away to resolve their problems. Is the federal government the best steward and best manager of this land? Is the National Park Service that is dependent on annual appropriations and is the subject of occasional government shutdowns the proper entity to oversee more land in Maine? Clearly, this is not government closest to the people.

I am also gravely concerned about this proposal's impact on what would be neighboring Baxter State Park. This Park, which was established in the 1930s, is one of Maine's greatest achievements and was a gift of former Governor Percival Baxter to the people of Maine. Proponents of this proposal, which would border Baxter State Park, have been silent as to the impact on our existing Park. If the proposed National Park would really result in the number of visitors projected, how could this proposal not forever change the face of Baxter State Park, which contains the only land of true significance in this area? Governor Baxter himself in 1936 recognized that the State Park land was the only land of significance, stating "All the land outside is just more wild land, such land as can be found in countless places within our state."

You see, Mr. President, this is not the first time a National Park has been proposed in this area. In the mid-1930's, there was serious thought given to making the Katahdin region a National Park. Legislation to this effect was even introduced in Congress. At that point, then former Governor Baxter recognized the folly in this idea and he successfully waged a personal battle for years to stop a National Park from being established in this exact area of Maine. In a letter to Dr. Earle A. Pritchard, who worked for the National Park Service, Governor Baxter stated "I certainly hope the Federal Government will not come into this region and as to the second suggestion that Baxter State Park be merged into a National Park it just cannot be done" Governor Baxter, during the height of the Great Depression, did not think that the benefits of a National Park in the Katahdin region outweighed what would be lost by the people of Maine. I'm afraid that same calculus still holds true.

Maine is no stranger to the cause of conservation, with Baxter State Park being the prime example of this ethic. Currently, more than 3.5 million acres of our State are protected by conservation easements. This includes over 2.1 million acres of productive, working forestland. If additional land needs to be protected in the Katahdin region to spur economic development, I welcome that discussion with proponents of a National Park, and I would gladly consider expanding Baxter State Park to make that a reality. Federal control of this area, however, is completely unnecessary and counterproductive to growing the economy of this region.

Dear Governor LePage,

Monday, May 22, 2017

The Board of Directors of the Maine Professional Guides Association asked that I write you to encourage you to continue work on improving the process by which National Monuments are declared. As you know we are an organization of 1100 members each a small or indeed micro business. We are the folks who convert the academic discussion of economic value of recreation on remote lands into real cash that spreads through our local communities.

The Association has been opposed to the idea of a national park in Maine's North Woods since 2001. We have been supportive of other land conservation efforts in the state and I expect will support those efforts in the future. Indeed conserved land is a stable platform for our members to build and operate their businesses on.

Our reasons for opposing are simple. The Park system is not "guide friendly" this is not just hearsay from our peers around the country, although there is plenty of that. Rather from firsthand exchanges with our own Acadia National Park. Those concerns were raised at the listening session last spring but were quickly dismissed by the Park Service as not founded.

Time has proven that our concerns were not misplaced at all. As of this morning permits that would allow guides to offer their services in the new National Monument have still not been available. At the very least some of our members have lost a summer season and perhaps a fall as well. Or as many of our members have feared there is a "preferred list" of individuals and organizations that will be given permits to operate in the new Monument.

At the very least the promised economic benefit from the new Monument will not be accruing to our member's businesses in the short term even after the issue was brought up in an open public meeting. We encourage you to do what you can to ensure that other states and regions do not cut out the small businesses that represent the foundation of the local economy in future designations.

Thank you very much for taking a minute to hear our concerns about this important topic.

Best regards,

Executive Director

An organization of professional guides dedicated to promoting a quality, ethical outdoor experience.
