Senate Committee Approves Regulatory Oversight Bills

On Wednesday, May 17, the Senate Committee on Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs held a full-committee business meeting to markup a number of regulatory oversight bills. The committee reported out six bills by roll call vote and 12 bills by voice vote en bloc. The bills next go to the full Senate for consideration Bills of interest to the Service include:

- S. 951, a bill to reform the process by which Federal agencies analyze and formulate new regulations and guidance documents, and for other purposes
- S. 21, a bill to provide that major rules of the executive branch shall have no force or effect unless a joint resolution of approval is enacted into law
- S. 579, a bill to require agencies to publish an advance notice of proposed rule-making for major rules
- S. 760, a bill to expand the Government's use and administration of data to facilitate transparency, effective governance, and innovation, and for other purposes
- S. 1088, a bill to require the collection of voluntary feedback on services provided by agencies, and for other purposes

Committee members spoke to many issues of interest to the Service, including:

- Chairman Ron Johnson (R-WI) stated that the greatest threat to economic growth is over-regulation He emphasized the importance of certainty and consistency in regulations and the regulatory process for business decisions
- Ranking Member Claire McCaskill (D-MO) discussed that bills aiming to combine actions of Congressional disapproval on large sets of regulations into one vote do not foster individual consideration of regulations on their merit but rather push members to vote on party lines She also expressed concerns that S 951, the Regulatory Accountability Act, would lead to more litigation on regulations, longer regulatory processes, and more uncertainty for private citizens and businesses
- Senator Rob Portman (R-OH) stated that S 951 would be the first update to the Administrative Procedures Act in 70 years, would make regulations more cost-effective, and would make the regulatory process more accountable to the public
- Senator Rand Paul (R-KY) discussed S 21, the Regulations in Need of Scrutiny (REINS) Act, stating that the founders intended for actions that affect our economy to originate in Congress and suggesting that Congress should approve major regulations before they take effect
