Yes from DOD, no substance; they have no changes to propose or concerns to raise, but if we plan to recommend changes to any of a list of monuments sent as second attachment on plain white paper, they would like to discuss to see if they could get a better deal than first time around re access for DOD activities. Will forward momentarily. All are terrestrial. I need to find my DOE contact and see if they will have any comments, on my to-do list for this afternoon.

Thanks.

Did DOI ever get anything from DOD or any other Fed agency?

The message this morning was premature - we received 2 comments on Native Hawaiians, below; the full summary is attached.

 Hi Randy-

I was putting the finishing touches on our comment summary and noticed we had comments regarding 3 specific monuments that appear to be marine monuments. They are:

Gillespie, John	Opposes the Monument status of the Northwest Hawaiian Island Hoomalu Zone . "My operations suffered the institution of monument status...I, one of 5 limited entry permit holders were displaced from valuable bottomfish in this region without compensation. This has had devastating effects on the fishing community and individuals..."
[Jay Levy	I support keeping Kathadin Waters Memorial , which is under review even though it's under a hundred thousand acres. We need to respect each other and each other's culture, especially with respect to the land.] not marine monument. RB
Trask, Mililani	Request for DOI to support the repeal of the Northwest Hawaiian Island Papahānaumoku Monument . "The Monument and its expansion diminished the boundaries of the State of Hawaii by hundreds of thousands of nautical miles....eradicated 2/3ds of our State EEZ and significantly imputed our State's economic income...our State Constitution provides that native Hawaiians have a right to access our State lands for cultural purposes, but the Monument regulations fail to provide a process for the exercise of cultural subsistence fishing or voyaging."

I will send you the full comment summary shortly.

Thanks!
Liz

Hi Randy-

Please find attached a summary compilation of the comments we received as a result of the Dear Tribal Leader letter request for comments. This compilation includes comments submitted in writing and comments made at Tribal listening sessions.

Do you know what the next steps are for review of comments? Are there any meetings of the Monument Review Team scheduled?

Thanks!
Liz
