Brendan is OK for doing the project for the Secretary I mentioned yesterday; details are below. Could you check with Jim to be sure its OK for Brendan to take time for this? I talked with Jim in the cafeteria this morning but had not seen Brendan's reply at that point, so did not ask him myself. I then accidentally sent this to "drafts" rather than to you.

Randy,
As long as the comments are in order, or sortable in Excel, this sounds doable. USPS has a tool for matching zip codes with states, all I need to do is get Jims blessing and I'll be good to go

The Secretary is very interested to know where public comments from the monument review have come from. Unfortunately, when Exec Sec established the DOI master account at regulations.gov, they did not provide a field for those commenting to enter their state, only the zip code. Entering the zip code is optional, and on the monument comments, about 95,000 people did.

The regulations.gov staff have provided us with a spreadsheet listing all the 95,000 commentors' zip codes, in numerical order. We need someone with some tech skills to get a zip code directory, sort the comment zip codes on the spreadsheet by state, and then total the number of commentors providing zip codes for each State.

The spreadsheet also shows record number, first and last name, and in a few cases, organization, but those are not important, only the number of comments by state.

Is this something you could do, and if so, do you have time?

If yes, Cathy, would you please ask Jim if its OK for Brendan to do this?

I will then send you the spreadsheet.
