Subject: Current round of comments coded
Date: Monday, June 19, 2017 7:06:01 AM

Congratulations to all, as this round of nearly 8,000 comments is coded already. We received some help from Dr. Shulman's graduate students, but it is still a major accomplishment.

Please stand by for notice on when the next round of comments are available. This round was completed so much faster than I anticipated that I had not made specific plans for when to move the next round from regs.gov to DiscoverText.

As I noted to some of you, we have stopped uploading postcards, so while there may be still be some that have not yet been coded, which will show up in the next round, that will stop. I will also work with our uploading team today to see how we can improve the presentation of what are now labeled as "attached Attachments", as many of you expressed concern over these.
