

Exploratory oil and gas wells that have been drilled in the Albuquerque Basin. Also shown is the limit of Cretaceous strata that defines the basin boundaries for exploration purposes. Well numbers refer to those in the table on the following pages.

Figure 14
Oil and Gas Exploration Wells
in the Albuquerque Basin

Mineral Resource Potential
 U.S. Bureau of Land Management
 Rio Puerco Field Office, NM

Source:
 Broadhead, Ron, 2009, Oil and Natural Gas Potential in the Albuquerque Basin, in Greer Price, L., Bland, D., Johnson, P.S., and Connell, S.D., 2009, Water, Natural Resources, and the Urban Landscape, The Albuquerque Region, Decision-Makers Field Conference: New Mexico Bureau of Geology and Mineral Resources, p. 80-86.

