I strongly urge you not to install a pipeline from eastern Nevada to Las Vegas. Look what happened to the Owens Valley in eastern California----all the farms dried up. The Los Angeles Water District bought up the land at inflated prices, and when the farms turned to dust they paid pennys on the dollar for the remaining farms. Look at Mono Lake---what a disaster. Its a salt pond supporting NO life !

This is a long shot, but why not bite the bullet now, before construction costs rise, and look into de-salinazation of sea water? There is a pipeline from the coast now that transports fuel to Las Vegas. Does this flow 24/7 ? Ships use sea-water in the fuel tanks for ballast, without a problem.

How about the hotels saving water? When I was in the U.S.Navy, and stayed in hotels in Las Vegas, I used more water in one shower than I did taking 3-4 showers at home. I have a low flow shower head.

It's too bad we can't get some of the water from the all the flooding back in the mid west.

Again, please don't make the eastern part of our state another OWENS VALLEY.
