

Randy Pew
<randy.pew@gmail.com>
06/28/2011 11:54 AM

To nvgwprojects@blm.gov
cc bcc Subject

You should do all in your power to prevent the LVWD from doing any of this project. allowing them to remove water from the areas in the North East areas of the State of Nevada and western Utah. This project is wrong on many levels. The Water District just needs to admit that they only have a limited amount of water for sale and stop allowing more and more water connections to be sold. They were near a crisis this year before the wet winter that is allowing more water to be released into lake Mead. They of course think that all of that water is theirs, it is not. I am sure they are already selling more water than they have a right to sell.

When Southern Utah and Arizona start taking all that they are entitled to take (which is already starting in Southern Utah), that is going to hurt everyone in Las Vegas when they have to start cutting back on the water used for landscaping and etc. The whole valley will truly return to a tree less desert status.

Additionally the under ground lake they want to tap into would be sucked dry by them in no time and could kill all the towns for a 100 mile around. It could take decades for the underground lake to return to Any where near normal levels after the pumping was stopped.

Bottom line is Vegas has to come realise that they are as big as they can ever feasibly be and deal with it.