

Links to Regulations and Other Sites - Links to the solid mineral regulations above have been provided for your information (clicking on them will take you to the electronic CFR that is maintained by the Government Printing Office). You are welcome to review paper copies of the solid mineral regulations and pamphlets at the BLM office nearest to you (see the location of BLM offices at our home page www.blm.gov/nhp/index.htm). For those interested in information about the status of proposed rules and the publication of final rules, you may go to www.blm.gov/nhp/news/regulatory/index.htm. The BLM usually sends news releases about changes to regulations to media outlets within each state; however, newspapers and radio stations are not required to publish or report such. Each office should be able to provide information about what you may need to file if you wish to explore for or develop solid leasable minerals, locatable minerals and mineral materials.
